What Will Labor Do?

Women as Lawmakers.

365 P. C. a Year.

$90,000,000,000 Income.

LABOR appears to have won the British election.

British labor is socialistic, much of it communistic, but of mild communism.

Imagine the panic in dear old Wall Street and every well-organized financial mind if Labor and socialism controlled the government of this country.

But the British will manage. They "muddle through" because they have common sense and British labor has honest, intelligent leaders.

Ramsay MacDonald is as good a man as there is in Britain, although not as great or able a statesman as Lloyd George.

Millions of Britishers that do not like Lady Astor's politics are glad she is re-elected.

Thirteen women will sit in the new House of Commons. Four are in our House of Representatives. There ought to be at least 200.

Soon there will be a woman in the Senate. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, now in the House of Representatives, will be sent to the Senate next spring by the people of Illinois. They recognize earnestness and ability, and are proud of their intelligent women.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business. He shall stand before kings." The Bible says it, and Wall Street brokers can prove it.

Financial gentlemen, diligent in their business, have arranged to charge 1 per cent on a call "day loan." That is, for temporary certification of overdraft for one day.

That little charge, dearly beloved, is at the rate of 365 per cent a year.

Professor Copeland of Cornell, after a careful investigation, figures the income of the United States at ninety billion a year.

About a year ago, Mr. Ecker gave the same figures. His work as president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. gives him accurate information.

The important fact supplied by Mr. Ecker is that wages and salaries equal sixty billion a year.

Living expenses equal forty-five billion, leaving fifteen billion over, as a "backing" for national prosperity, luxuries, investments, etc.

For those who take golf seriously and don't believe the professional who says, "You look up and stop short in your swing," the latest idea is to have a slow motion moving picture made of the play in action. Try it if you can afford it, you will be surprised.

Many of us would be surprised to see a slow moving picture of our brains, if that were possible.

Colonel Lindbergh's name will appear on the social register, after his wife. Later, his may appear first, but a million or two months to go.

That means nothing to the average homesteader on the Mojave Desert. It means a good deal in New York.

In 1928 suicide rates were the highest in 12 years, about 18 in 100,000 in 100 cities. Anxiety of one kind or another was responsible for 90 per cent of the suicides.

Stock exchange gambling doubtless had something to do with it.

At 10 o'clock a few gentlemen gather together in New York and announce what the call money interest rates will be for that day. Somebody in Congress should start an investigation and find out just who these gentlemen are and how they reach the conclusion that 15 per cent or 20 per cent is desirable.

Whether they were long or short. That makes a difference. It would take 20 per cent money to enable you to "get back in the market" if you sold out too soon.

The motto of the Pacific Coast seems to be: "If you haven't got a thing, get it."

The city of Stockton, the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys can produce enough for 4 to feed a great part of the world.

But the place needs a harbor for ships, and will have it. Stockton, the State of California and the federal government this year will dig a deep water channel to the sea, and Stockton will have a harbor "big enough to hold 90 per cent of the ships that come through the Golden Gate."

No one knows what the future of the Pacific coast will be, or what the size of inland harbors built will be, wherever men want them.

Mr. George E. Moore of No. 53 Vanderbilt ave., New York City, can tell about an electric shovel that digs 15 cubic yards of earth at one bite. You can dig out another Lake Michigan with a tool like that. Given machinery PLUS POWER, everything is possible.

JAIL PROBE FOR NEW BEDFORD

Charges of "inhuman treatment" of federal prisoners at the New Bedford Jail, made today by United States officials in Boston and denied by Sheriff Willett at the jail, will bring about a thorough federal investigation of the prison.

Although the sheriff vigorously denied all charges, an equally determined stand has been taken officially by Elihu H. Stone of Boston, assistant U. S. attorney.

"In my opinion, the New Bedford prison is an unfit place for a prisoner," Stone wrote to his superiors in Washington.

This letter was sent to the superintendent of the federal jails, who supervises matters relating to all federal prisoners.

KEPT IN "SOLITARY"

According to federal authorities, conditions at New Bedford have become "too difficult" that two Federal prisoners have been ordered transferred to other prisons, although their terms have many months to go.

Formal complaints have been made to U. S. District Attorney Tarr in Boston that Federal prisoners are ill-treated at the jail. Charges of 28-hour solitary confinement periods each day and of only one hour a week for exercise have been made by at least two prisoners.

The two ordered transferred following their complaints of inhumane treatment are:

SLAIN BOY'S BROTHER DYING

Tragedy stalked again today through the Roxbury boarding house for children, where John Fitzpatrick, four, died following a beating administered because he had refused to lisp his prayers.

While police held Mrs. Agnes Fitzpatrick, 25, on [illegible] battery charge in connection with the boy's death, her younger child, Edward, 2½, was dying from pneumonia in the same home where both were being boarded.

Judge Hayden, in Roxbury court, refused to issue a manslaughter warrant for Mrs. Fitzpatrick, because of the medical examiner's statement that the whipping given John may have been but a contributory cause of his death.

He continued the case until June 8, releasing the mother in custody of the probation officer and informing the prosecuting officers that if new evidence disclosed in their present investigation warranted

1 Dead, 17 Hurt by Autos

Automobile accidents in Dorchester, Revere, Sudbury and Wrentham took a toll today of one dead and 17 injured.

A boy was killed beneath the wheels of a truck in Dorchester. Four persons were injured in a collision on Broadway, Revere. In Wrentham five tourists from New Jersey were badly hurt when their car crashed a pole, and in Sudbury a railway motorbus crashed into a truck, injuring six passengers.

Arthur O'Brien, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Brien of Walnut st., Neponset, met death beneath the wheels of a truck being driven in Neponset ave., Dorchester, by Peter J. O'Malley of Silva st., South Boston. The child was run down, identified until two hours after his death. O'Malley was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

CAUSED BY CALLING IN OF LOANS

Hundreds of New England investors and several millions of dollars of New England investment capital were involved today in the forced suspension of the business of Taylor, Ewart & Co., Chicago investment bankers, with a Boston branch, who handle approximately $80,000,000 in securities annually.

Taylor, Ewart & Co. suspended operations here and in the Chicago home office and in its 11 branches throughout the country after New York and Chicago banks suddenly called loans totaling $4,000,000 that had been made to the firm.

The Boston branch of the company has been open for two years, handling the business of many scores of New England investors.

MANAGER'S STATEMENT.

Charles R Carney, manager of the Boston office, said he would not hazard a guess as to the amount of New England capital invested through the Taylor Ewart & Co. office here, but admitted the sum would run into millions of dollars.

First announcement of the called loans and suspension of the firm's activities was contained in an announcement made at Chicago by L. R. Dillett, secretary and treasurer of the brokerage house.

Three New York banks, the Guaranty Trust Co., the Seaboard National and the New York National took the initiative in withdrawing their demand loans and their action was followed immedi-

POSTPONE KING 'THANKS' DAY

Windsor, Eng., June 1—Physicians attending King George today advised that thanksgiving services for his recovery last winter be postponed from June 16.

The following bulletin was issued:

"His Majesty passed a good night. The abscess, so far, is following a normal course, which, in the nature of things, must be tedious. We accordingly advise that the thanksgiving service should be deferred to a later date."

Later the dean of Westminster announced the thanksgiving service had been indefinitely postponed.

POLICE SEEKING LOST DOCTOR

Police have been asked to search for Dr. James H. Harper of the Massachusetts Ear and Eye Infirmary, who disappeared from his institution early today. He left in his Ford sedan, license No. 562,039, and would not say where he was headed.

Harper, who is a son of James P. Harper, dean of the St. Louis dentists, is 26 years old, 5 feet and 8 inches, 155 pounds and light. He has reddish hair and brown eyes, and wore tortoise-rimmed glasses. When he left he was dressed in a blue suit.

FATHER OF 7 IS KILLED BY FALL

An Everett carpenter, father of seven children, plunged to his death today and two other men were seriously injured when they dropped 40 feet as the staging upon which all three were at work, collapsed into living st., Everett.

Eugene J. Penney, 53, of 27 Chatham rd., Everett, died of a broken neck at Massachusetts General Hospital 20 minutes after the accident.

Lawson Richards, 31, of 43 Mt. Vernon st., Malden, and Peter J. Cummings, of 612 Mountain ave., Revere, are at the hospital suffering bruises and possible internal injuries. The three were preparing to shingle the house of P. J. McCune at 124 Irving st.

WATCH SHIP FOR LINDY, ANNE

New York, June 1 (INS)—Reports that Col. Lindbergh and his bride were to continue their honeymoon in Europe tripled the crowds at the sailings of two liners, the Ile de France and the Majestic today.

But Lindy and Anne didn't emerge from their secret hiding place, and the eager crowds were disappointed.

At Schenectady Col. Lindbergh's plane was wheeled out of the hangar today by the night watchman. The plane was found there by Randy Enslow early this week.

TWO CHARGE "INHUMAN TREATMENT" IN NEW BEDFORD JAIL

U. S. PROBE DEMANDED BY STONE

jailed two weeks ago for alleged illegal traffic in stolen cars between New York and Massachusetts.

George Berman of Quincy, jailed last January for a similar period for alleged participation in a liquor conspiracy case.

REMOVED TO CAMBRIDGE.

Clifford has already been taken to the East Cambridge jail awaiting transportation to Atlanta federal prison.

Berman is still in the New Bedford jail, although today Judge James M. Morton, Jr., senior federal district judge, signed an order for his eventual transfer.

Berman's new prison location is not yet arranged. New Bedford jail officials seemed unaware today of the order.

Both men sharply criticised the reported policy of the jail officials in allowing them to have only one hour a week for exercise.

Deputy Master William Bonnister, who is supervisor of jail conditions, said by telephone to the Boston Evening American that such a report was "highly inaccurate."

"Why," he said, "we give them all one hour in the morning and one in the afternoon for liberty, and most of Saturday afternoon. They can play ball all Saturday afternoon in the yard if they wish."

IN THEIR OWN CELLS

Asked about the charge of 20 hours in daily solitary confinement, the deputy said he did not see how that could be. He explained that the only solitary confinement these men received was in their own cells.

This point is not particularly disputed by the two men who claim that their alleged 20 hours in their cells constitute "solitary confinement."

Berman in particular feels his confinement worse than the other man. Berman is illiterate and thus is deprived of the consolation of reading in his cell.

"It's hard just to sit there, and do nothing but sit," he told federal men.

Clifford complained that an old injury to his side, caused by an automobile accident, still bothered him. He says he needed constant massage and other skin treatment, which was denied him at the jail.

CONTRACT WITH U. S.

The legal situation is that the federal government has a contract with the New Bedford jail through which board and room are paid for the housing of federal prisoners.

The superintendent of federal prisons, exercising his right to supervise conditions at jails where he issues contracts, is expected to send a representative to check whether or not the contracts should be renewed.

There are now about a dozen other federal prisoners. Although federal officials at first considered this institution as excellent, they have been disturbed by continual reports, particularly alleged to have been shown to county prisoners in preference to federal ones.

Asked about these reports of favoritism toward Bristol county men serving relatively brief sentences in the jail, Deputy Bonnister indignantly denied them.

"We give the Federal prisoners the same treatment that anyone else gets," he asserted.

WORK 4 HOURS A DAY.

Asked about the charge that the Federal men are allowed to work only four hours a day, the deputy agreed that this was true. He said that work conditions required this plan. The men are worked two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon, he said.

The prisoners make parts of chairs.

"That Berman is always whining about something," commented the deputy.

He further characterized the complaints and reports to federal men as "just so much hot air."

During the discussion by telephone between the Boston American reporter and the jail fields, the sheriff turned over to his deputy the task of being "jail spokesman." The sheriff simply denied all charges, and then said his deputy would explain matters.

ed such step he would issue a manslaughter warrant.

Edward Fitzpatrick has been ill at the boarding house conducted by Mrs. Anna Staples, in Julian st., Roxbury, since Tuesday. Today his condition became serious and little hope was held for his recovery.

In the meantime, while Mrs. Fitzpatrick was being arraigned, Inspector Harry Pierce of the bureau of criminal investigation and Sergt. Patrick H. Purcell of the Dudley st. division were questioning members of the Staples household in an effort to determine the cause of head injuries discovered on John's body.

DENIES BLOWS ON HEAD.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick denies striking her elder son on the head when she whipped him last Thursday with a small stick because, police claim, he could not properly recite his prayers.

The result of police investigation seeking to place responsibility for the head injuries, whether inflicted during a whipping, from a push or the result of the accident, will have considerable bearing upon the charge against Mrs. Fitzpatrick when she appears in court next Thursday.

HURT HEAD PLAYING

Mrs. Gertrude Grindle, married daughter of Mrs. Staples, who makes her home with her mother, told today that John received the head injury two weeks ago when he fell against a bed while playing. A few days later, she declared, he received a more severe injury, effecting his eyesight for a time, when he was pushed against a rocking chair.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, who lives in Westbourne st., Brookline, is estranged from her husband and is employed, paying $32 a month for the board of her children at the Staples home, police learned.

CAMBRIDGE 'PUFF' THUG IS SOUGHT

Referred to by police as the "powder puff" bandit, because of his acts in rubbing girls' dormitories, a well-dressed youth is sought for thefts of cosmetics in and about Cambridge the past fortnight.

His latest victims are employes of the Tailby-Nason Co., chemists, with a place of business in Amherst st.

Placing a wooden beam against the building, the nimble-footed thief climbed to an open window leading to the girls' dressing room, got inside without being observed and left the same way.

When employes went to the room later they found clothes scattered about the floor and several girls' compacts in vanity cases missing as well as bags and pocketbooks.

Lena Gilberto of Lyman st., Boston, an employe, reported the loss of a gold necklace, braided design, a purse and 50 cents in change.

Josephine Carmello of Boston, another employe, complained she lost a pearl necklace, vanity case and compact, keys and a small amount of money.

Years of the girls were reported to Foreman Tobin, who notified the police.

Hoover Finds It's Too Hot Even to Go Fishing

Washington, June 1 (AP)—With another day of oppressive heat in prospect, President Hoover decided he could probably keep as cool in the White House as in motoring to one of his fishing preserves and cancelled arrangements that had been made for a trip to the fishing grounds at Catoctin Furnace, Md.

However, it was said at the White House Mr. Hoover might take a short automobile ride through the suburbs late today.

riding in a truck were injured when their car met that containing William J. McGaffey of Likkird rd., Brighton, and his son, Charles, neither of whom was hurt. The injured in this accident were:

Phillip Fisher, Florence st., Everett, internal injuries, condition serious.

Louis Santer, Grove st., Chelsea, badly bruised.

Joseph Badagliano, Norman st., West End, bruised and shaken.

Abram Kecker, Eastern ave., Malden, fractured shoulder.

All were taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

The Wrentham crash occurred at Wampum Corner when the car in which five persons were riding from Somerville to their New Jersey home, struck a pole on the curve as the driver lost control. The victims were:

Mrs. Merlo, 30, 178 Lincoln pl., Garfield, N. J., driver of car; deep cut on head.

Rose Merlo, 70, mother of above; lacerations and shock.

Esther Merlo, four years; lacerations of face.

Mary Di Pietro, 16 years,; tip of nose cut off.

Mary Minarcco, 28; lacerations of face and head.

Al lived at the same address in New Jersey. They had been visiting Rev. Samuel S. Merlo of 11 Grand View ave., Somerville, a brother of Louis Merlo, and were on their way home when the crash occurred.

Those injured were removed to the hospital by Dr. John Paul Cooper in North Attleboro, where Dr. Cooper and nurses attended them. Although he urged them to remain, they returned to Somerville with Louis Merlo, who was notified by telephone of the accident.

The bus figuring in the Sudbury accident was owned by the Boston & Worcestr street railway and was bound for Boston. When Operator George Cedar of Marlboro brought it to a halt at a railroad crossing in South Sudbury, a truck crashed into it from behind.

The bus plunged into a railroad shack occupied by Claus Ramstrom, who was slightly injured when thrown several feet.

Others injured were: Harry Cutting, paymaster of the Curtis mill in Marlboro, cut over an eye; Mrs. Cutting, bruised hand; Mrs. Mary O'Donnell of Bridgewater, cuts on face and legs; Miss Mary Foley, Marlboro, bruised hand; Mitchell Coutois, Marlboro, cuts; Miss Jennie Kelley, Marlboro, cut on right hand; Miss Mabel Parker, Marlboro, cuts on neck, bruises.

2 Children Dying in Connecticut Crash; 6 Hurt

Fairfield, Conn., June 1 (AP)—Two children are dead and six adults are in a critical condition and four others are suffering painful injuries as a result of a head-on automobile collision on Kings' Highway.

The injured: Vincent Manjoney, 7, Jackson Heights, L. I.; Asunta Dirignano, 8, Fairfield, both dying.

Mrs. Joseph Manjoney, 37, mother of Vincent; Mrs. Agato Cirresai, 73, grandmother of Asunta, both on critical list.

Rose Manjoney, 14, sister of Vincent, fractured leg, bruises of face, hands and body.

Patrick O'Neill, Fairfield, lacerations of body.

Vincent Szymark, Fairfield, lacerations and abrasions of body.

Vincent Yacovelli, Fairfield, fractured right knee cap.

Yacovelli, driver of one car, is under arrest on a charge of reckless driving. Witnesses told police he was driving on the wrong side of the road.

TORY PLOT CHARGED IN BRITAIN

London, June 1—Charges of political bargaining "to deprive labor of its heritage," threw a new issue into the political situation today.

Instead of resigning immediately, Premier Baldwin may take steps to make the Labor victory an empty honor. It now appears he will confront the House as its prime minister, and resign only if the House votes lack of confidence in him.

The Daily Herald, official organ of the Labor party, today charged political bargaining between Baldwin and David Lloyd George, and said:

"If there is to be accommodation between the capitalist parties, let it be made in the open daylight."

Ramsay MacDonald, victorious Labor party leader, said: "If I can prevent it there shall be no disturbance of the country by an election within the next two years."

If Baldwin forms a cabinet, Lloyd George must either support the Conservatives, whom he has branded "enemies of peace and progress" or coalesce with Labor to put MacDonald in office.

The latter is what Lloyd George did in 1924. He put MacDonald in power for ten months. This was chiefly responsible for the Liberal debacle in the next elections.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS

Lloyd George today said: "Holding the balance of power is a very responsible position. We fully realize it and you can depend on it we shall make no unfair use of it. We certainly shall not use it in a haggling spirit. We shall carefully consider what best may be done in the interest of the country. The King's government must be carried on, and in the present state of the country it is essential it should be steady."

Although the Labor Party rode down the Conservatives to a decisive defeat this week almost complete returns show it lacks 21 of the 308 seats necessary for a majority in the House. The standing is: Labor, 288; Conservatives, 253; Liberals, 54; others, 8.

ONLY 13 UNREPORTED.

Of the remaining 13 seats one represents a postponed election. Ten university seats will be announced next week, and the other isolated constituencies are always delayed in reporting.

The table shows a Labor gain of 126 seats over the figure at the dissolution of Parliament, 122 from the Conservatives and four from the Liberals. The Conservatives lost 137 or 122 to Labor and 14 to Liberals, who now number 53 as against 54.

A striking feature was the size of the Conservative popular vote. Conservatives, 8,506,224; Labor, 8,292,204; Liberals, 5,178,378; Independents, 251,448; Communists, 50,614. Total, 22,278,868.

REPARATIONS BATTLE OVER; MORGAN OFF

Paris, June 1—Europe's everlasting reparations problem has been solved at last.

Such is the almost universal feeling in Paris over announcement that J. P. Morgan, America's financial giant, is sailing for home today on the Mauretania convinced that his colleagues on the experts' committee will soon put the finishing touches to the Young plan for settlement of the question.

A single question remained in the way of a settlement at noon today and the experts were awaiting word from Berlin which it was expected would remove that.

The question was that of remuneration to Belgium for German marks left in that country after the occupation.

Agreement was reached on the German demand that some of the burden of the last 22 annuities under the Young plan be lifted. This agreement included a promise that if the United States reduced the sum of the creditors' debts to America there will also be a reduction in what Germany owes to the former allies.

It was also agreed that of the last 22 annuities a share of the present value of 1,000,000,000 marks in immediately through a fund to which both the allies and the Germans will contribute.

10 DROWNED IN TEXAS FLOODS

Houston, Tex., June 1 (AP)—Floods in south and east Texas, following torrential rains, today had claimed ten lives and caused damage amounting to millions of dollars.

Three persons, none of whom was identified, drowned yesterday.

A messenger boy on a bicycle was caught in the swirling current in a street here and was swept away. A terrified onlooker fell into the water and he too, was carried away. It was believed the bodies would be recovered in the basement of some nearby building when the water recedes.

SHRINERS GATHER AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., June 1 (INS)—Noble greeted Noble here today as the Shriners came to town.

The fanfare of trumpets and the crash of brass bands will welcome the red-fezzed visitors as the vanguard of 100,000 Nobles of the Mystic Shrine arrived by boat, train and automobile for the 55th annual convention of the Masonic Order.

Among the first of the visiting nobility to arrive was the delegation from Palestine Temple of Providence, R. I., which left a transcontinental train at Riverside and motored here.

The very first to appear on the scene were members of the mounted patrol of Abu Beka temple from Sioux City, Ia., who brought their troop of snow-white Arabian chargers with them.

Broken Heart Kills When Eloping Wife Steals His Cash

Omaha, Neb., June 1 (AP)—George Debs of Omaha is dead here of what physicians described as shock and "a broken heart."

Last Monday night Debs returned home from a hospital, where he had undergone a major operation, to be informed that his wife had run away with another man, taking his life's savings of $1300 and leaving six small children at home.

Examining a trunk where he had the money hidden, Debs found it missing. He collapsed and was returned to the hospital where he died.

5 EXECUTED IN MORROW PLOT

planned to blow up the passenger train on the national railways upon which ambassador traveled to Laredo on May 22 and 23.

The trial and execution were summary affairs. Almost immediately the police had obtained confessions from the men they were led out into the jail courtyard, where they faced the firing squad.

Details of the alleged plot had not been made public by the military authorities, but it is supposed to have been hatched in the minds of sympathizers with the recent military revolt led by Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar. On several occasions sympathizers of the revolt have charged that the failure of the revolt was largely due to the assistance given the Portes Gil government through Ambassador Morrow.

On May Day a huge group of Mexican communists staged a hostile demonstration before the American consular offices in Mexico City, until the meeting was broken up by police and firemen. Among the banners carried by the demonstrators were some declaring that the Mexican government had "delegated its authority to Dwight W. Morrow and Wall Street."

For the past several months Ambassador Morrow has been closely guarded by police or troops whenever he traveled outside of

HEARST SHOOT WINNERS GET MEDALS

New Bedford, June 1—Members of the New Bedford high school's first and second rifle teams, winners of regional honors in the national marksmanship competition sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, were today proud possessors of the trophies rewarding their skill.

In the presence of their schoolmates and of city and army officials, the boys were formally presented with medals and with the two large shields which will hang in the high school hal.

Acting as Mr. Hearst's personal representative, James W. Reardon of the Boston Evening American delivered the presentation speech. Gen. Walter William, headmaster of the high school, accepted the trophies in behalf of the victorious teams. Col. H. P. Wilbur, U. S. A. retired, directed the military maneuvers.

The medals were pinned upon the breasts of the young marksmen by four high school girls, sponsors of the New Bedford R. O. T. C. School sessions were suspended during the exercises. The high school band gave a concert, and the entire student body attended. The ceremony took place on the Court st. campus.

Members of the New Bedford school committee were present as was Edmond Drake, president of the New Bedford chamber of commerce.

This year's New Bedford victory in the Hearst tournament is the second which is credited to the high school team. It scored a first place in 1928.

Competition was offered this year by schools from 17 Eastern and Southern states.

The 1929 New Bedford high school team included Raymond Dunn, Ralph Metcalf, Charles Wellington, William Macey, and John Brightman.

SLAYER OF 3 IS DECAPITATED

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—Ferdinand Preuss, the maniac who shot three men dead and wounded four others while in a drunken fury yesterday, was decapitated today by a Chicago & Northwestern Railroad train.

A body found on the right of way was identified positively by a fishing license issued to Preuss, and police believe the man, sobered overnight, realized the tragedy of yesterday and committed suicide by leaping in front of a train.

"400" LOSES ONE OF LEADERS

Newport, June 1—Mrs. Paul Andrews, mother of Mrs. Morgan Belmont, and one of the prominent of Newport's "400," died today, following an illness of two days' duration, in her Bellevue ave. residence.

Before her marriage she was Ethel Hyams Penney, daughter of one of Philadelphia's oldest families. Her husband, whom she sued for separate support in 1924, and her daughter, Marguerite, wife of Morgan Belmont, survive her.

HUB BANKERS SUSPEND ON LOAN CALLS

ately by similar steps taken by the First National Bank of Chicago, the Continental Illinois Trust Co. and the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago.

In addition to its Boston and Chicago offices, Taylor, Ewart & Co. maintained branches in New York, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Kansas City, Houston, San Francisco and New Orleans.

Manager Charles M. Ide of the Boston office announced that a delegation of officials of the firm were in consultation with New York bankers and that a statement bearing upon the situation would be issued on Monday.

Among the stock issues sponsored by Taylor, Ewart and listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange are S. J. Brach & Sons, United Chemicals, Inc., and Oshkosh Overall Co., and the Yaaras Temple Building Corporation 6 per cent bonds.

The firm also issued Jonas and Naumburg stock listed on the New York curb, and an additional series of $1,000,000 5½ per cent serial bonds of the city and county of Dallas improvement district.

These issues will be affected in no way by the suspension.

BOY SLAYER, 15, GETS 6 YEARS

Watertown, N. Y., June 1—Paul Arquette, 15, who shot and killed his employer, Albert Kilts, a farmer of the town of Orwell, a few weeks ago, was sentenced in children's court today at Oswego to Randalls island. He will be kept there until he is 21 years unless paroled in the mean time.

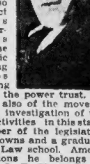
The grand jury recently returned a presentment against the boy, charging manslaughter.

LEGISLATIVE HONOR ROLL

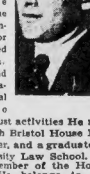
SEN. HENRY PARKMAN, JR., of Boston, is supporting the municipal lighting bill in the form that the public utilities commission wants it, so as to give that body the opportunity to control the rates of the greedy private companies. He is also in favor of the resolve under which a commission would be established to investigate the activities of the power trust.

Parkman is also a member of the Boston City Council.

On Beacon Hill he is a member of committees on constitutional law, public service and taxation. He is a graduate of Harvard College, Harvard Law School and Northeastern University Law School. Among the organizations of which he is a member are the Boston Bar Association and Maritime Law Association of the United States



REP. TIMOTHY J. McDONOUGH of Jamaica Plain, is another member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives who favors the bill to change the law so that municipalities can enter the lighting business more easily so as to protect themselves against extortionate rates imposed by the monopolistic private lighting companies which are being grabbed up by the power trust. He is a supporter also of the move to bring about an investigation of the power trust's activities in this state. He is a member of the legislative committee on towns and a graduate of the Suffolk Law school. Among the organizations he belongs to are the M. C. O. F. K. of C. Alhambra, Bishop Cheverus Assembly, Jamaica Plain Improvement Association and Board of Trade. He is a Democrat.



REP. THOMAS C. CROWTHER of Fall River, Republican, is another one of the majority party on Beacon Hill independent enough to stand up for the people's rights against the rapacity of the big power combine. He is for the unamended municipal lighting bill, and favors the creation of a special commission to probe power trust activities He represents the 12th Bristol House District, is a lawyer, and a graduate of Boston University Law School. He has been a member of the House since 1923. He belongs to the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Massachusetts and American Bar Associations.

Chamberlain Expected to Attend League Council

London, June 1 (AP)—Present indications are that despite yesterday's political overturn, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, will attend the meeting of the council of the League of Nations, which opens at Madrid on June 10.

If this decision should be reached, Sir Austen probably will leave London Tuesday, as the members of the council are planning an advance meeting to consider in committee a report by the committee on minorities, which recently met in London under Sir Austen's chairmanship. As Sir Austen has been principally concerned with this question, it was considered almost certain he would go to Madrid.

STATE POLICE ARE UPHELD BY COURT

The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today handed down a decision that control of the police force of Fall River is in the hands of a police board appointed by the Governor under a statute of 1924, and not in the hands of the mayor. The city managers under Plan D of the city charter, recently appointed.

Justice Wait, who wrote the opinion, said the statute of 1915 does not confer power to act in matters within the scope of existing municipal authorities. He added that Fall River had no power to deal with the appointment, organization and control of its police, but that that power is vested in a body especially created and empowered to perform the duties, not as a matter of city, but of State administration, under the control of the Governor. He says that the board, thus created, is a State board.

Yale Bans Putt, Putt of Motorcycles

New Haven, Ct., June 1 (AP)—It may be the din and the consequent interference with sleep and study they cause, but whatever the reason, Yale undergraduates will not be allowed to operate motorcycles after September 24.

The deans of three undergraduate schools signed the order—Deans C. W. Mendell, Yale College; C. H. Warren, Sheffield scientific school, and P. T. Walden, freshman year—who did not give the reason for the ban. It reads:

"Notice is hereby given that the privilege of operating motorcycles in or near New Haven during term time will be refused to all undergraduate students after September 24, next."

Five years ago a ban was placed on student automobiles with the exception of seniors. But the latter are included in the new order. Students of the graduate schools are not affected.

Lynn Police to Don Roll Collar Coats

By order of Mayor Bauer, the Lynn policemen are to have their uniform coat changed from the high military collar to the popular roll front, with shirt and black tie, now in use in the Boston and Cambridge departments. The mayor told Chief Burches to have the men measured for the new coats.

Newspaper Ads Big Aid to Gas Sale

Atlantic City, N. J., June 1 (INS)—The New England section of the advisory council of the American Gas Association, in its convention at the Hotel Traymore today, announced that as the result of a newspaper advertising campaign in New England the use of gas for some heating was increased 7.58 per cent in the first quarter of this year. For other domestic purposes it increased 7.34 per cent in the same period as compared with that period last year.

The report stated that the increase was plainly due to a day-to-day campaign of newspaper advertising.

'FIRST LADY' AND HOSTESS LEAVE R. I. BY AUTO

The same secrecy which shrouded her departure from Cambridge yesterday was thrown about her whereabouts today.

Mrs. Arnold Hoffman, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Hoffman, said that the hostess and first lady were motoring but would not state whether they were expected to return here.

Mrs. Hoffman, who is head of the National Girl Scouts, had been associated with Mrs. Hoover in the organization long before the Hoover administration started.

Mrs. Hoover will go to Pennsylvania for a Swarthmore degree to be conferred upon her sometime Monday, according to Miss Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. Hoffman is the widow of the famous dye manufacturer and is possessor of a fortune estimated at $20,000,000. Her estate is one of the show places along Narragansett Bay, rivalling some of the famous estates at Newport.

When Mrs. Hoover accompanied her husband to New England during the presidential compaign, they were luncheon guests at the Hoffman estate. Mrs. Hoffman later was a guest at the White House soon after Mrs. Hoover became first lady.

BOY WHO SHOT PLAYMATE IS MISSING

Search last night and today by parents and police failed to find 14-year-old Warren Gagnon of 57 Jones rd., Revere, who disappeared after shooting and seriously wounding 11-year-old Davis D. Foster of 109 Dolphin ave., Revere, yesterday.

Fear that Foster would die and hu would be punished is believed to be the cause of Gagnon's disappearance.

Police Inspectors James Barry and Frank Nolan were searching today for the missing boy.

According to the police, Gagnon told them he stole the revolver, with which the shooting was done, a week ago. Obtaining some cartridges, he fired several bullets out to sea and into the ground.

Meeting Foster and thinking the revolver was empty, he lined Foster up against a wall, walked 15 or 20 feet away, aimed and fired.

Young Foster fell with a bullet in his side. At Massachusetts General Hospital the bullet was removed this morning and the boy's recovery is expected.

Gagnon was so frightened when he saw Foster fall that he threw the revolver down and ran. Mrs. Edward Conlon, who lives nearby, heard the shot and cries and went to Foster's assistance. Later her son, Edward, removed the wounded boy to the office of Dr. J. Dalton in Winthrop ave., where emergency treatment was given.

SOMERVILLE BOY FALLS 3 STORIES

While climbing around the roof of his home in Franklin ave., East Somerville, today, Edward Smith, 11, fell the three stories, a distance of 30 feet. He was picked up by pedestrians and taken to Somerville Hospital, where he was found to have suffered severe injuries to the head and body. His name is on the danger list.

Father of Harvard Professor Is Dead

Stratford, Ct., June 1 (AP)—Chester Huntington, 86, vice-president of the Huntington Aircraft co., is dead at the home here of his son, Ward. Two sons, Howard and Edward A., professor in mathematics at Harvard, and a daughter, Mrs. William S. Annin of Richmond, Mass., survive. The body will be taken to Richmond, Mass., for burial.

DEATH NOTE IS SENT BRIDE

An anonymous postcard and a veiled message by telephone threatening the life of Mrs. Lillian Ruddman Mirkin, 19 years, of 11 Castlegate rd., Roxbury, were under investigation by the police of the Dudley st. station.

Mrs. Mirkin, who has just celebrated her 19th birthday, for more than 24 hours after the telephone warning to "prepare for the end," kept the facts from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Ruddman, with whom she has made her home for 11 months since her marriage to Eli Mirkin, an insurance salesman.

Later, however, they reported the facts to Capt. Richard Fitzgerald of the Dudley st. station and plain-clothes men have been assigned to work on the case.

On Wednesday night, Mrs. Mirkin happened to be alone in her parents' home, as her husband was at his work, and Mr. and Mrs. Ruddman and their two other daughters were at a school entertainment. The telephone rang.

"Is this Mrs. Mirkin?" a man's voice asked. She replied affirmatively.

"Tell your friends to look in the papers and read about your death."

SHERIFF AND MA GET ELOPERS

New Bedford, June 1 (AP)—A careworn and grieving mother, Mrs. Thomas I. Minter of Austin, Tex., was reunited here today with her 16-year-old runaway daughter, Fannie Lee Minter.

Miss Minter's companion, Jack W. D. Griffiths, was delivered to Sheriff Coley C. White of Austin.

The Minters start back today for the home from which Miss Minter fled in January with the married swimming instructor. Griffiths will be returned to Texas to face trial.

RETRACTION IS FORCED BY POLICE

The war of the "bunion board" goes merrily on.

Members of the Civil Service Commission continued to "pass the buck" today in placing the responsibility as to the origin of the "modified strength test" which caused the death of Police Sergt. John J. Montague, according to Medical Examiner Timothy Leary.

No one was willing to shoulder responsibility for putting into effect the tests which killed Sergt. Montague and injured 30 other Boston policemen.

Commissioner Goodwin attempted yesterday to place the responsibility upon Police Commissioner Wilson by stating that Mr. Wilson asked for them. This is denied by the police executive and also by Civil Service Commissioner George M. Harlow, who protested against the physical tests for promotions and voted against them at a commission meeting.

ONLY FOR SERGEANTS

Wilson has admitted asking for physical tests for men seeking promotion to sergeancy, but has never requested that they be given men taking the examinations for lieutenancy or captaincy, which positions are almost entirely administrative, he said. It was during an examination for lieutenancy that Sergt. Montague met his death.

Returning from a vacation in Canada, Friday, Mr. Goodwin issued a statement which said that Commissioner Wilson had asked for physical tests for promotion. Goodwin is now at Osterville on Cape Cod to spend the week-end.

Reached by telephone today, Mr. Goodwin now admits that Wilson had not asked for physical tests for men taking the examinations for lieutenancy and captaincy, but declined to make any further statement as to who was responsible for the origin of the physical tests.

The statement made several days ago by Associate Commissioner Harlow was read to him over the telephone, but he again declined to comment, saying: "I must be excused" and he hung up the phone.

HARLOW PROTESTED.

Harlow's statement was:

"I don't want to be drawn into any controversy with my colleagues but I am against physical examinations for promotion and am on record. When the matter came up I protested and voted against it, but Chairman Goodwin and Commissioner McMahon out-voted me.

"It is my contention that as we give policemen and firemen a stiff physical examination when they enter the service, we should not subject them to another one when they are looking for a promotion to an easier position.

"Our first examination is very hard and only a man who is physically perfect may pass it. I do not see why we should give a man another physical test after he has faithfully served 10, 15 or 20 years and deserves promotion."

At the time of Sergt. Montague's death physicians and others said the tests were "criminal," statements which vary greatly from that of Commissioner Goodwin that the physical tests are standard in gymnasiums all over the country.

REFUTED BY CROWLEY.

Another discrepancy occurs in the comparison of Mr. Goodwin's statement that the tests have been used by the commission for 30 years and the statement of Supt. of Police Crowley.

"This is standard and have been in use by this commission for over 30 years," Goodwin said in his statement Friday.

This is denied by Supt. Crowley, who says he was not required to take a strength or so-called modified strength test when he took the physical examination for lieutenant.

Crowley's statement, in part, says:

"When I was promoted to the rank of lieutenant less than 30 years ago, Dr. Prince conducted the physical examination. He tested my heart, lungs, ears and eyes and examined my body condition, but there was no strength test, modified or otherwise. The lifting of heavy weights was never encountered by us 'old-timers' when we sought advancement."

ONE HORSE DIES IN POND, ONE SAVED

Another duty for the Melrose fire department was found today when the firemen rushed to Ell pond with block and tackle equipment to aid two floundering horses. One was saved and one was pulled out dead.

The horses, owned by George A. Webb of Melrose and driven by Charles Hall, ran away and plunged into the pond. Spectators rang a fire alarm box, but by the time the firemen had their ropes in action one animal had drowned.

MISS HELEN BABCOCK

Who will wed George Robert Andrews in St. John's Church, Watertown, this evening. Miss Babcock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Babcock of Meadow way, Cambridge. Army to Make 'Unies' and Things Last Long

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Improvement of army equipment and more efficient methods of prolonging the life of soldiers' clothing are sought in experiments being made by the quartermaster corps.

The experiments, the War Department announced today, cover all types of equipment, from tent pegs to trench coats. To assist in the study of the materials under observation, assignments of the proposed equipment are made to officers and enlisted men in the field for everyday use.

Wooden barracks chairs, which the records of the War Department show to be the heaviest suffers in peace time "wears" of army posts, will probably be replaced with steel chairs.

Improvements for army tents have been worked out at the Jeffersonville quartermaster depot, Indiana, and models for a completely new type of army tent will be submitted shortly.

GOWNS OF PARIS FOR BABCOCK NUPTIALS

Bright skies and a smiling sun gave benediction to a corps of blushing young women who took their nuptial vows in Cambridge today, the first in the month famed in custom and tradition as the month of brides.

Among the younger set, one of the prettiest weddings will probably be that of Miss Helen Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Babcock of Meadow Way, who will be married this evening to George Robert Andrews, son of Walter J. Andrews.

The ceremony will take place in St. John's Church, Watertown, with the Rev. Frank D. Taylor officiating.

SIX BRIDESMAIDS

The gowns of the bride, the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were purchased by Miss Babcock during her stay in Paris last summer, and will be distinctly Parisian.

The bride will wear white French taffeta with a lace ruffle court train. A lace veil, purchased by her in Venice, will be worn, and the bridal bouquet will be composed of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Genevieve Babcock, her sister, will be maid of honor, and she will also be gowned in white taffeta.

The bridesmaids are: Miss Hope Case of Brockton, Miss Vivian Almon of Malden, Miss Elice Black of Springfield, Miss Gracie Griffin of Winthrop and Mrs. Charles Swett of Brookline.

Miss Jane MacFarlane will be flower girl and will wear a pink silk dress and will carry a basket of roses. Robert Baker of Brookline, will be the ring bearer.

ATTEND BRIDEGROOM

Kenneth Murray of Brookline will be best man. The ushers will be Theodore Babcock and head usher Burton McNeil, Lester Mathewson, Richard Martin, Carroll Gillespie and Charles Swett.

Miss Babcock attended the Bradford Academy of Speech Art in Boston. Mr. Andrews was graduated from the College of Pharmacy with the class of 1924. He is in charge of the wholesale drug department of a Boston concern.

HARBORD BALKS BUT 2D DIV. ELECTS HIM

"You can look any soldier in the world square in the eyes and tell him to go to h——!"

Thus did Maj.-Gen. Preston Brown of the First Corps Area impress upon 2000 delegates to the 11th annual reunion of the 2nd Division in the Hotel Statler today that their record in the A. E. F. was as good as any other contingent.

Maj.-Gen. Brown called the Second Division the greatest association of veterans in the United States.

"You have no apologies to make to anyone," he added, and told how the membership had jumped to 9000 a gain of 1000 in the past year in the 42 branches.

A minute of silent reverence for their memories was observed, with all standing.

It was voted to hold the next annual reunion in Los Angeles in 1930. A large Buffalo delegation was present today to urge that the following year reunion be in that city, and advanced as a special reason the coming centennial observance of their city.

Col. Harry MacNider, former American Legion commander, was temporary chairman while the new officers were elected. Maj.-Gen. James G. Harbord was unanimously chosen president.

"I resign," immediately announced the General, who is a cousin of Admiral Byrd, the polar visionnaire.

"You can't resign," commented Gen. Brown, who is the retiring president. The convention then refused the resignation of Gen. Harbord at the 1930 president.

Col. MacNider injected humor into the situation when he said to Generals Brown and Harbord that "You two old fogies will have to settle that between you between now and 1930."

4 PRISONERS SAW WAY OUT OF JAIL

Louisville, June 1 (AP)—Four prisoners staged a remarkable escape from Jefferson County Jail in downtown Louisville late last night or early today.

The four prisoners sawed three bars from two cell doors, cut through a steel ventilator, sawed an inch-square tumbler from a door lock, cut one bar from a window, sawed one end of another bar and bent it, forced out a heavy wire window screen, lowered themselves to the jail yard on a rope of bedsheets and went over a 30-foot wall with the aid of a painter's scaffold.

F. A. REED TAKES HIS BRIDE IN MANCHESTER

Manchester, N. H., June 1—With only members of the immediate family and a few friends in attendance, Miss Helen E. O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy F. O'Connor, became the bride today of Fred A. Reed at the pretty ceremony performed by the Rev. William Clancey in the rectory of St. Joseph's Cathedral.

Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Reed of South Bend, Ind., and a nephew of Col. Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst newspapers. He is a graduate of Dartmouth, class of 1925, and has been associated with Hearst papers in Boston and Chicago. He is now with the Syracuse Journal.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a brilliant reception was held at the Manchester Country Club for 150 guests. After the reception the bridal couple left on a wedding trip through the west by motor.

Miss O'Connor is a graduate of Rogers Hall school, Lowell, and is prominent in social circles in this city. Her father is a widely known attorney.

The couple had only two attendants. Miss Betty Murray of New York was the maid of honor and William S. Prescott, a classmate of the bridegroom at Dartmouth, was the best man. Miss O'Connor was given away by her father.

GOWNED IN WHITE.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin cut on princess lines with princess lace; a tulle veil surmounted by a small wreath of orange-blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Murray wore a flowered chiffon frock with an orchid hat trimmed with orchid bows. Mrs. O'Connor, the bride's mother, wore a lingerie gown de Caen crepe frock and a black hat, and Mrs. Dennis F. O'Connor, the bride's grandmother, was dressed in black silk with hat to match.

Mrs. Frank Knox, aunt of the groom, wore a dark blue crepe ensemble, with a hat of blue.

Among those at the reception at the Country Club were: Col. and Mrs. Frank Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Saidel, C. A. Belanger, members of the Governor's Council, Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leeman.

Louis Wyman, Miss Delia Reed, Miss Mary Knadenshue, Mrs. Robert Flanders, Miss Jean McAlister, Miss Barbara Mulcahy and Mrs. Leonard Smith.

HUSBAND SEEKS WRIT TO GET GIRL BACK

Claiming to have trailed his wife and child here from Sewickley, Pa., and to have seen them together in Wellesley yesterday, Benjamin P. Bakewell today petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus compelling the mother to surrender the child, Barbara, into his custody.

The Bakewells who were married in Hyannis in 1920, have since lived in Sewickley, according to the petition. Last Wednesday, Bakewell alleges, his wife took Barbara from school without notifying him.

Yesterday, in Wellesley, he found them together, he claims, and immediately obtained the services of an attorney to begin action seeking return of the child. Judge Wait will hear the case on Tuesday.

LOST PUP FINDS 2 FINE FRIENDS IN 'NEWSIES'

Two hardworking "newsies" discovered today that there is often more happiness in serving others than in serving self-interest, even when the others to be served are little whining pups that have somewhere lost their masters.

Such a pup was the wee terrier that scooted about the Scollay sq. subway station in search of the master he had lost in the shuffle. It was only natural that after an hour or more of search the little fellow should start whining.

The station superintendent, fearing he would get trampled on or run over, finally locked him in a booth and telephoned the Animal Rescue League.

The league signified its willingness to accept the lost pup, but couldn't send its ambulance for him and asked if somebody at the station would take him in a taxi.

Somebody phoned the Harry E. Eyerton Newsboys Foundation. Was there a chap there who would give up a little pleasure in order to take a dog to the Animal Rescue League?

There was. There were two chaps, Michael Saraceno and Wallace Garber, who live in Stamford st. and Leverett st., respectively, and having a good time at the gym but were glad to do the service. They appeared on the scene a minute later and five minutes after that had delivered the pup to the League, where he had a puppy's supper and a bed until he was claimed.

Mike and Wallace figure today they had a better time than if they had remained in the gym. Sort of a satisfied feelin' of having done the right thing.

SHOE FIRM SEEKS INJUNCTION

The shoe manufacturers' firm of Lyons Hershenson, Inc., of Chelsea, filed a bill in the superior court at Salem today seeking an injunction to restrain officers and members of the United Shoe Workers' Union from picketing or congregating in the vicinity of the company's plant or otherwise interfering with the company's conduct of an open shop.

A strike has been in progress at the plant since April 17. The order of notice in the suit is returnable in Boston on June 6.

MAYOR M'GRATH UNIMPROVED

Although still on the danger list following his operation for gall stones, Mayor Thomas J. McGrath of Quincy is reported to be resting comfortably, but with no change in his condition, at the Quincy City Hospital. In the mayor's absence, John P. Flavin, president of the council, signed the payroll as acting mayor.

Gosh! It Looked Bad for Sec. Davis! But—

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—The first thing that James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, did upon his arrival at Union Station from Washington was to make a dash for the railroad's emergency hospital. Two hours later he emerged, his face bandaged.

At the hospital reporters were gravely informed that the secretary had been operated upon for "hordeolum zeissianum."

The reporters wrote it down in their little books, trying to routine the letters properly, but knowing naught of what was meant.

They reached Secretary Davis just as his train was pulling out. He tried to tell them what it was but by that time he was well on his way to Mooseheart to deliver a Commencement address, and his words were lost.

The reporters thereupon repaired to a dictionary of medical terms, where they found:

"Hordeolum zeissianum—a sty."

"Silence is Golden" is truly spoken of Chancellor Wiest Adv.—The Rialto. So they make a lot of sin—Saint Rambler.

Guard Hoover's Home From Souvenir Army

Washington, June 1 (INS)—The idiosyncracies of that strangest of all animals, the souvenir hunter, have reached clear across the continent to annoy President Hoover, and as a result he has been forced to dig down into his pocket and hire a couple of men to guard his beautiful home in Palo Alto, Cal.

Reports of vandalism about the home prompted the order to police the property. Men and women with a mania for filling up their wastebaskets with all sorts of peculiar things have been chipping off pieces of the masonary of the house, ruining rose bushes in efforts to obtain transplanting slips, carving initials here and there, and generally doing things souvenir hounds do.

A trip to Palo Alto for the Hoovers in early July is not at all unlikely—dependent, of course, upon an adjournment of Congress.

SENATORS RAP LIGHTING BILL AMENDMENTS

Amendments to the municipal lighting bill are hostile to the interests of the people, according to State Senators who voted against them.

The Senators' statements in explanation of their votes, follow:

SENATOR HENRY PARKMAN, JR., of Boston, Republican—The Senators should remember that the bill is a regulatory measure—it is to regulate the companies, not to injure them. The argument made for one of the amendments, that the company should have its day in court, is just plain bunk. The purpose of the amendment is to defeat the object of the bill.

SENATOR FRANK HURLEY of Holyoke, Democrat—The bill has already been embalmed with amendments and the Senator from Melrose (Goodwin) now seeks to seal the casket with his amendment.

SENATOR C. WESLEY HALE of Springfield, Republican, and member of the Senate ways and means committee—The amendment of the Senator from Melrose (Goodwin) providing for appeal to the courts weakens the entire bill. It gives the companies an appeal to the courts on the facts as well as the law, and this goes beyond the present law. It is for the department of public utilities to find the facts—the value of the company's property, and so on—and for the court to pass upon the law.

SENATOR JAMES E. WARREN of Lawrence, Democrat, and dissenter from the majority report of the Senate ways and means committee—The amendment providing that all of the property used by a gas or electric company shall be valued by the department as the property to be taken over by a city or town, kills the purpose of the bill, which is to enable the city or town to go into the utility business without having to take over all or any part of the property of the private company. I have a letter here from Chairman Attwill of the department of public utilities as my authority.

SENATOR WILLIAM S. CONROY of Fall River—I voted in opposition to the hostile amendments placed on the municipal lighting bill by the Senate ways and means committee, and against the Goodwin amendment because these amendments strike at all the progressive features which the House accepted to carry out the wishes of the Public Utilities Commission.

WILL HELP COMMISSION

The Public Utilities Commission has pointed out that competition from the municipalities will go a long way in helping the commission to keep in line those hungry private power companies, who, not satisfied with the monopoly they enjoy, want to bleed the public white. I am in favor of giving the commission what it asks for.

It must be remembered that these five commissioners are anything but radical in their views. In fact they have been roundly criticized at times for being too lenient with the corporations. One of them is a former attorney-general and an ex-district attorney of Essex County; another is a former president of the Senate; another is a former assistant attorney-general and lawyer of no mean ability; still another is a former senator, also a lawyer, while the fifth is an engineer and a member of the commission for many years. A conservative board, surely, and the fat condition of the private companies during all these years proves that the Massachusetts theory of a fair return on capital properly and honestly invested has been sound.

Rebate Checks on Light Charges Mailed to 55,000

Worcester, June 1—The New England Power Association, new owners of the Worcester Electric Light Co., has started mailing to 55,000 customers rebate checks aggregating $684,810.98.

This is in accordance with the agreement made by the Worcester Electric Light Co. to refund to its patrons the difference between 7 cents a kilowatt hour and 5 cents as it lost the case it took to the courts for permission to maintain the 7-cent rate as against the 5-cent rate ordered by the Massachusetts public utilities commission.

The Worcester Electric Light Co. started to lay aside this fund when it took the case to the courts to fight the order of the public utilities commission as of June 15, 1927.

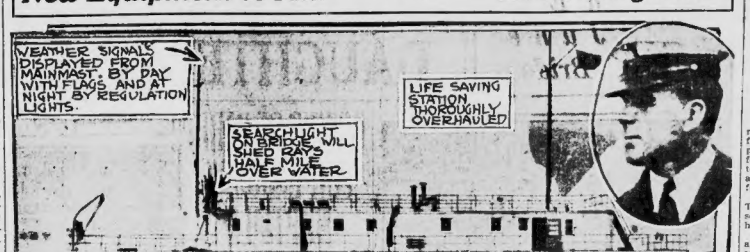
The New England Power Association, when it came into possession of the Worcester concern, agreed to accept the order of the state commission and withdrew the case from the courts.

4 Princeton Men Join Cape Theater Guild

Princeton, N. J., June 1 (AP)—Four men from Princeton University again will make their appearance with the University Players' Guild this summer at Old Silver Beach on Cape Cod, Mass.

Bretaigne Windust of New York city, president of the Theater, again will be co-director of the University Players' Guild, with Leatherbee of Harvard.

New Equipment to Aid Life Saving Unit



WEATHER SIGNALS DISPLAYED FROM MAINMAST, BY DAY WITH FLAGS AND AT NIGHT BY REGULATION LIGHTS.
SEARCHLIGHT ON BRIDGE WILL SHED RAYS HALF MILE OVER WATER
LIFE SAVING STATION THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED

LIFE-SAVERS AT CITY POINT TO HAVE PHONE

As additional protection of lives from drowning and for the recovery of sea craft sent adrift in storms, another, new equipment of great value in times of need will soon be installed on the City Point life saving station, at anchor between the South Boston Yacht Club and Thompson's Island.

The station has been thoroughly overhauled and when the new powerful searchlight is installed on the bridge its rays will shed the brightness of day over the waters for half a mile. Other improvements under way are telephone service with the mainland and the display of weather signals from the mainmast. By day the signals will be by flags and at night by regulation lights authorized by the U. S. coastal service.

In command of City Point station is Capt. Frank E. Holbrook, 44, a native of Cape Cod. Before taking command, nine years ago, Captain Holbrook served in lifesaving work at Wellfleet, Gloucester and at Rockport stations for 25 years.

EVER ALERT TO DANGER

The City Point station crew of 10, including David L. Holbrook, chief motor machinist's mate, brother of the captain, is considered by boating enthusiasts to be one of the foremost of its kind in the United States.

Along the shores of Massachusetts bay are 34 yacht clubs with a membership of more than 10,000, and the safety of any of that number when in danger, besides other thousands who sail boats for pleasure or fishing often is dependent on aid rendered by Captain Holbrook and his crew.

Until telephone connection is in commission, horn signals from the landings at the various yacht clubs are used in cases of emergency.

ALWAYS ON LOOKOUT

The waving of a flag by Miss Betty Kelly on a public platform facing the water on the shore side, is another signal for the aid of the life-savers. With a look-out always stationed on the bridge deck of the rescue station little time is lost until one of the speed boats starts out.

Scores of members of the South Boston Yacht Club, the Metropolitan Fleet Yacht Club, the Columbia Yacht Club, the Puritan Yacht Club and of the Boston Yacht Club expressed great praise for Capt. Holbrook and his crew in their success in saving lives and boats from destruction during heavy storms.

Frank Hurley, secretary of the South Boston Yacht Club, who served four years as a surfman on the life saving crew of the coast guard City Point, and Commodore John A. Stone of the Columbia Yacht Club, both stated that the work accomplished by Capt. Holbrook's crew had been extraordinary, and that with the new weather signals in place and the searchlight installed, protection for sea craft in Massachusetts bay will be practically assured at all times.

Dartmouth Student Ceremonies Tonight

Hanover, N. H. June 1—Dartmouth students will celebrate the college year tonight with the traditional ceremonies. The student body will parade from the campus to the historic Dartmouth pine, where the 1930 membership of Palaeopitus, the student governing body, will be installed.

Following the presentation of the senior fence by the class of 1929 to 1930, the men will run the gauntlet and then assemble around the campus bonfire for a farewell. The final meeting of the student body as a whole will be held Sunday at "sing out."

Lord Retires With Hoover's Praises

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Herbert M. Lord, retired, director of the budget since 1922, has relinquished his governmental duties with the praise of President Hoover, one of the rewards he will carry into private life. He will take a month's vacation before beginning his new work as an investment broker in New York.

When Mayor Nichols heard that the 36 regional flag champions in the 16 states throughout the country the United States in the recent flag contest of the United States Flag Association was sponsored by the Hearst newspapers throughout the country, the Boston Evening American being the sponsoring newspaper, were to visit Boston, he graciously consented to welcome them in the form of a patriotic reception.

Mme. Marie Di Pesa, soprano, formerly of the Boston and San Carlos Opera companies, volunteered her services. Mme. Di Pesa is well-known throughout the opera and concert world where her charming voice has attracted world-wide attention.

Judge Francis J. Good, municipal court justice, and past State commander of the American Legion, an orator of note, will be the speaker.

Lieut.-Col. Carroll J. Swann, U. S. R. C., will act as presiding officer.

The 12 Eagle Scouts of Cambridge will act as ushers. These boys, under the charge of John D. Crowley, of the Cambridge Post 27, American Legion, have received the highest honors awarded the boys in the Boy Scout movement.

Reservations have been made for the visiting party of 100 seats, and also for 150 pupils of St. John's high school of Cambridge, where Miss Higgins is a student.

The regional flag champions arrive at the Back Bay station early tomorrow morning, and will immediately be taken on a motor trip to Plymouth, returning to their headquarters at the Hotel Statler, following which they will attend a reception.

Flag Contest Champions Gather in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., June 1—Fears for the future of Young America are unfounded if the 38 representatives of the 250,000 boys and girls who participated in the first annual flag contest of the United States Flag Association were taken as typical American youngsters.

Keen-eyed, alert, full of the joy of living and eager to start on their great "patriotic pilgrimage" which will carry them to the historic shrines of the East, most of the boys and girls arrived in Philadelphia in groups from every section of the United States.

These boys and girls are champions. They have won the honor of making this pilgrimage by virtue of the fact they were adjudged best in their respective sections of the country in the flag contest, which was sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

In addition to the pilgrimage, they will receive from the Vice-President of the United States the highest decoration of the United States Flag Association—the Cross of Honor.

LIKE LINDY'S MEDAL

This is the same medal that was awarded to Col. Lindbergh when he returned from his epochal flight to Paris. Presentation will be made at vesper flag services on the west steps of the Capitol in Washington a week from Sunday. The boys and girls were bubbling over with fun when they arrived.

They are learning from each other that these United States of America are all pretty much alike, and that no matter where a fellow or a girl comes from they still can be a pretty good sort.

PLENTY OF RIVALRY

There is plenty of rivalry between them, and lots of bantering about who is going to win the grand national award in this contest—a trip around the world. Only four of them—two boys and two girls—can win, and they will be selected at the final contest in Washington on Flag Day, June 14. These four will sail from San Francisco on June 28.

While these boys and girls look like the average, every-day sort of youngsters seen on the streets of every city and village in America, there are a few whose lives have been somewhat out of the ordinary.

Take Peter A. Rwucnok of Stockton, Cal., for example. Peter is the San Francisco Examiner's boy representative in the contest. He was born, and has lived all his life, on a sheep ranch 28 miles from the nearest railroad station.

WROTE BY KEROSENE LAMP

This is the first time he has ever been more than 50 miles from home, and he's getting the thrill of a lifetime out of the sights. He is a student at St. Mary's high school in Stockton and he prepared the essay which "brought" him the flag contest and his essay on "Old Glory's Greatest Glory" by the light of a kerosene lamp.

The two champions representing the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph also have won their laurels under handicaps that would have stopped many boys and girls. Both of them are student at schools for orphans. Rose E. Wilson of Tiffin, O., won her local contest in a unit conducted by the Orphans' Home of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. Thomas Paul Dendeck, the boy champion, lives and studies at the St. Joseph's Orphanage in Pittsburgh.

There is one coincidence that in making the originator and the conductor of the flag contest extremely proud and happy. Col. James A. Moss, the president-general of the U. S. Flag Association, has worked many hours each day since last fall, and without a cent of salary or other renumeration from any source, in order to make the flag contest a success.

SON OF CONFEDERATE VET.

Col. Moss likes to tell of the days when he was a barefoot boy, the son of a Confederate veteran, in Lafayette, La., and how he won, in competitive examination, the right to receive his education at West Point. When the San Antonio (Texas) telegraph broke news of the boy who would represent that section it was Rniph H. Agate of Lafayette, the old Moss home town of Col. Moss.

Not to be outdone, the Detroit Times let it be known that its boy champion, Merle M. Clark, came from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where as a young man Col. Frank Knox, now general manager of the Hearst newspapers, started his first business venture by publishing a small weekly newspaper.

Still another champion of distinction is Anna Gertrude Douglas, of High Point, N. C., representing the Washington Herald district. She is a descendant of Stephen A. Douglas, whose debates with Lincoln are famous throughout the world.

SEEK ARREST OF NINE IN HUGE STAMP FRAUD

New York, June 1 (INS)—Post-office inspectors here expect to apprehend before nightfall today nine of twelve men who have been indicted by federal grand juries in New York and Charleston, S. C., on charges of defrauding the government of $4,500,000 in a gigantic stamp-washing conspiracy.

Five indicted in Charleston were due to surrender to United States Atty. Charles H. Tuttle, who received a request by wire to arrest seven men living in the New York metropolitan district. Two of them already have been arrested and are free in bail of $1000 each. They are L. A. Beebe of Yonkers and Frank Mannis of New York.

The alleged ringleader of the conspiracy, William S. (Spot Cash) Hale, previously convicted as a stamp-washing rocketeer, is under arrest in Charleston.

The five due to surrender here through their attorneys are Edgar Nelton, C. C. Kelton, Charles J. Gregory, Sam Boyaner and H. Chataire.

The indicted men are charged with "laundering" stamps of $1, $2 and $5 values and selling them to dealers throughout the country. The headquarters of the ring is said to have been in Charleston.

Aerial Trespasser Must Face the Judge

Millington, N. J., June 1 (INS)—The first aerial "trespasser" on record was under arrest here today. Lawrence Townsend, a parachute jumper of Newark, was arrested because he was indiscreet enough to float from a speeding airplane into a tree on the property of William E. Frandsen. Two other men, who ran to Townsend's assistance, also were arrested. Townsend will appear in court Monday.

U. S. Money Builds Big Japan Hospital

Tokyo, June 1 (AP)—The Fraternity Memorial Hospital, built with the residue of the American people's contributions to the Red Cross at the time of the 1923 earthquake, was dedicated today.

The hospital, one of the largest and finest in the Orient, is on the bank of the Sumida where 34,000 persons perished. The building cost nearly $15,000,000 remaining after the immediate relief needs.

"Flying Ice Man" Sets a Fast Pace

New York, June 1 (INS)—Word has been received here that Rafaele Maiullari, Bronx ice dealer, has broken all records for travel from New York to Moscow. Maiullari sailed from New York on the Mauretania on May 22 and arrived in Moscow 8 days 22½ hours later. He is racing around the world by steamship, rail and established air lines.

URGE HUGE U. S. SUBSIDY OF AVIATION

Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.

New York, June 1—Within the near future the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation will present to Congress a bill asking for a government subsidy of amateur flying clubs as a means toward assuring an adequate national defense in time of war.

This was revealed today by Thomas L. Hill, president of the society. The bill is being drawn, he declared.

The measure is expected to arouse comment both within and outside the aviation industry. Its provisions are in effect as follows:

The annual donation by the government of $40,000,000—the approximate cost of one warship—to incorporated responsible flying clubs, the money to be used by clubs for purchasing lightweight airplanes.

Limiting of all purchases by individual clubs to aircraft costing not more than $4000.

The society, according to Mr. Hill, hopes to have the bill passed on the grounds that it will encourage amateur flying and promote "air mindedness" to the extent that within five years time 250,000 persons will be actively interested in aeronautics, giving the nation a permanent and invaluable reserve army of skilled flyers.

Hill expects the bill to be a boon to commercial aviation.

WINS AS FIRST JUNE BRIDE

Worcester, June 1—At a ceremony performed 15 minutes after midnight, Doris H. Mullett of 24 Hancock st. wed Albert C. Smith of 227 Russell st., and so became the first June bride of the 1929 season.

The ceremony, arranged in advance so the bride might claim the distinction of heading the always-lengthy June bride list, took place at the home of Rev. Thomas S. Roy, in Coolidge rd.

Miss Beatrice H. Mullett attended her sister as bridesmaid, Milton Freeman was best man, and the mothers of bride and bridegroom attended the early morning nuptials. Mrs. Smith was formerly employed in the office of the city clerk.

HITTING OFFICER COSTS BIG BOY $20

It cost "Big Boy" Thomas Hagin of Cambridge st., Cambridge, $20 to hit a policeman on the jaw, once. The fine was imposed in the Brighton district court today by Judge Arthur P. Stone after "Big Boy" had pleaded guilty to hitting Policeman Arthur D. Doyle when Doyle ordered him to move.

"Big Boy" is 22 and gets his nickname from his size.

Waltham Children Put on "Pet Show"

A pet show, an innovation in the public schools, was held this afternoon on the high school athletic field, Waltham, by children of the public schools under the direction of Miss Hilda N. Olsen, nature instructor.

There are 418 entries, among whom are included such pets as dogs, cats, guinea pigs, roosters and rabbits. Prizes were offered by Waltham merchants for the prettiest, largest, trickiest, funniest looking and the best animals in the show.

Body of Man, 50, Found in Harbor

The body of an unidentified man, about 50 years old, was found floating off the Davis Pier today. Police are checking up on missing men of that age, although none had been reported at the headquarters recently. The man's clothes were examined for tailor marks or similar identifications.

Flying U. S. Editor Hops Off for Syria

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 1 (AP)—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, took off today for Aleppo, Syria, in continuation of his flight from Croydon, England, to Tokyo and return.

FULLER GREETS MOTHER

Famous Stars to Sing in Roles of Aida

The great cast of opera stars who will sing the principal roles in the forthcoming spectacle of the opera "Aida" at Braves Field on June 27, has already been arranged.

Principal role of Aida will be sung by the young American soprano, Julia Peters, who sang Aida in a production at Madison Square Garden, New York, before 20,000 people a year ago.

The role of Amneris will be sung by Mme. Elizabeth Hoeppel, who made a favorable impression recently at the Boston Opera House.

The leading tenor will be Fernando Bertini, who is popular with Boston music lovers.

The role of Amonasro, the Ethiopion King, father of Aida, will be sung by Ciro de Rita, recognized as one of the best baritones in the world.

The High Priest Ramphis will be interpreted by Miguel Santacana, the basso from Mexico.

Seats are now on sale at agencies in Boston, and indications point to the largest audience that ever witnessed an open air opera, arrangements having been made to seat 30,000 people.

The special arrangement for 5000 school children as guests of the Boston Evening American, has created widespread enthusiasm in Greater Boston.

The Boston Evening American is receiving many expressions of praise from music lovers and citizens in general of Greater Boston for its co-operation in making it possible for 5000 children to see "Aida."

"I have received many calls over the telephone from people in different parts of Greater Boston commending the spirit of this great treat to Boston children," said Maurice Frank, director of the opera, at his headquarters at the Kenmore Hotel. "We have room for 30,000 people at popular prices, but we are giving the children of Boston, through the co-operation of the Boston Evening American, 5000 seats in the best part of the field, knowing that in the lives of many of the children this may mean the fostering of the taste for music."

Children can obtain this courtesy from the Boston Evening American by writing a letter of about 100 words on the "Value of Music" and address same to the Aida Festival Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

Oklahoma Justice Cleared of Bribery

Oklahoma City, June 1 (AP)—Charles W. Mason, chief justice the Oklahoma Supreme Court, has been acquitted by the State Court of Impeachment of a charge of accepting a bribe. It had been alleged he accepted a $4000 automobile from Willis G. Sautbine and Charles D. Sautbine when they had litigation pending before the court.

Retains Federal Post

Washington, June 1—Perry W. Reeves, Indiana, was nominated by President Hoover for reappointment to the federal board for vocational education.

CELEBRATE THEIR SILVER WEDDING

Surrounded by their eight children, and some one hundred relatives and friends, many of whom were present at the wedding 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrington of 8 Malloy Court, Somerville, today celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with reception at their home.

The eight children, Mary, Josephine, Timothy, Florence, Rose Elizabeth, Edward and Rita Harrington, presented their parents with $100 in silver and a bouquet of flowers. They also received many other gifts of silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington were married June 1, 1904, by the Rev. Fr. P. J. Durcan, now pastor of the Church of St. Andrew of the Apostle, Forest Hills, then a curate at the Sacred Heart Church, East Cambridge. They have resided in Somerville for a quarter of a century.

Taunton Man, 70, Fatally Hurt by Auto

Taunton, June 1—Daniel O'Neil, 70, of 9 Bryant st., died at the Morton Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on Weir st., near Somerset ave. The machine was operated by Frank Keithan, 29 Second st.

State Motor Vehicle Inspector Richard E. O'Connor made an investigation of the accident, and stated that the operator will be brought before the district court.

PITY THIS POOR COWBOY . . . He has to be a British Lord—and how he hates it! Wants to give up his castle, big estate and fortune for his former simple and happy life as a Canadian rancher. Don't miss the romantic, true story of "Mr. Parcevel"—one of the many unusual features in BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER.

Still "Poor"

Mrs. George Wenster, Jr., the former Nina Lewis, Broadway star, says she did not profit by her husband's riches and will again be a dancer. She is suing for separation.

New York, June 1 (INS)—Another of the lovely legends of the dance and the rich man's son today is set down as just another yarn of romantic irony, and Mrs. George Webster, Jr., who gracefully flitted through several Broadway shows as Nina Lewis, is to start a separation action through her attorney, David G. Goodwin.

Webster, whose father is in control of the Webster-Thomas Company, big importing and exporting house in Boston, is accused of being a poor husband while maintaining his status as a rich blueblood. The fable runs thus:

One night soft music played at a society dance. A poor but beautiful dancer entered, and her price hastened to her, received an introduction, and they fell in love. And so it came to pass that the beautiful Nina Lewis and the handsome George Webster, Jr., were married and settled down to live happily ever after.

Then last May, after two years, she vanished.

And now the lovely Nina seeks to return to the role of dancer. She is still lovely and still poor. She says:

"My husband's family always made much of the Daniel Webster coat-of-arms, but in spite of this ancestral pride George never took time to look up the definition of a good husband."

MISS MUSA LORRAINE LIGGETT WEDS TODAY AT CHESTNUT HILL

Popular Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Liggegtt Bride of Arthur Scrivenor, Jr., of Richmond, Va.

NO BOSTON EDIFICE, AND CERTAINLY NOT THE CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER on Chestnut Hill, would suffice to contain all of society interested in the wedding today of Miss Musa Lorraine Liggett and Arthur Scrivenor, Jr., of Richmond, Va. A large portion of those eager to see the bride, arrayed in the loveliest that Paris modistes could devise for the dark-eyed, raven-tressed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Liggett, paid their respects to the couple at beautiful Gwydyr after the ceremony at high noon. The bride's father gave her in marriage at the flower-banked altar, where the Rev. Dr. John Moses officiated.

HAVING BEEN THE OBJECT OF MANY EXCLUSIVE PARTIES since her return from Paris a month ago, Miss Liggett went to the altar today with some of society's fairest buds as her attendants. Her sister, Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin (Janice Liggett) as honor matron and Miss Mary H. Tucker of Richmond, Va., as maid of honor, led the procession of twelve attendants. Miss Virginia Ayres, fiancee of Mr. John Bishop of Boston, who was best man, was one of the bridesmaids. The others were Miss Evelyn Royce, Miss Anne Barton, Miss Elizabeth Adams and Janet Conway of Boston; Mrs. Herbert Lloyd of New York, Miss Catherine Williams and Miss Courtney Marshall of Richmond. Two little nieces of the bride, Marleigh Lorraine Liggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Liggett, and Jane Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark T. Baldwin, were the flower girls.

THE TEN YOUNG MEN USHERING THOSE FORTUNATE enough to receive invitations to the church included Clarke T. Baldwin, Leigh B. Liggett, John T. Baldwin and Ransom Hodges of Boston, Joseph Fegerson, 5th, of Atlanta, Ga., O. J. Sands, Edwin Laird, John Lyons and Allan Campbell of Richmond, and J. Stott Parrish, Jr., and Roland Hintermeister of New York. Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scrivenor, Miss Eliza Waller Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Randolph Tucker, Misses Mary and Elsie Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. E. Victor Williams of Richmond. Charles Means, Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Gales, Mercer M. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Willing La Farge (Helen Rust), Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ballentine, Mr. and Mrs. Barnard Black of New York and Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Bence and Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Bence of New Haven, Ct. After October 1 the couple will be at home to their friends at 114 East 80th st., New York.

AT 4 O'CLOCK TWO OTHER SOCIETY GIRLS BECOME BRIDES. Miss Emily Drouillard Evatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Evatt, and George Winthrop Brown, Jr., of Chestnut Hill, are to have eight bridesmaids besides the bride's sister, Miss Catherine Evatt, as maid of honor, for their nuptials at All Saints' Church, Brookline. The Rev. Barrett Tyler performs the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride, 945 Buckminster rd., Brookline. Miss Evatt was elected to the Junior League after her social debut several years ago. Her new home is to be on Washington st., Brookline, for the present. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. King, Bigelow rd., West Newton, at the hour, Miss Margaret King becomes Mrs. George M. Lovejoy, with her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Fuller King (Mary Proctor), as her only attendant. The Rev. Boynton Merrill officiates.

STILL ANOTHER IMPORTANT WEDDING ON THE SOCIAL calendar today is that of Miss Jean Moore, granddaughter of Mrs. William Moore of Pride's Crossing and the late Judge Moore, who becomes the bride of the Hon. Oliver M. Viglo, second son of the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth, of Barton House, Morchard Bishop, Devonshire, England. The Cathedral of the Incarnation in Garden City, L. I., is the scene of this brilliant wedding, with the elite of New York and Boston in attendance and Bishop Stires of Long Island officiating. Mrs. William Gray of Dedham will be one of the bride's attendants. The Earl and Countess are in New York for the ceremony. The reception is at Garden Gables, the summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Moore, at Roslyn, L. I. The couple are to reside on the Big Horn ranch at Sheridan, Wyo., a part of the estate of the seventh Earl, whose death in 1925 gave the title to the father of the bridegroom, Oliver Henry Wallop, a naturalized American citizen.

ANOTHER PORTION OF SOCIETY WILL BE ENTERTAINED AT tea today—one of those very small, informal and exclusive affairs—at the Weston home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sears in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Rosamond Sears. This is merely a forerunner of a series of several important functions to be given for Miss Sears' coming out year. Miss Anna Dickson as head pourer will be assisted by Miss Margaret Wharton, Miss Rosamond Morse, Miss Margaret Howe, Miss Maria Brown and Miss Mary Vance. Next Saturday Miss

Lindell Fisher, debutante daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Stanley R. Fisher of Wellesley, is to be presented to several hundred friends at a garden party given by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Lowe at their large Wellesley estate, near the college campus.

SAILING TODAY FOR SEVERAL WEEKS' TRAVEL THROUGH England, France and Italy is Miss Bessie Myrick Gibbs and her younger sister, Miss Jane. Miss Gibbs will renew old Paris school friendships and gather her trousseau for her wedding on August 17 to Harold T. Hungerford of St. Louis. And today Mrs. John E. Batt, who has been touring Europe the past month, takes ship for home. Mrs. Batt plans to spend the month of June at her summer home on the Sargent estate in Brookline with Mr. Batt before closing the house and moving to their summer place at Mattapoisett. Their house on the Sargent estate has been sold to the Henry Parsons Kings, who take possession next fall.

THERE ARE BUSINESS MEN—MANY OF THEM, TOO—WHO DO something besides draw checks. Members of the Business Men's Art Club draw many beautiful lines in sculpturing and paint pictures that evoke the admiration of art-loving society. The second annual exhibition of these artists' work opened this week at the Boston Art Club, Dartmouth and Newbury sts., and continues through next Saturday. The exhibition is open to the public week days from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Sundays from 1 to 5 p. m.

THE SEMI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF RADCLIFFE COLLEGE has brought an unusually large number of Social Register alumnae to Cambridge and so house parties are the order of the day in homes of many of the socially important ones. Among those entertaining guests are Mrs. Charles Almy, Mrs. Charles Almy, Jr., Mrs. Henry B. Cabot, Mrs. Edward W. Forbes, Mrs. Charles Peabody, Mrs. Ralph Perry, Mrs. Paul J. Sachs, Mrs. Henry C. Stetson, Mrs. William R. Thayer, Mrs. J. G. Thorp, Mrs. Alfred M. Tozzer, Mrs. John Moors, Miss Margaret Worcester, Miss Harriet Buckingham, Miss A. M. Houghton.

VETS FIGHT FOR CAMBRIDGE BURIAL LOT

More than the usual interest was manifested in the report of the Cambridge American Legion Post cemetery committee which was made at the annual dinner following the Decoration Day exercises.

In this report it was stated that the Legionnaires have been for the past two years endeavoring to obtain permission from the Cambridge Cemetery Commission to say but in the soldiers' lot at the Cambridge Cemetery a replica of the military cemeteries in France.

The only excuse ever given for denying this request of the Legion was made by John McKenzie, chairman of the cemetery board, who stated that it was the opinion of the board that such a lot would depreciate the looks of the burying ground.

So disappointed were the Legionnaires because they were unable to lay out their plot last Armistice Day, after having been defeated in the same purpose the previous Memorial Day, that they communicated with Mayor Quinn and requested the removal of the entire cemetery board.

This the mayor did not do, but he did request the cemetery commission to decide, if possible, at the request of the Legion. In fact, it was learned that two such requests were made by the mayor and each time the cemetery board arranged for special meetings to take action.

'AIMEE'S JUDGE' WINS BATTLE WITH BAR

San Francisco, June 1 (AP)—The California Supreme Court has ruled that the State Bar Association's control over practising attorneys does not extend to the conduct of judges.

The decision was regarded as another victory for Superior Judge Carlos Hardy of Los Angeles, who recently was acquitted at an impeachment hearing by the Senate on charges of misdemeanors in office.

Judge Hardy admitted he received a check for $2500 from Angelus Temple, of which Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson is pastor. He maintained the check was a "love offering" and not a fee. The bar association contended it was a fee for aiding Mrs. McPherson in her "kidnaping" case, and that he was guilty of practising law while on the bench.

Hardy refused to answer questions of an investigating committee of the bar association. He was cited in superior court for contempt of the association. The superior court held Hardy was not in contempt and the bar association appealed and asked a writ to compel him to testify.

Under the ruling Hardy will not be required to answer the bar association's questions.

SOLEMN TOAST IS DRUNK TO EMPTY CHAIR

Bridgeport, Ct., June 1 (AP)—Thirty chairs were about the table of the Twilight Club, exclusive Masonic unit, as it moved through its memorial ritual, but one chair was vacant. In front of it candles flickered, while 29 man drank solemnly champagne from a bottle left by a departed comrade.

The club was honoring the memory of Philip L. Holzer, insurance man and banker, who died two months ago. It was the fifth time the memorial ritual had been invoked in the history of the organization.

Silence reigned as Frank Cartwell, custodian of champagne and of obituaries, read the memorial left by rule by the departed member.

The impressive ceremony was part of the unusual rites. Thirty is the limit of membership. Each member brings to it as he enters one bottle of champagne and an obituary of himself. This bottle is consumed and the obituary is read when he dies. His chair is vacant until a successor is appointed. All members are 50 or older.

DORCHESTER IS 299 YEARS OLD TODAY

Although there is no historical observance of the day, Dorchester celebrated its 299th birthday today. The chief activities were confined to the playgrounds where a varied entertainment was provided for the children by City Councillors.

Councillor Albert Fish of Ward 15 arranged a distribution of ice cream to the children at Dorchester Town Field, Ashmont Playground, Mary Hemenway Playground, Neponset Playground and Dorchester Park. An added feature of the entertainment was races for children between 8 and 16.

BIG PROGRAM

Ice cream also was distributed through the arrangement of Councillor Fish at the Daly Industrial School on Train st., St. Joseph's Home for Aged Women, at 221 Centre st., Industrial School for Girls, on Centre st. and St. Mark's and St. Anne's Convents A band concert at 8 p. m. at Peabody sq. at 8 p. m.

Councillor Israel Ruby arranged an all afternoon program on Franklin Field which included the distribution of ice cream, in the locker building at 2 p. m., track and field events, a baseball game, distribution of prizes and a band concert at 8 p. m.

Councillors Thomas W. McMahon, Robert G. Wilson and Frank B. Sullivan have arranged similar programs at Ronan Park, Codman sq. and Savin Hill.

TRACK MEET

The Dorchester Club ran a track meet on Franklin Field under the direction of Paul Bentley. There were five events, the 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, one-mile run and three-mile run, all open to members of the Dorchester Club and residents of Dorchester. Prizes for the winners of these events have been donated by ex-Mayor Curley, Congressman McCormack, Councillors Wilson and Ruby and ex-Rep. William M. Silverman.

5 GENERATIONS IN FAMILY REUNION

Seat Pleasant, Md., June 1 (AP)—Five generations of one family, in which all members of the maternal line have been born within the last 82 years, gathered today for a reunion.

The youngest is Rosemary Penkert, the 10-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Penkert of Washington. At the other end of the line is her maternal great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Bender, 81, also of Washington, who has 50 other direct descendants.

Those taking part in the reunion include all of Rosemary's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Penkert and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Braun of Seat Pleasant, and her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thomas of Washington.

Lawyer "Taken for Ride" Fakes Death

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—Oliver N. Olsen, a lawyer, 52, was "taken for a ride" last night, beaten so badly that a leg and six ribs were broken and then dumped out for dead in a ditch. But the fact that he "played dead," he said, saved his life.

Olsen was lured from his Wheaton (Ill.) home into a automobile on the pretext that a friend needed him at a police station. He could advance no motive for the attack.

Heat Death Toll in East Nearly 50

New York, June 1 (AP)—Death from the extreme heat which blistered the North Atlantic states for four days neared the half hundred mark today. Nineteen persons died from the heat yesterday and three were drowned. With the temperature in the New York city area reaching a minimum of 90 degrees, the highest this season, nine persons succumbed and 18 were prostrated.

HONOR CUTTER, 25 YEARS ON JOB

Today is Victor M. Cutter's silver anniversary with the United Fruit Company. Twenty-five years ago he came into the offices of the company, at 131 State st. and said he wanted a job. He had been graduated from Dartmouth and taken a special course at the Tuck School of Administration and Finance. He was a big, impressive looking youngster, and, as he seemed to have a very definite idea of what he wanted, he was sent to Costa Rica as a timekeeper at a salary of $68 a month. Gradually became overseer, superintendent, manager, general manager and in 1924 was made vice president in charge of tropical divisions.

Victor M. Cutter

Andrew W. Preston, former president of the United Fruit Company died in September of that year and Mr. Cutter was the unanimous choice of the directors to fill the vacancy.

His business friends and associates were kept busy today in wishing him "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

East Boston Priest to Sing First Mass

Rev. John Henry O'Donnell, former East Boston boy, will celebrate his first solemn high mass in Star of the Sea Church, East Boston, tomorrow. Father O'Donnell, who is 26, is the son of Mrs. Rose E. O'Donnell of Horace st., East Boston, widow of John H. O'Donnell. He was graduated from St. Mary's school there. Joseph O'Donnell, a brother of the young priest, is an employe of the Boston Evening American.

A reception will be tendered the priest at the home of his mother after the celebration of the mass.

Clubwomen Hear Dry Law Plea

By NANCY BREWSTER

Open warfare was declared against "certain women" members of the Constitutional Liberty League because of their stand against prohibition by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, through its national president, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody.

In a speech before the delegates and executives of the biennial council at its closing session in Swampscott today, Mrs. Peabody asked the general federation to give added support to "combat reactionary forces which seek to break down the 18th Amendment."

"Through an attractive plan, heavily financed, these foes of prohibition are trying to break down the machinery of the amendment by weakening the law in the States," Mrs. Peabody stated.

"I want to thank you women now for the help you have given by the open declaration you have made in favor of the 18th Amendment, and its enforcement.

"I want to ask you now to combat those forces. These women, because of their stand against prohibition, have ranked themselves with men of the underworld in fighting this law."

URGES WOMEN TO HELP

"Mr. Hoover declared himself fearlessly on the question. But he can't do it alone. It isn't a one-man job. We need women like you who will fearlessly stand for obedience to the law, and particularly to that one which calls for enforcement of the 18th Amendment.

"I'd like to enroll you women on the National Committee of Women which calls for women to look into this plan, which would break down prohibition.

"I know it won't affect women like you who know what the old saloon stood for. It won't affect the rural district. It won't affect mothers and grandmothers. Let us see that the old traffic in any form will not return."

Mrs. Peabody was applauded, while Mrs. Sipple reiterated the Federation's stand for a dry platform.

Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner's address on "Rural Co-operation" was read by a member of her committee, because of her absence.

In it she stressed the need for a closer and more human understanding between rural and city women.

PLEAS FOR FARM WOMEN

"Those farm women who have blazed the trail of a new civilization want something more than pity or sympathy, or a bronze tablet in memory of them after their brave deeds are done. If one hundred farm women were sent to Congress they could tell the Congressmen more in one afternoon what is needed in the rural districts than the Congressmen could decide upon in one session.

"Farm women are keenly conscious of their lost estate. They are anxious to resume social contacts."

Within the next few years the Federation hopes to list 5,000,000 farm women into the General Federation.

"Five goals in rural co-operation can be reached," Mrs. Warner stated in her report.

"We should carry the joy of the General Federation to the wonderful but isolated women be they in the mountains, in lumber camps or on the farm. The country's resources can not be developed unless some one makes the great sacrifices and these women are doing it.

ON AUTO TOUR TODAY

"We should establish the inalienable rights of women that regardless of locale or the size of the home in which they live, there might always be that bond of love.

"It is said that most of the urban crime is incubated in rural climates. Let us make the rural districts so attractive as not to send the boys into the city for shoe-string jobs."

And so the Biennial Council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs came to a close.

Early this morning the delegates and executives started on that anticipated North Shore drive for an automobile view of the far-famed "rock-bound coast."

Today is "Play Day" for the women and is to be climaxed by a sumptuous tea at the Hotel Statler tendered them by the Fifth District clubs of Greater Boston of which Mrs. William J. MacDonald is the director.

Tonight Mrs. Grace Morrison Pestle, first vice-president of the General Federation, entertains at a party at the Symphony Pops.

Tomorrow the delegates will be starting back to their homes after a busy week of luncheon-conferences, discussions, sessions and lectures.

NEXT SESSION IN DENVER

The drive today took the women through Beverly Farms, Pride's Crossing, Manchester, Magnolia to Gloucester. In the afternoon they left for Lexington and Concord.

The tea is to be attended by such celebrities as Governor and Mrs. Allen, Lieut. Governor and Mrs. Youngman, Mayor and Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. John F. Sippel, Mrs. Azel A. Packard and Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Potter.

The next biennial convention is to be held in Denver, Col., on June 3 with nine or 10 days of pleasant activity to follow.

Denver is at this early date making preparation to receive American clubwomen and Mrs. C. H. Morian has been named general chairman of the local biennial council committee.

$80,000 in Fund for Somerville Clinic

At the latest report meeting of the workers for the Somerville Hospital it was announced that a total of nearly $80,000 had been raised toward the $200,000 goal. A number of special gifts were not included in this report and these will be announced at the final report meeting to be held at Somerville high school next Monday night.

Burned by Wire

Joseph La Blanc, 23, of 50 Sherman st., Roxbury, is on the danger list as the result of shocks and burns he received yesterday from a high-tension electric wire while working on a pole at Marginal and Lewis sts., East Boston.

ASKS POLICE TO STOP AIRPLANE PLAYING JAZZ

It looks as if Supt. Crowley will have to add a flying cop to the Boston police department. He'll also ask the department cops with complaints of citizens who complain that airplanes broadcasting jazz interfere with their ability to keep sidewalks.

Patrolman Edward Cook, while doing desk duty in Dudley street police station, received a telephone call from an excited woman who said that an airplane was flying over her house broadcasting jazz and that she wanted it stopped as the noise disturbed her nerves while she worked in her garden.

The woman talked so excitedly that Cook did not get her name. She said she lived on Winthrop av., Roxbury. Cook referred her to Capt. William Wade who told the woman to take her complaint to the registry of motor vehicles, which issues flying licenses.

She replied that she had done that without success but that she needed getting relief if forced to go to Washington.

PAROLLED MAN IN CAR THEFT CASE

Judge Hayden in Roxbury court found probable cause to hold for the grand jury, William J. Sands, 31, of Bowdoin st., Dorchester, who is on parole from State Prison. Sands was charged with larceny of an automobile, using an automobile without authority, larceny of a handbag, breaking and entering, and having possession of burglar's tools.

Police claim Sands has admitted that he had tried unsuccessfully to enter several houses on Wednesday evening, the same night the other alleged offenses were committed.

COURT TO SAY IF MAN IS FATHER

Judge Charles N. Harris of Middlesex Probate Court has a problem to decide similar to that which helped bring fame to Solomon except that instead of two persons claiming paternity of a child, one man is denying a five-year-old boy as his son.

When Oliver H. James of 14 Aberdeen rd., Somerville, stood on the witness stand in Judge Harris' court, contending his wife's action for divorce in which she charges desertion he asserted that Billy James was not his child.

The wife, Mrs. Rachael Edward James of Watertown, where she resides with her parents, sobbed when her husband denied being the father of little Billy.

Jack Dempsey Hops Off on New Air Line

Kansas City, Mo., June 1 (INS)—With 12 passengers aboard, including Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, a Ford monoplane took off from Richards Field for Los Angeles today. The voyage is over the route of regular 13-hour daily air service by the Western Air Express Lines.

Bag With $15,000 in Gems Vanishes

New York, June 1 (INS)—Detectives were searching today for a cowhide bag that contained $15,000 in jewels which mysteriously disappeared on the way from the Plaza hotel to the Pennsylvania station. The jewels belong to P. Malloy, an Oklahoma oil operator, and Mrs. Malloy.

'SICK PRISONER ESCAPES

Private Edward Provencher of Fort Banks, Winthrop, escaped from the hospital where he was confined as a "sick prisoner" by walking out the front door in his pajamas, changing to street clothes furnished by an accomplice and speeding in an automobile.

Provencher was under arrest for desertion, but became ill several years ago. His escape was discovered a few minutes after he left the building.

He is 25 years old, five feet, seven inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. Both eyes have a noticeable twitch and his arms are tattooed.

Sallies Chief Marries Daughter to Captain

London, June 1 (AP)—Capt. Catherine Higgins, daughter of Gen. Edward J. Higgins, head of the Salvation Army, was married to Capt. Harold Zeally today with her father officiating at the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom wore army uniforms. Waldron's Abbey Band, the corps of which the bride was captain, played for the wedding.

Loot His Cigar Box Bank of $2300

Hoboken, N. J., June 1 (AP)—Abraham Zabrosky, a storekeeper of 14th st., today was blackjacked and robbed of a cigar box containing $2300. The two robbers escaped in an automobile. Zabrosky kept such a large amount of cash because it has been his custom to cash pay checks for railroad employes.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Fly

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Governor, is to have her first flight Tuesday. Asked to sponsor a new plane, she wrote: "I am inclined to say no flight, no christening." The hint was taken.

Dog Sleeping on Siren Button Arouses City

Elizabeth, N. J., June 1 (AP)—The continuous blowing of a siren at a sash and door mill awakened residents of the neighborhood and disturbed patients in the Alexian Brothers Hospital at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Half an hour later police found Mayer's sleeping dog lying on a push button that was operating the siren.

Bell Cast by Paul Revere Will Tour New England

Thomaston, Me., June 1—The old Paul Revere bell in the belfry of the ancient Colonial Church on the hill here is to be taken down and sent on a pilgrimage throughout New England.

The bell, which was presented to the church by Gen. Henry Knox, Washington's chief of artillery and the first Secretary of War and Navy in the United States, was cast by Paul Revere in 1795. It was purchased by Gen. Knox at a cost of $400 and weighs 633 pounds.

The pilgrimage of the bell is intended to stimulate interest in the proposal to erect a memorial to Gen. Henry Knox, "the friend of Washington," one of the most neglected of the Revolutionary leaders. The memorial is to be a reproduction of "Montpelier," Knox' old home at Thomaston.

Miss Gen. Clarence R. Edwards is general chairman of the committee behind the project. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher and a native of Maine, is honorary chairman and has already contributed $50,000 to the fund.

"In addition to the amount already contributed, it is planned to raise $150,000, which will provide a fireproof memorial and museum for the preservation of objects of historical interest, as well as an endowment for the care and permanent maintenance of "Montpelier."

STAGE AND SCREEN

GOOD TO LAST PROP THING THAT COUNTS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THERE is really nothing in the world that matches the professional mourner for deep blue profundity. At the drop of the hat he will explain in accents loud, exactly where the victim of the hour caught the fatal malady. The poor old legitimate drama, now more than half dead with the heat and other complications, for some time has occupied the deep attention of the most solemn judges of cause and effect, with nothing more impressive in the way of diagnosis than a profound curse upon our producers for "not giving 'em what they want," referring particularly to the pay-going public.

NOW, it is all right to shed a saline tear over a producer's honest mistakes; you may even sadly lament his failure to "give 'em what they want." But does he deserve consolidated and unified censure? We think not. If there is any one fixed and unalterable notion in the minds of men who write for the theater, or with those that produce their product, it is to feed the public exactly what it craves and that it may digest. Difficulties arise along the general lines of re-ordinating public taste with untried manuscripts. Few playwrights toil in dark attics for the fun of it, and fewer producers risk their money on productions for the mere glory of doing something grand. The sum of both is at Mr. John J. Public and his intriguing box-office dollar and war tax.

Nicholas Young

AT TIMES it does seem as if the average producer is the worst guesser in the world. But you may take it squarely from an old timer that he always makes the most of what the mailman delivers in the shape of available prospects. There are men like Florenz Ziegfeld, of course, who always appear to sense the public's unyielding passion in entertainment, but I doubt if Mr. Ziegfeld, personally, turns up any more bona fide perspiration over his problems than some of his less successful brethren in the arts. The results may vary, but the personal aim is the same. Ziegfeld is a more regular winner in the drama's yearly joust because, undoubtedly, he is endowed with a finer understanding of what the public will pay for—and how much it will pay for sound entertainment. "Show Boat," now rounding out its fourth week at the Colonial, is an excellent example of how to do the thing right. The playgoer amply takes care of the rest of the problem.

FINDING your public is one thing. That is not difficult because it is forever with you in large numbers. Making the best use of your public is quite another matter. This involves not only the gift of making entertainment popular but of coining into a fluid and odd-fashioned quantity known as the "square deal." Mr. Ziegfeld keeps his fingers on all important keys. Probably no man ever lived that possessed a keener sense of the relation between the public and his "show" than the late B. F. Keith. Out of that extraordinary knowledge was laid the foundation for the most powerful and far-reaching theatrical organization the nation has ever known. The idea started in Boston; now it reaches from coast to coast.

THE original Keith idea in the amalgamation of entertainment with sanity and showmanship has been given a local test at the New B. F. Keith Theater. It was an experiment in the already firmly established two-a-day policy, with a strictly vaudeville bill. The pictures were brushed aside; the best of high-grade vaudeville substituted. Out of this experiment came new and happy prospects for the playgoer, for once more it was amply demonstrated that if you "give 'em what they want," the buyers are legion. There may be a little sentiment in Keith's rating to the fulfilment of its creator's dreams. Incidentally there is an aroused public interest in high-class entertainment at reasonable cost. The ravages of time and the preponderance of a throated camera have not dimmed or even shadowed the vision of Benjamin Franklin Keith.

FOUR HAD MA AS MANAGER

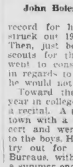
The mother of the famous four Marx Brothers was their manager, author and guardian. They were directed by an actor friend of theirs to a rooming-house in Chicago. Having no trunks, and very little in the way of baggage, they required two hours of persuasion to allay the landlady's suspicions sufficiently to allow them to remain. Here they waited until their mother could obtain work for them. They were allowed each 50 cents a day, figuring on a basis of 10 cents for breakfast, 15 for lunch and 25 cents for a real meal in the evening.

At that time Chicago was dotted with small-time vaudeville houses, most of them run by men who knew nothing about show business—tailors, butchers, bakers and tradesmen generally. They converted warehouses, lodge halls, skating rinks and most anything that would hold three of four hundred chairs into what they imagined was a theater.

In the neighborhood sections, three houses played two shows each night; in the business district four shows a day were the rule. Occasionally, when the business warranted it, an extra show would be given, when everyone would be paid for the extra performance except the actors.

The four Marx Brothers, who will be seen in "The Cocoanuts," all singing and talking musical extravaganza, at the Olympia and Fenway, starting today, were right at home in this atmosphere. They later grew famous.

VOCAL PITCH IN PITCHER



John Boles

John Boles, who had a leading role in Warner Bros.' latest all talking and singing film operetta in which is now playing at the Scollay, was born in Greenville, Texas. During his schooling he was the star pitcher of his high school baseball team. His chief interest was in athletics, and it was only under protest that he could be dragged away from the playing fields to practice his music.

He created a record for his district when he struck out 19 batters in a game. Then, just before his graduation, scouts for the big league teams went to consult the boy's father in regards to signing him up, but he would not listen to reason.

Toward the end of his junior year in college, the Glee Club gave a recital. A theatrical manager in town with a show, heard the concert and went backstage to talk to the boys. He suggested that they try out for one of the Lyceum Bureaus, with the idea of getting a summer engagement. The result of that conference was that the University of Texas Glee Club was booked for the vacation season for a thousand miles throughout the Middle West, with John Boles as soloist.

That was the first professional appearance of the actor. But the show business finally "got him."

CHEVALIER FILM

Ernst Lubitsch will direct Maurice Chevalier in his next picture, which will be "The Prince Consort." Guy Bolton will do the book on the production, which will be made on the Coast. Upon completion, Chevalier will go to Europe, returning after a month to start his third film at Long Island.

TRIPLE PLAY FOR ROMANCE IN THEIR LOOKS

MYRTLE ALLEN, who helps adorn the Glorifier's gorgeous "Show Boat" at the Colonial.

MARY EATON, bright artiste twinkler in "The Cocoanuts," at the Olympia and Fenway.

PUTS TALKIE OVER FAST

Until it enters its final reels, "The Man I Love" at the Metropolitan, rattles along at top speed and provides one of the months most entertaining talking films. Richard Arlen plays a prize-fighter to the hilt. Harry Green indulges in comic conversation, and Bardanova outdoes herself as the siren of the occasion. Others on hand are Jack Oakie and Mary Brian, who may or may not sing a song entitled "Celia." William Wellman did the direction and convincingly shows that there is no reason why any talking film should proceed at a snail's pace. He also provides several new camera tricks and two fairly good prize-fights.

All is well with "The Man I Love" till the film flickers into the "big fight" which Mr. Arlen is waging for the middleweight championship of the world. Then and there, director and author have inserted the same old situation; the hero being battered to bits and then suddenly reviving and knocking out the champion merely because he hears his sweetheart is somewhere in the vicinity.

The audience laugh, and who can blame them? It's one of the most ancient and most idiotic tricks in the whole movie bag.

A very funny short talking film entitled, "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," and a lavish presentation, "Surprise Party" round out the bill.

Richard Arlen

It's a Real Circus Backstage

By Bernard Sobel

HURRAH, the circus is in town.

These magic words stimulated the imagination and stirred the heart in days gone by. But their glamor recently has been obscured by the marvels which Ziegfeld has effected at the Colonial and in his various productions.

This terse statement may have a challenging ring, no doubt, but a visit backstage to the Colonial and to Mr. Ziegfeld's theaters in New York, will reveal, not only all the glories that made the circus the Valhalla of Gaiety, but a multiplicity of new wonders.

As a matter of fact, in every show which Mr. Ziegfeld has produced since 1907, there have been live animals ranging from a kitten to a bear, and representing at times tremendous cost and prize contest winners.

When "Show Boat," now delighting audiences here, opened in Washington, a wondrous old nag formed a part of the street parade. In "Rio Rita" there were at least six fighting roosters which combated each other violently during the opening number, until the Humane Society demanded an investigation.

Dennis King rode an emaciated white charger in "The Three Musketeers," and Jack Donahue carried a prize white cat in "Rosalie."

In the last "Follies" there were four prize dogs. The heroine of "Rio Rita," made her entrance on a horse, which had a temperament all its own.

In "Whoopee" Eddie Cantor becomes a trainer for the nonce and cavorts gaily with a calf which from time to time has to retire from the cast to give an understudy a chance.

The most unusual animal entry in the show was Sallie, the chimpanzee, in the "Follies." She was one of the most intelligent animals ever shown, and could go on the stage and imitate almost anything that was done. At one time, the famous beauty, Dolores, walked across the stage accompanied by a live and sinuous tiger, tawny and yellow, terrible and heroic. The effect was extraordinary, until one discovered, of course, that John Rinaldo had supplied this skin, and underneath it was a mastiff.

Mr. Ziegfeld's animalistic, if such a word may be used, "tour de force," is the current presentation in "Whoopee" of five ponies, who travel down the mountain side, carrying languorous Lady Godivas festooned with flowers.

Pictures—Variety

GLOBE—"Syncopation" and "The Quitter," for four days; starting Thursday, "The Donovan Affair" and "Hard Boiled."

HOWDOIN—"The Duke Steps Out," "Hot Stuff" and Charley Chase in "Thin Twins." Also vaudeville.

Terror Due to Conscience Motive for Film

Fear is the greatest of all horrors, in "Scandal," new film at the Modern and Beacon, the theme of the story is based on mental terror caused by an unhappy conscience. Laura La Plante as girl in the case declares that the role made an indelible impression on her and that never before had she realized so forcibly the importance of even small indiscretions.

BREAKFASTS ON ROLES

ERNEST GLENDINNING, who can just eat up any part in any play, adds to his laurels in "The Man Who Changes His Name" (Copley). He is Mr. Clive's guest star and does his bit.

TO KEEP COOL JUST VISIT THE SHOW

Movie fans attending any of the Publix theaters in Greater Boston this summer will immediately notice the remarkably cool atmosphere. The Publix Theaters Corporation, in a constant effort to please as well as to attract the public, has recognized that one of the most important attractions is to provide for the complete physical comfort of patrons. The air conditioning systems in Publix houses have met with unqualified public approval.

The Metropolitan and Scollay were two of the first theaters in New England to install modern refrigeration plants, and they met with such response from the public that the Publix Corporation decided to extend the same type in all their theaters in this district.

The Washington St. Olympia has had one installed which is now in operation.

The Uptown Theater, formerly the St. James, but now owned by Publix, is having one installed, as announced by Manager Harry "Tod" Browning, who also states that additional and extensive alterations are in the works covering an expenditure of over $500,000.

The most modern refrigeration plants are being installed in the Strand Theater, Upham's Corner; Capitol, Allston, and Central Square, Cambridge.

The air conditioning equipment is designed to maintain comfortable conditions, temperature, humidity and air purity in the theater every day in the year, regardless of outdoor weather or the size of the crowds.

Washed and completely freed from the tremendous amount of dust and fumes that commonly contaminate our city atmosphere, more than five tons of air each minute is distributed throughout the entire theater. The air is diffused down over the audience so gently that there is no danger of draughts. It reaches the breathing zone first, and is taken from the theater through openings located beneath the seats and at other low points throughout the building.

SONG BRINGS 'EM TO LIFE

A beautiful array of gowns is displayed in the Fox Movietone "Follies of 1929," which is to have its local premier, Monday, at the Keith-Albee Theater. One number serves to introduce Miss Dixie Lee, until recently featured in the Broadway production of "Good News," in which she danced and sang the "Varsity Drag." The Fox Follies number she sings is "Why Can't I Be Like You?" Strolling down Fifth ave., she is struck by a marvelous display of gowns on models in a modiste's window. She stops to inspect them, wondering why she never can get clothes like those she sees in the window. She sings, "Why Can't I Be Like You?" based on this theme, and is astounded when the models come to life and parade for her inspection.

Dixie Lee

The song was written by Con Conrad, Sidney D. Mitchell and Archie Gottler, who also staged the number, assisting the revue director, Marcel Silver.

The show girls who serve as models are Youda Hav, Sue Rainey, Lucile Jacques, Iris Ashton, Katherine Irving, Lita Chevret, Melva Cornell, Dorothy Cecil, Mildred Myrnie, Sugar Adair, Betty Becklow and Marie Cooper.

The "Fox Follies' were directed by David Butler, who also provided the story. William K. Wells supplied the dialogue. Sue Carol, Sharon Lynn and Lola Lane are other girl principals. In all, there are 200 performers.

Theater to Change Day for Its Openings

The management of the New B. F. Keith's announces that beginning June 15 the new programs will have their openings on Saturday instead of Sunday. The usual three performances at 1:45, 5:00 and 8:00 o'clock, with all seats reserved, will be the rule with this new opening policy.

It is also stated that this Saturday opening idea, which prevails at the Palace in New York City, from which Keith's gets its programs, will continue not only through the summer but throughout the coming fall season as well. Subscription requests made now for the three Saturday performances will receive attention in the order in which they reach the theater.

MISS NIXON SIGNS

Marian Nixon has been signed to appear opposite Richard Barthelmess in "Young Nowhere."

VAUDEVILLE'S THE RICHER, DUE TO HIM

Once upon a time, some 35 years ago, down on the East Side in New York which has given the theatrical world such celebrities as Irving Berlin, Fannie Brice, George White and scores of others, there was a family named Timberg, poor but bound together by a wonderful love and devotion. There was a father, with a great love for the violin in his heart, but sick physically and mentally.

As the children were born, and there were six of them, financial conditions became worse. The elder Timberg became so sick that for more than 20 years he was not able to contribute at all to the support of his family. However, his wife was equal to the emergency. She was mother, father and breadwinner for them all.

How she slaved and toiled and inspired her children with high ideals and a determination to better themselves and rise in the world, none but the children themselves will ever know. Today she is rewarded, for with six children now grown to the adult estate, she fondly surveys them, happy, rich, famous, and still as devoted to her as they were in the old days of their youth down on the lower East Side.

Molly was the oldest, Fanny next, then Herman, the author, composer, actor, and producer whose latest big vaudeville revue, Herman Timberg's "Varieties," is the headline attraction at the New B. F. Keith's Theater, starting tomorrow. Then came a boy named Frank; then Hattie, who as "Hattie Darling," was also a noted vaudeville and musical comedy artist until she married and retired; and finally, the last, Sammy, who, although but 22 years old, has achieved fame as a composer as well as an actor. He also is a talented pianist, as those who hear him play the piano in Herman Timberg's "Varieties" will attest.

WILL DIRECT

Victor Schertzinger, who is now directing Adolphe Menjou's first all-talking film, "The Conceri," will next direct "Four Feathers" for Par. This is a story by William N. Robson, 2d, and will have a cast including Fay Wray, Phillips R. Holmes and Kay Francis.

LILLIAN GISH RETURNS

Lillian Gish has returned to Hollywood. She is under contract to United Artists.

NORUMBEGA PARK

"The Great Fusener," whose daring feats on a revolving globe high in the air have caused huge crowds to visit Norumbega Park, has been kept for a second week because of his sensational success and will continue next week as the free outdoor attraction.

STAGE AND SCREEN

WHO CARES FOR SUMMER HEAT WHEN THE THEATERS' ATMOSPHERE IS SO INVITING?

PA IS A COP, but here he can't make his own daughter be good. Farnell B. Pratt and Eleanor Griffith in "Alibi" (Loew's Orpheum).

LUCKY IF YOU could choose this sweet! Mary Brian in "The Man I Love." (Metropolitan). She is charm personified.

DON'T FORGET to note that Lola Lane's brassiere idea is novel. She's in "Follies of 1929." (Keith-Albee).

MAM'ZELLE HERSELF! Renee Adoree lends feminine charm to "The Pagan." (Loew's State). Her ambition is starward.

SHEIKISH REGALIA of Johnny Arthur doesn't prevent Louise Fazenda from taking a few hems in his pride in "The Desert Song." (Scollay). Her turn to laugh now.

TALKIES DOOM DUMB BELLES AND DORAS

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

"I won't be long now! Tonsorially talking, the sound barbers have thus far elaborately lathered, shaved, massaged and shampooed almost everything from dollars to doughnuts, so that talkiedom is now reaching out for something new to try its baby fingers upon. Just as in the barber shop, the cry is "Next!" Manager Joseph H. Brennan of Loew's State Theater has authoritative ideas upon the whole broad subject of films and their future, and it is his guess that grand opera in all its tonal and scenic splendor—probably even in color—is soon to be on its way.

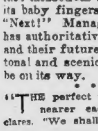
"THE perfect talkie is getting nearer each day," he declares. "We shall probably see it within a year. And then? Well, the battle will have been won; it looks like victory now, but there are still some who sturdily hold the lance for the old silent drama. My own opinion is that the old silent drama is doomed; it has been on the run for some months. The talkies are day by day getting better and better. And the public seems on the whole to be strong for the talking pictures, preferring them to anything else. And that public will be the jury to decide. Sound production is on a firm basis today; great things have been achieved, and greater things lie ahead. It will be a matter of a year or two perhaps, to bring grand opera to the screen, in well nigh perfect form."



Joseph H. Brennan

MANAGER BRENNAN is not only one of the best known theater executives in Boston, but he is one of the most alert managers in the country. He is a bear for work; keeps long hours on his job, and then spends other hours studying the new things constantly cropping up, due to continuing additions to motion picture knowledge in the shape of inventions galore. These developments necessitate changes and adjustments, so that the manager, to keep ahead of the speeding procession, must burn the midnight oil at really hard study.

SO IT WAS that we caught Mr. Brennan with a volume in hand—typewritten, for the contents were so new that they haven't had time to put the facts into printers' type. It might be inserted here that Mr. Brennan is a Boston product—born within the shadow of Bunker Hill; and he has worked up through the successive positions from usher to be head of a great playhouse.

"NO MAN can lag in this business and be a success," he said. "He must not only study; he must keep his eyes and ears open at all times. Why, one might say that eternal vigilance is the price of talkies; so closely do we have to watch that field. In a way the fate of a sound picture lies in this incessant vigil.

• • •

"SOME time ago I took up with the Western Electric Co. the matter of establishing a school for managers. They have since started a school, but it is for operators. But the managers have to study, too.

• • •

"I CANNOT conceive that any theater can hope to survive without sound equipment. Theaters that do not step into line will suffer the fate of the beautiful but dumb film actresses that have been hurled into the discard because they haven't voices. Once they would measure their fan mail by the bushel; now it gets less and less. They're weeding out the old screen talent. Men and women that can talk and act are the gainers; the talkies are a godsend to stage folk."

• • •

MANAGER BRENNAN promises a treat in the singing voice of Ramon Novarro, to be heard next week in "The Pagan" at the State. Novarro once studied for grand opera. "He sings like a man out of the opera ranks," said Mr. Brennan.

Miss Alibi

LAURA LA PLANTE, who furnishes the alibi in "Scandal" at Modern and Beacon.

Talkies Win Actor Back to Films

Pat O'Malley, who some time ago deserted the screen for the New York stage, returns to motion pictures in a leading role in "Alibi," Roland West's all-talking underworld thriller, at Loew's Orpheum, the coming week.

O'Malley has been acting in pictures for years. One of the most promising stars of the screen a few years ago, he deserted the screen at the height of his fame to return to the stage, his first love. With the advent of dialogue in pictures, O'Malley is back.

O'Malley began acting on the stage when he was eight years old. He belonged to a stock company that trouped up and down the Lackawanna Valley in Pennsylvania. During the show, young O'Malley played juvenile roles. Between the acts, he walked the tight wire. In the morning he handed out bills advertising the shows. Prior to his motion picture debut for the old Kalem Company, O'Malley's voice was heard, and frequently heard above the tumult, for circuses, burlesques, carnivals, vaudeville and the legitimate stage.

"THE LOCKED DOOR"

Zasu Pitts, Mack Swain and George Bunny have been added to cast of "The Locked Door." Others already signed for the cast are: Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, Betty Bronson and William Boyd.

LILA LEE WILL GET "FLIGHT" FILM ROLE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—The movies are going academic—and how. Prof. Brook Pitkin, Columbia University's famous professor of journalism and short story writing, has been signed by Carl Laemmle, Jr., as advisor to the scenario department at Universal City. Prof. Pitkin will come out to Hollywood during the summer months, returning to Columbia in the fall but still retaining his place as chief advisor.

This is the second professor that Universal has on the payroll. The other professor is William H. Mardon, professor of psychology, also from Columbia. Why not these educational men in motion pictures? Certainly they ought to have had vast experience with human nature, having taught hundreds of boys and girls at Columbia, one of the finest educational institutions in the world.

THIRTY THREE tests were made for "Flight" to get the right girl, so you cannot blame Lila Lee for feeling a little proud that thirty-fourth one won. She is the girl. She was really the original choice, but at the time "Flight" was cast she was busy making another picture. The difficulty of getting the right leading lady for Jack Holt postponed the picture until Miss Lee was free to accept the Columbia offer.

Seems to me I recall that Dorothy Revier, Ralph Graves and Jack Holt, the original Submarine cast, were to be in the picture. Harry Cohn has perhaps other plans for Graves and Miss Revier, both of whom are under contract to Columbia.

SHADES of William Shakespeare. Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are planning to send out four circus wagons to exploit "The Taming of the Shrew" to all the small town masses. This is a gesture conceived by somebody at United Artists to overcome the idea that this particular play of Shakespeare is highbrow.

I will say it is the least highbrow one of Shakespeare's plays and it is one of the few plays that is applicable to the modern day. "Taming of the Shrew," by the way, is the thirteenth picture of both Mary and Doug to be made for United Artists, and to carry out the thirteenth idea they are going to start it June 13.

VINNIE SHEEHAN is in a dilemma. You don't believe that smart Irishman will stay worried long, do you? This is what he wants to know, and here is a chance for you, fans, to express themselves. Not all at once, please, one at a time.

Winnie wants to know if John McCormack ought to sing his old favorites like "Kathleen Mavourneen," "Where the River Shannon Flows," "A Spot in My Heart," and "Just Awearyin' for You" and the rest of those sentimental ballads that have made him the outstanding Irish tenor and one of the most beloved singers, or something entirely new.

Personally, I think the Fox company should divide honors, letting McCormack sing a couple of his old numbers and a few new ones. Certainly Al Jolson benefitted by singing "Sonny Boy" an entirely new song.

HARRY JOLSON apparently does not share his brother Al's publicity value as an actor. He was signed by one of the Universal executives in New York who thought as Al's brother he ought to be a knockout in the talkies. However, Universal had the foresight to slip into the Jolson contract the clause "If a story suitable to both parties is found."

That is the Jonah that hurt Lillian Gish and that gave United Artists the privilege of withdrawing from the Gish contract and now the same thing has happened with Harry Jolson. He leaves next month to start a vaudeville tour in England in August, but so far as Universal is concerned, there will be no picture made, but since he had a good job nothing is done.

I DON'T knew that it matters very much to the waiting world who discovered Winifred Westover, but Herbert Brenon seems to think it is a matter of colossal importance. He sends me a telegram explaining that it was he who discovered Miss Westover although he naively admits he would not have put her into "Lummox" if Fannie Hurst had been unwilling.

Miss Westover, herself, supplements Brenon's urgent telegram with another telegram. I don't know who else will take up the matter, so in order to forestall any more telegrams let's have the truth known. Brenon, by the way, is in the hospital undergoing a nasal operation. Production in "Lummox" meanwhile is being postponed.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Constance Bennett lunching with Lilyan Tashman at the Montmartre. Lila Lee in a huge hat indicating that summer has "came." Seena Owen in a red dress being complimented on her appearance. Joe E. Brown denying that his middle name is Eggert. Corinne Griffith and Walter Morosco getting a welcome home from all their Beverly Hills neighbors.

Ivan Kahn receiving a solid silver tea service from the 11 motion picture stars he represents. The occasion being his marriage to pretty Doris Pastor. Frances Marion in a becoming summer dress waiting to talk to Irving Thalberg. That's all today. See you Monday.

All Aboard

Edward Thompson, the boy of the Boston American Lindbergh Club who most closely resembles Frankie Darro, juvenile movie star, was so elated about his trip to New York that he climbed right up into the engineer's cab on the Merchants Limited.

DARRO DOUBLE SEES GOTHAM

Edward Thompson, 8, of 17 Green st., Charlestown, the boy of the Boston American Lindbergh Club who most closely resembles Frankie Darro, juvenile motion picture star, is in New York.

He was up bright and early this morning ready for the first day of his sight-seeing. Edward, accompanied by his mother, is making the trip as the guest of the Publix Theaters of Boston. They are accompanied by Frank Honkala, manager of the Olympia Washington St. Theater, who will conduct them about New York.

It is planned to have Edward visit the observation tower on the new Paramount building in Manhattan first. Then he will go to Central Park and from there to other points of interest in Manhattan. This evening he will attend a show on Broadway.

Tomorrow morning he will go to Coney Island, where he will have a chance to see one of the largest amusement parks in the world. Returning to Brooklyn in the afternoon, he will be the guest of Managing Director J. L. McCurdy at the Paramount Theater in Brooklyn, where "The Rainbow Man" will have its premier showing in New York city. It is in this all-talking picture that Frankie Darro plays a leading role. Edward will return to Boston Sunday evening.

While Edward was in New York today enjoying the thrills of the big city, another member of the Boston American Lindbergh Club was over at Andrew Square enjoying the thrills of circus life. This boy is George E. Smith, 11, of 2 Arcadia st., Woburn, who wrote the best slogan for Tom Mix.

Tomorrow will be spent on the circus lot in Providence. George will eat and sleep with the circus for the day, returning to Boston in the evening.

Nearly 100 boys and girls of the Boston American Lindbergh Club, who live outside of Greater Boston, are winners of tickets to the Sells-Floto circus for writing slogans about Tom Mix and his pony, Tony. Tickets were mailed to the following children:

The Winning TEMPERANCE PLAN in the Hearst $25,000 Prize Contest

FOR nearly four months the Hearst newspapers have conducted a $25,000 Prize Contest in an effort to bring out and clarify the nation's best ideas on a practical, legally workable and socially acceptable substitute for prohibition — a plan that could bring about real national temperance.

The response has been remarkable not only for its quantity and its unusually high quality, but for its international scope.

In addition to the 71,248 PLANS submitted by men and women in every profession and walk of life in every State and territory of the United States and 34 foreign countries, there resulted an amazing outpouring of non-competing ideas from thousands upon thousands of persons who seized the opportunity merely to express their disapproval of prohibition and its manifold evils.

The 71,248 competing entries and their supplementary data, totalling more than 100,000,000 words, represent an interest never before achieved by ANY contest of this character.

In the matter of quality, the fact that the Board of Judges, composed of seven eminent, nationally-known citizens, used the discretionary privilege allowed them by the donor to award prizes of $5,000, $2,000 and $1,000, IN ADDITION to the capital prize of $25,000, attests the high calibre of the plans submitted.

The judges were confronted with the colossal task of considering the thousand-and-one angles of prohibition as viewed by Federal Judges, Prohibition Enforcement Directors, college professors, school principals, former U. S. Senators, Congressmen, Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers, artists, authors, economists, bankers, physicians, railroad officials, importers, exporters, manufacturers—an array of viewpoints never before focused upon one subject.

NOW—having reviewed this vast collection of studied proposals, and having deliberated whether in these 71,248 plans there is one that is PRACTICAL, LEGALLY WORKABLE AND SOCIALLY ACCEPTABLE, they have come in to announce their verdict.

The winner of the $25,000 prize, and the names of those receiving the additional awards will be announced, and the complete winning plan, together with a comparative analysis of the other award-winning plans, will be published in Tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser. The second, third and fourth best plans will be published in full, one each day, in the Boston Evening American of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The thousands of entrants, and the hundreds of thousands of persons honestly desirous of seeing real temperance in the United States will be keenly interested in the results of this great referendum on a substitute for prohibition as presented

CHAPTER 3

WHEN Alan didn't appear at the office, Ione got leave and went to Lyall.

Walking with her father she told him Alan wasn't coming.

"I didn't tell him—" On a caught breath. "Your boss, being a modern young woman, believes in these marital vacations. Rest from each other—brush up the shine—that's the new way, dear Tom." Laughing a little, keeping her face turned.

He spoke after a silence. "There must always be the shine? That's the new way, then? Forsake each other at the dull places? And the boy believes this too?"

"Oh, Tom! He—I think he just happa."

"Well, then, you've given him a home, dear. Done your part."

"You mean I shouldn't have gone back to work; that I'm putting ambition above duty—"

"Was there division when he was bread-winner and you the homemaker, lass? Answer me that now!"

"But we were so poor. I had to cook all in one pot!"

He, a dull pain? So you brushed up the shine but it brought no joy. Now with a dozen pots is the food more savory?"

"No, Tom—oh, no—"

They tramped back in a smouldering twilight.

The next day she brought Timmy and played with him all afternoon. Alan found her there. A step on the grass, arms about her, face pressed down to hers.

"Ione darling, darling! You didn't call me, didn't want to hear what I had to say. You're all through? Ah—"

She had pictured herself the one to be comforted, now she must hold him as she held little Timmy—still him not to mind so.

"You'll come back to me. In? Sure, I'd not deserve it—only that I love you so. Fellow alone so much—"

"I'll stay home, Lanny. You've always wanted this. I should not have opposed it."

He spoke in a shamed, miserable voice. "Ione run into debt—damnable if we can manage a month or two? I shouldn't ask this?"

"Oh, certainly." She heard herself say that.

They remained in Lyall for the week-end and went back to work Monday, each resolved to make their life a happier one than it had been.

It was weeks since Alan had put his share into the family cash box. She understood he was paying off his debts and couldn't bring herself to say a word.

The office, when Ione finally got there late in the afternoon, was a place of turmoil. Now it was that some one from the Weimar Bank had done a thing to offend the estate Antony Ros and this was tragedy.

Benz told Ione what she must do. "Tonight's the last performance of 'Lost Lady' and the company is giving Ros a dinner on the stage before the curtain rises.

"Get your glad rags and go over. Crash the gate—nobody minds. Tell that nut he can have whatever he wants, even a thirty per cent split, though that's criminal. Only, in case the boss exploding, she stepped to tell Alan. I'm a sorry Len. Oh, really! If I could get out of it!"

FAIR AND COOL FOR WEEK-END

More refreshing cool weather is in store for New Englanders over the week-end, in marked contrast to the sweltering heat of the past three and a half days.

Temperatures today in Boston were held under 90 and tomorrow they will be even lower as an area of cool weather centered this morning from Manitoba east to the Great Lakes region, with accompanying areas of from 10 to 25 degrees in temperature, will settle down over New England.

Tomorrow will be a cool break day in the vicinity of Boston, prompting the old big and go for a long ride over the country with the kiddies. There are no storms in sight.

ALLEN SIGNS TAXI COMMISSION ACT

Governor Allen signed the resolve creating a special unpaid commission to study the taxicab situation in Boston. The resolve is the aftermath of the drive made by the independent taxicab operators who charged they are being "frozen out" by the recently established for taxi stands in Boston.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson opposed the special commission, and favored an investigation of the entire subject.

Iconian, farmer, beekeeper and mayor—that's Michael J. O'Hara, the versatile chief executive of the growing city of Worcester.

Mayor O'Hara believes in building good roads and new schools. His administration has laid out some 17 miles of new highways, and erected 18 schools and additions. Sidewalk and crosswalk work has totaled 22,000 feet.

Installing modern sewerage conditions is a hobby of the mayor. During the last year alone, 13 miles of sewers were put down, bringing the total of the O'Hara administration to 45 miles.

Worcester is proud of its healthful living conditions. The mayor eliminated some 500 receptacles in his new sewer program.

In his spare time, the mayor enjoys digging away at the spuds on his little farm by the lakeside.

GOOD AIRPORT

Roscoe H. Goddard, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been a leader in making the institution one of the outstanding in the country. He came to this city from Salem, where he had served for five years.

Worcester has one of the finest airports in the country, and this was started by the chamber. This chamber has about a dozen subdivisions on industry, traffic and other subjects of community value. Worcester was saved about $40,000 when the chamber conducted its own industrial survey.

Students at Holy Cross classes in economics assisted in the survey and gained valuable experience. The survey showed some 600 industries, many of which are the largest in the world. This city is the center of the magnificent highway system of New England and is also the big railway crossroad point of the six states.

Worcester is known as the "Heart of the Commonwealth," the city of diversified industries, and the city of churches. There are 100 of the latter institutions.

ANOTHER BOOSTER

Settlers in 1674 had to fight their way to success over repeated attacks by Indians. Worcester for many years was a frontier town of a few thousand population, always in danger of raids.

John F. Tinsley, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, and now vice-president and general manager of the Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, is one of the leaders of the New England Council.

Tinsley is head of the Massachusetts council of this group, and was formerly vice-president. He is now chairman of the committee on community development.

The plant of which Tinsley is manager employs some 3,000 men and has an annual payroll of about $3,000,000. Its product is valued in output each year at about $15,000,000. This loom works is the largest of its kind in the world.

Pehr G. Holmes, war time mayor of the city, has been one of the outstanding political figures in recent years. He has just completed four years as a member of Governor Fuller's council, and was one of the candidates for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts.

Worcester passed many thousands of dollars for war funds under Mayor Holmes, and sent more than its share of soldiers and sailors.

Serving his seventh year as city solicitor, William C. Mellish is a familiar figure at the State House and, of course, in local political circles. He is president of the Worcester County Bar Association.

Mellish led the fight for the city in the now famous Worcester electric light case. The city demanded a reduction from seven to five cents, in a petition to the Public Utilities Commission. This was awarded, but the company declined for some time to allow the reduction.

Worcester will gets its reduction in rates, and refunds of back charges overpaid. Mellish, who was once a newspaperman on the old Worcester Spy, is a golf devotee.

SAFE FOR CHILDREN

Under direction of George H. Hill, manager of the Worcester Safety Council, the city has attained a record unsurpassed in the country. Some 33,000 children, dismissed twice daily from school, are organized in safety patrols and not a single child has been injured in traffic in the past year.

Worcester has also reduced motor vehicle deaths by 43 per cent. Hill is an authority on traffic problems, and recently retired as police chief after 35 years in the harness. He has been president of the Traffic Association of Police Officers of the country, president of the Massachusetts Police Chiefs' Association and of the New England Police Chiefs' Association.

Maurice Splaine, local attorney and former vice-commander of the American Legion, holds an important position in local Knights of Columbus circles as president of the K. of C. H. E. C. and B. A.

"That means," said Splaine "the Knights of Columbus Religious, Educational, Charitable and Benevolent Association."

This is the holding corporation for the organization, and under Splaine there has been a pronounced awakening in the line of renovating and building. The present hall seats 1,200 and serves 2,500 members.

Worcester police are now assuming military aspects with regular classes in military drill and discipline. Chief Thomas F. Foley, who came up from the ranks after 23 years of service, is an old time military man who retired from the army with the rank of brigadier general.

Foley is one of 17 "honor men" on the police roll of 485. His war service includes the Spanish-American War, the Mexican border service and the World War.

HERO OF WAR

This police chief has 11 decorations of different types, including the Distinguished Service Cross, two French medals and numerous other citations for valor in action. He was in all the major engagements in France and was twice wounded.

Walter S. Young, superintendent of schools, has been with the local school department for 26 years. He was a teacher, then principal and now head of the system.

Worcester has the largest junior high school in the State, and architects are now working on plans for another. There are 60 schools under Supt. Young.

One of the great achievements of Supt. Young and Mayor O'Hara is the housing of surplus pupils. Six years ago there were 6000 children without seats. Now there are only a score or more without seats, but they will be housed in September.

Supt. Young is a former Rotary president.

SOMERVILLE MONDAY

The Curious Quizzer

Charlestown Folk Answer His Daily Question and Pose for Pictures.

THE QUESTION

Do you think the question of the return of the Boston Elevated railway to private ownership should be submitted to a referendum of the people?

Miss Alice Kealley, Dexter row—As to operation of the Boston Elevated, I think the voters should vote it by ballot whether the railway should be turned to private ownership or to public ownership outright by taxpayers, who are its proper owners. When a private utility, valued at millions of dollars, involves comfortable transportation of masses of people between their homes and places of business, I feel that who shall own that property should be decided by a referendum. The plan in Philadelphia should be followed around Boston, where, under Mutten's management, the stocks and shares of the rapid transit belong to the people.

MISS MARY EGAN, Main st—Before taking my position in Charlestown I was employed where my work brought me almost exclusively in contact with patrons of the Boston Elevated. From opinions freely expressed in my presence when I worked in my former position, it seems that the general idea was that the railway had been under public trusteeship long enough. If it is going to change hands I think a referendum of the people should be demanded before the question is decided as to whether the voters favor the Elevated system back to private ownership or have the State buy it outright.

PATRICK J. DONOVAN, Pleasant st.—There has been a lot of talk of turning over the Boston Elevated for an additional 99 years under the State's management. I think the State has had control of the company about long enough, since it was given the job as a war measure. Of course the many evils inflicted on Charlestown with this frightful overhead invasion of iron monstrosity which should never have been allowed. A referendum by the people should be taken, though when, I think would result in giving the whole property back to the individual owners, provided they removed the hated nuisance. A vote on a referendum could accomplish return of the property to its rightful owners and abolish the unsightly structures from our streets.

JOSEPH C. THOMPSON, Harvard sq.—Like everything which affects the interests of the public, the question of the return to private ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway should be settled by a referendum of the people. If Charlestown had the question put to it, I would have no hesitation in voting for the removal of the noisy steel structure overhead which mars the main thoroughfares in a perpetual darkness, put to a vote, it would have been junked long ago. Now I hope that the people will be given a chance on a referendum to decide whether the Elevated is to have full control of running its property, and which I am in favor of, or that it continue to be run by trustees of the State.

WILL TAKE $50,000 IN OFF FROM CITY BILLS AIRPORT PROTESTED

An attempt to break the world's altitude record for Curtiss OX-5 motored stock commercial planes will be made tomorrow afternoon at the Boston Airport by Lieut. P. H. Spencer, sales manager of the Curtiss Flying Service of New England, Inc.

The present record of 16,500 feet was made last December at Schenectady by Red Beveraux in a Curtiss Robin plane, the same type ship as will be used by Spencer.

Lieut. Spencer believes that he can better the present record by at least a thousand feet, and expects to reach the "ceiling" in an hour and a half. He will stay at the ceiling for another hour, trying to get a few more feet out of the 90 horsepower motor.

While the present unbunted record for airplanes is around 40,000 feet, the two flights cannot be compared, because the plane Spencer will use is a striply stock job, without supercharger on the motor, and carrying a full complement of equipment.

Spencer has been flying for 15 years. He taught himself to fly at his home in Windsor, Ct., on home-made gliders and motor planes, designed and built by himself. He is 32 years old and has spent 2500 hours in the air.

The flight will be official because Spencer will carry a sealed barograph loaned by M. I. T. The National Aeronautic Association, the national body in charge of such attempts, will be represented by Theodore Holcombe, governor of the Massachusetts chapter. Benjamin Kelsey, of M. I. T. will be in charge of the barograph, and will compute the exact altitude reached by Spencer. The Federation Aeronautique Internationale will have a representative observing the flight.

"These type of Waltham city officials, in connections outside the State are nothing but invisibles and there is no legal justification for them," said Attorney A. A. Weiner today, explaining the protest of 14 taxpayers who filed a petition with City Auditor C. Ralph Dow in an attempt to prevent the payment of $50,000 from public funds for various purposes.

One of the objectionable items is $2950, appropriated by the city government for trips outside Massachusetts.

Another is an appropriation of $25,000 to settle unpaid bills contracted by residents of Waltham at Waltham Hospital.

A third is $11,917.50 to wipe out the debt of the high school athletic field.

The 14 protestants say the filing of the petition is the first step in their fight to prevent the illegal expenditure of city funds. They say their next step will be a bill in equity to prevent payment or secure a return of the money that already has been paid.

IS "VACATION MONEY"

After receiving the petition, City Auditor Dow asked City Solicitor John I. Flynn if what effect it would have on the payments which had already been made. Flynn replied that it would have no effect.

Atty. A. A. Weiner who circulated the petition and is counsel in the case said, "Our purpose is to curtail an increase in the tax rate. These expenditures are not only unwise but illegal. The sum of $2950 appropriated to be paid for trips outside of the state expenses of city officials in vacation and convention money to be used for the personal benefit, recreation and pleasure of city officials."

With reference to the high school athletic field that was given to the city of Waltham by the Waltham Athletic Association. The debt was on the field at the time. Why should the taxpayers of Waltham pay such a bill?

The contract for whatever work was done on the field was made between committee who did the work with the officials of the athletic association. There is no good reason why the citizens of Waltham should be forced to pay such a debt and we don't intend to."

The appropriation of $25,000 provided in the city budget to wipe out the unpaid bills of Waltham Hospital contracted at Waltham Hospital should not be paid by the city as the city did not contract the bills. Such a payment would be nothing short of a municipal gratuity. The sum of $8987.06 was paid to the hospital May 7 by the city. We are informed that retained as well as present the payment of the balance as intended."

CAUSE HIGH TAXES

Former Mayor Eben J. Williams, who signed the petition, said: "Our purpose is to prevent what can be done with the city money. We want the court to decide what the taxpayers' money is to be expended in these expenditures and intended payments."

Joseph Franklins, who signed the petition, said:

"Waste of city funds cause high taxes and that is what we are trying to prevent. An illustration of such waste was shown yesterday when the white-collar men in City Hall were permitted to quit work and go home because of the heat while the city laborers continued to toil in the streets."

The persons whose signatures appear on the notice served on City Auditor C. Ralph Dow are: William J. Mitchell, Eben J. Williams, John Tanki, Sankin Sankin, Solomon Pliskin, John D. Sinclair, Gaetano Simone, Guiseppe Salamone, Antonio Sarrano, Aaron Mendelsohn, Nicola Salamoni, Lupo Marcou, Morris Canter and Joseph Franklins.

AL LASSMAN UNDER KNIFE

New York, June 1 (AP)—Al Lassman of Cambridge, Mass., giant football star of New York University, who was seriously injured in a football game at Pittsburgh last fall, today underwent an operation designed to repair the damage to his brain.

Doctors announced the operation was entirely successful.

The operation was performed by Dr. Charles A. Elsberg, professor of neurology with only the aid of a local anaesthetic.

Lassman had suffered disturbances in the circulation of the brain, the University announced, and should recover satisfactorily from the operation.

500 Students to Be in Newton Concert

More than 500 students are to take part in the annual outdoor concert of the Newton high school on the high school grounds on June 7. The chorus, band and orchestra of the school will participate.

Edward N. Griffin will be in charge of the chorus, and Charles Solomon Pliskin, John D. Sinclair, Gaetano Simone, Guiseppe Salamone, Aaron Sarrano, Aaron Mendelsohn, Nicola Salamoni, Lupo Marcou, Morris Canter and Joseph Franklins.

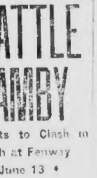
Gorilla Jones Says He Will Kayo Mello on Monday

FULLER IS TO BATTLE ZERAMBY

featherweights to Clash in Title Match at Fenway Park June 13

By JACK CONWAY

GORILLA JONES says he will knock out Al Mello in the Boston Garden on Monday night and he means every word he says. Jones came near accomplishing that feat when he battled Mello at the Garden a few months ago, but Al managed to last the limit. Jones has been working hard for the battle and is confident he will be returned the winner.



Jack Conway

A SPEED BOY

Keyes was human watch-springs that made his left hook and right uppercut beat the opponent to the punch. Slammed and thrown like a rubber ball, he battled the bigger man to a standstill, forced his man to bang on for clear life in the first round, then settled down to first rate boxing.

Reminiscent of his corner at the Garden, Mello entered the ring with a handful of Al's two pounders under and around his left to win for a rough session.

In the second round, Jones mixed it with a right to the head and a left uppercut. Al went down and was fortunate to weather the count. Jones managed to land with confidence and looked like a likely slugger from that point on. Mello never had a chance of regaining the lead.

ANOTHER fistic surprise on Monday night's card is the presence of Lope Tenorio, the sensational Cuban knockout king, who clashes with Jimmy Scanlon of Boston in a scheduled ten-round bout. Tenorio, with a long string of knockout victims to credit, is being groomed by Tex Rickard to be coming to the Hub in hopes of topping the Nonpareil Jack Dempsey. Since Phineas King Tut and Joe Chick all were beaten by the Cuban, who is one of the most clubfighters in the game.

Three six-round bouts and a four-rounder also are on the program for Monday night. Tony Shuster of North End, winner of 13 straight bouts in professional ranks, will face Dick Flanagan of Malden, while Walter Peters of Germany meets Frankie Stevens, South Boston, and Paddy Mullins, welterweight champion of the Atlantic fleet, will meet Al Hoffman of North End. In the opening four-rounder, Johnny Scalfo of South Boston opposes Joe Sacchio of Sharon Gardens.

COL. BOB McKIRDY of the Arena Club has signed Sammy Fuller to defend his title in New England featherweight championship against Zeramby of Lynn in a ten-round bout at Fenway Park on June 13.

Fuller and Zeramby should furnish one of the best battles between little men ever staged here. Besides being good boxers, Sammy and Jake can also punch.

Fuller flattened Chick Suggs at Tiverton, R. I., on the holiday, while Zeramby recently stopped Newport Johnny Brown at Lynn.

The Fuller-Zeramby bout will mark the opening of the outdoor season at Fenway Park.

It is expected that the match will attract a large crowd in view of the rivalry between the two boxers and their ability as action fighters.

State Open Golf at Vesper Club Monday

The amateur golfers of Massachusetts apparently are intent on giving their professional rivals a stern struggle for possession of the state open championship in the 72-hole medal play tournament for the title Monday at the Vesper. The entry list of 96 is generously sprinkled with the names of the leading lights of amateurs, with Francis Ouimet and Phil Finlay the only notable absentees.

KEYES ALMOST DROPPED SUMMERS WITH THIS RIGHT TO THE JAW IN THE FIFTH.

MR. BOSTON

BY JACK CONWAY

"THANKS for the east wind," said Mr. Boston as he buttoned the collar of his sport shirt and put on a light coat. "I'm glad I'm in Boston and not in Egypt. When it gets hot in Egypt, it stays hot. They haven't got even canned east wind over there.

"Anyhow that's what Nick Fiatley tells me. And he once visited Egypt after a long training in smoking his favorite brand of Egyptian cigarettes. I understand that a course in cigarette smoking is necessary for a proper enjoyment of the pyramids and such things.

"The breaking of the hot wax was well received by Eddie Mack and Sheldon Fairbanks at the Boston Garden. They are staging a 10-round bout between Al Mello and Gorilla Jones on Monday night.

"Fight promoters like to apply their own steam to their fistic enterprises. When the weather man steps in and hands out 96 degrees of steam, the match on the fire is liable to get a little bit over done. Such a happening scares off the cash customers.

"Mr. Mack knows just what amount of steam a bout can stand, and now that the east wind will allow him to do his own stuff Monday night's show should go over.

"THE east wind blew Col. Bob. McKirdy into a huddle with Sammy Fuller, Jake Zeramby, Rip Valenti and Dick Russell. It cooled off the demands of the boxers and their enterprising managers with the result that Fuller and Zeramby were signed to clash in a ten-round bout at Fenway Park on June 13.

"The New England featherweight championship will be at stake. Fuller, the title holder, knocked out Chick Suggs at Tiverton, R. I., on the holiday and appears to be able to take care of himself. Zeramby stopped Johnny Brown at Lynn last week and has an idea he will tip the champion from his throne.

"The bout is a 'natural' and should furnish a perfect opening for the baseball orchard.

"I understand that Hy Diamond and Frankie Moore will collide in the semi-final for the right to get tangled up with the winner of the Fuller-Zeramby mill.

"THE east wind cooled Paul Bowser off sufficiently to enable him to parade into this office.

"Those Western promoters talk about money just as though they owned all of the mints,' said Paul. 'Lou Daro out in Los Angeles has offered $100,000 for another Sonnenberg-Lewis bout, while San Francisco City promoters are also making record bids for the match. I would like to see this show come to Boston, and have half an idea that I may yet make an offer which will make the others look just ordinary.

"I believe Boston is the greatest city for wrestling in the country, and would like to prove it by promoting a Sonnenberg-Lewis bout here. But then $100,000 is quite a bid to top, especially when one must also consider the added expenses in connection with a title affair. Such a bout would have to draw $150,000 to give the promoter any profit.

"'I BELIEVE Lewis does Sonnenberg an injustice when he charges Gus does not care to meet him again. If there is one athlete who is without fear, it is Dynamite.'"

10-MILE RUN IN DORCHESTER

The Dorchester A. A. conducts a 10-mile handicap run in Dorchester today. The race will start at 4 o'clock at Fields Corner and has a course that passes through the five wards of Dorchester.

Many popular runners are already entered.

Frank McCure, winner of the St. Finbar's run on Memorial Day; Jimmy Finnigan, winner of the time prize in the same race, and Jack Lamb, who played such a big part in the B. A. A. race on Patriots' Day, are on the card. Another sterling runner, Charlie Cummings, who won the Lynn run about two weeks ago, is entered. The Teuell brothers of the Dorchester Club are another pair of runners that should make the race interesting.

The Dorchester Club is sending one of the largest fields of runners ever entered by one club. Forty-five of their runners are in the Saturday grind.

New Haven, June 1—A squad of 18 Princeton baseball players is here to meet Yale in the first game of a dual series this afternoon.

HARVARD FACES HOLY CROSS AT WORCESTER

By TED LYNCH

Worcester, June 1—Holy Cross plays host to the second Boston rival in three days when the Crusaders face Harvard at Fitton Field this afternoon. The Purple nine defeated Boston College here on the holdout and hope to accomplish their 5th win of the season this afternoon at the expense of Harvard.

Coach Fred Mitchell at Crusader headquarters on his arrival here this morning said he had definitely ruled out Ed Connolly as his pitcher. Mitchell limited the choice to Whitmore, a sophomore, and Wentzell, a junior. Both showed the best at Braves Field last week in an informal affair, and the choice will be made by a knock-out, a block game, and with Whitmore pitching. Both have worked in every round, the tests at bat being the most effective a hurler hitter and the aggressor.

Holy Cross fans are regarding the Purple as the underdog of the Harvard big nine with 13 games and but three as compared to the Holy Cross record of 19 wins in 20 games. The Purple fans do not waver but regard Harvard as the logical opponent to play at Fitton Field this season.

JAP GOLFERS ARE TAXED

Tokio, May 29 (AP)—Over the protests of the Japanese golfing fraternity a poll tax on golfers has been declared legal by the home department.

Thus far sufferers from the new impost are few, as its application is limited to the southern prefecture of Fukuoka, where golf is in its infancy.

The farmer lies in the sweeping nature of the home office ruling, appointing the $10 annual tax levied by the Fukuoka prefectural assembly.

This ruling makes it possible for any local citizen who feels like it to make the golf fans pay for the new village pump or else put away their clubs.

The ruling was handed down in spite of a former protest from the vice minister of agriculture, who wrote that golf, being no longer the monopoly of the monied and titled classes, is the trend being taken up by the people in general," and "deserves encouragement because of it fosters a new idea of gentlemanliness."

"At this stage," he added, "when new golf courses are being opened in every part of the country, bearing witness to its increasing popularity, any tax which would bar its progress is obviously detrimental to the best interests of the national health and national thought."

Other officials, themselves ardent golfers, opposed the tax, but the home office approved the impost on the ground that to rule it out would be unwarranted interference with the rights of local governments.

At the same time it approved local taxes of five per cent voted by the Fukuoka and Shizuoka prefectural assemblies and the Yokohama city assembly on the intake of race course pari mutuels.

Fukuoka expects to collect not more than 2000 yen a year from its golf tax, as there are not more than 200 devotees of the ancient and honorable game in the prefecture.

Fugazy and Robbie Fail To Get Breaks

Brooklyn (AP)—What a year it has been for the kings of Brooklyn sports.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn baseball club banked on Glenn Wright, his new shortstop, to pull the team from the mire. Wright reported with a sore arm and hasn't been much at the bat box.

Humbert Fugazy, after several seasons in the promotion business with nothing but red ink on the books to show for his efforts, tied up with Jack Dempsey and his hope that the old mauler would bring him prosperity. He made Jack his matchmaker. Figuring that he couldn't do that in a great big way he might try fighting. But Jack Sharkey, a pike Brooklynite impressario by jumping to Chicago.

Mayor to Attend Revere Amateurs

School Nines Face Big Weekend

By DICK McSWEENEY

THE SCHOOLBOY baseball nines assemble today for one of the last big weekends in baseball.

Dean Academy brings its season to a climax at Franklin, where St. John's Prep is entertained. Dean has taken the measure of many fine teams this season and is out to end things satisfactorily today.

Last Wednesday Dean scored a victory over St. John's and figures on repeating its mid-week feat. McNamara pitches for Dean, with Biggi serving them up for the Prep school nine.

Malden entertains Everett at the Pearl st. stadium, and the Blue and Gold is optimistic because of its win over Lawrence. Everett gives Malden just as much opposition as the Mill City, however. It has two fine hurlers in De Angelo and Ward and also possesses one of the peppiest and hard-hitting backstops in the Suburban League in Jerry Pinhiea. Beaman pitches for the Malden team.

Brockton comes to Medford prepared to grind the Blue and White colors into the dust. Bump Goldring is assigned to pitch for Medford. Errol Hallamore has been tossing them efficiently for the Shoe City skate-gatherers and is likely to twirl against Medford.

CAMBRIDGE LATIN meets to down Somerville at Dilboy field, using Browning in the box. The Cantabs thumped out a victory over Medford recently and feel that they can do the same thing at Somerville.

McFadden is back in the Cambridge lineup, but not as a pitcher. He's ranging first out in centerfield and seems to be doing well. Katz is turning in his usual brilliant game at the third sack and is playing better ball every day.

Somerville has shaken its lineup around in an effort to make things click. The team looked good early in the season but the boys have stepped on a banna peel since then and are a bit shaky.

Capt. Art Graham is playing an usually well in center field and is giving the horsehide long rides in his trips to the plate. Pitching duties is slated to hurl for the Red and Blue.

C. HIGH puts the finishing touches on one of its most successful seasons by opposing Medford on the B. C.'s diamond. Bochner is to shoot them over for the Maroon and Gold, with Morgan (C.) doing the fine line of work for the Wealthy Towners.

B. C. High has one of the best second sackers in the schoolboy circles. The name is Curran and he's playing the fundies around that second sack is sparkling. He hits the ball viciously and accepts far more chances than he fumbles.

Brookline took a beating from Newton recently and wants to get a little prestige by humbling B. C. high.

Lynn Classical journeys to Waltham, where they face Pendergast. Routhaska is due to pitch for Classical.

Haverhill and Lawrence collide at Lawrence with the home team favored to come out on top. McConiskey is doing the pitching for Lawrence. Leggacy duels for Haverhill.

Stoneham mingles with Winthrop at Ingleside Park, Winthrop. The invaders have a pretty fair ball club and one real hurler in Theroux. Adzigian and Carston have been doing things right in the field and are hitting at a fast clip.

Bob Haley is shortstopping as shortfielders should for the Winthrop club. Summan may get into the Winthrop box.

THE MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE clashes on today are especially good. Watertown and Arlington put on a scrap at Arlington, with Smith twirling for the visitors and Lane or Gaw for the home club.

Winchester goes to Woburn to meet strong opposition. Woburn has Buck Weafer ready to toe the mound and the rest of the club packs a batting punch.

Wakefield is busy with Melrose in another game which should be attractive to Mystic Valley fans.

Other games billed today: Worcester Academy at Williston, Bridgeton at Kent's Hill, Nashua at Lowell, Norwood at Walpole, St. Peter's at St. James', Cushing Academy at Deerfield, Tabor Academy at Belmont Hill, St. George's at Middlesex, Dedham at Framingham, Pomfret at Taft, Athol at Turners Falls, Vermont Academy at Keene Normal.

The Fitchburg relay carnival and the Amherst interscholastics divide the attention of scholastic track fans today. The former affair is devoted solely to relay racing and many stellar teams have entered. Medford, Arlington, Brockton, Newton, Lynn Classical, Boston Commerce, Brookline, Lowell, Lawrence, Fitchburg, Mechanic Arts and Methuen are some of the outstanding competitors.

Andover and Exeter meet in a dual track meet at Andover today with Exeter favored to defeat the Blue. Kollmyer and Goodell are expected to star for Exeter. The return of John Ramsey gives the Exeter team strength in the high hurdles.

The annual regatta of the Schoolboy Rowing Association will be held on the Charles river today at 4:30.

The public school race will see Lynn Classical, Springfield Tech, Springfield Central, Lynn English and Springfield Trade striving for rowing laurels.

Browne and Nichols crew of Cambridge is the favorite to win the private school race in which Belmont Hill, Kent school, Noble and Greenough and Tabor Academy are participants.

YALE CREW IS GIVEN STIFF WORKOUT

New London, Ct., June 1—Yale's varsity crew was given a stiff paddle this evening notwithstanding the sizzling temperature. Starting at the upper mile mark of the Thames river course, the crew headed for the big drawbridge four miles distant and there was no let up in the paddling until the shell crossed the finish line scarcely two feet north of the bridge abutments.

Coach Ed Leader, in the bow of the launch Boola, watched his charges closely. The unusually warm weather was very trying on the oarsmen, but they were all erect and apparently in fine physical condition at the finish.

After resting for about five minutes the boat was headed up stream and indulged in another long distance paddle. There was practically no wind in evidence while the crew was on the course and a strong tide was running out.

K. C. BIDS FOR BIG MAT BOUT

Apparently the country is looking forward to a return match between Gus Sonnenberg and Ed Strangler Lewis, heavyweight champion of the world.

A week ago, Jimmy Brown manager of Sonnenberg, received an offer of $100,000 for Sonnenberg to defend his title against Lewis at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles.

He has received the following offer from Gabe Kaufman, Kansas City promotor: "Will guarantee Sonnenberg $70,000 to wrestle Lewis here some time in July. Will back Seals 29,000. Please wire confirmation."

At the same time, Paul Bowser, local promoter, received a letter from Billy Sandow, manager of Lewis, asking him to use his influence to force Sonnenberg to give Lewis a return match.

"As a favor to you," the letter ran, "we wrestled Sonnenberg when he was only a punk kid. You know that Lewis shouldn't have been in the ring the night he lost his title, and you know that Sonnenberg promised him a return match. He can get $100,000 guarantee in Los Angeles, or $70,000 in Kansas City. Do what you can, Paul, and I'll give you the first shot with Lewis when he wins the title back."

Apparently the Lewis forces are launching a tremendous publicity campaign all over the country in an effort to force Sonnenberg into the ring for a return match. The fine hand of Billy Sandow was seen in the recent action of the Pennsylvania commission, which suspended Sonnenberg for not meeting worthy opponents. Sandow, on the story goes, manipulated the suspension, and as a result, Gus stands suspended in Pennsylvania, New York and Illinois.

At the same time, tremendous blasts of ballyhoo have come from the Far West and middle West. The Lewis people are hot after Sonnenberg.

HERMAN LEADS B. C. BATSMEN

Pete Herman, Boston College's big left-fielder and pitcher, is still in the lead for the Heights Cup, emblematic of heavy-hitting honors at B. C., with two weeks of the season to go.

It seems almost certain now that Herman will snatch the cup this spring from Al Weston, who won it a year ago. Herman is hitting for better than .500. He made two hits against Fordham and one against Holy Cross when the B. C. team managed to get but two hits in each contest.

The B. C. nine has but eight more games to play. Herman has hit every pitcher he has faced this spring.

Y TENNIS TEAM OPENS SEASON

Boston Y. M. C. A. tennis team opens its season this afternoon with a match on the Y courts with the City Point Club at 2 o'clock.

The team selected for opening the season is Capt. Richard Baker, J. V. Peard, H. A. Nickerson and Guy Gregory.

Difficulty has been encountered in the preparation of the Y tennis schedule for the season as many of the tennis clubs have been late in getting started this year and have not been able to arrange their matches.

A list of those teams with which the Y is negotiating for games includes several suburban teams and Ys of Brockton, Providence.

Maryland Meets Navy in Lacrosse

University of Maryland's lacrosse team, which defeated Johns Hopkins in Baltimore the past week-end, 6-to-2, meets Navy at Annapolis today. Tilden, Hunter Lose; Helen Wills Wins

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Auteuil, France, June 1 (INS) —Upon the capable shoulders of Helen Wills, the peerless Californian, rest America's hopes in the French hard court championships.

By advancing to the finals of the women's singles at the expense of Eileen Bennett, the English star whom she beat today 6-2, 7-5, she became the only American remaining in the tournament.

American chances in the men's singles went agonizingly today when Bill Tilden was defeated by the resurgent Rene Lacoste, the French star, in a hard fought four set semi-final match. The score was 6-1, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3.

Just a little while before Francis T. Hunter, America's number two tennis man, had been defeated by the Aussem, in the semi-finals today, flashing Jean Borotra, in a five set quarter-finals match which was begun yesterday, interrupted by darkness and continued today.

The finals, of course, will be an all-French affair. Borotra and Henri Cochet will meet tomorrow in the remaining semi-final, and the winner will play Lacoste for the championship on Monday.

"Queen Helen" will be opposed in the finals tomorrow by Mme. Mathieu, the French star. The latter defeated the German girl, Cilly Aussem, in the semi-finals today, flashing Jean Borotra, in a five set quarter-finals match which was begun yesterday, interrupted by darkness and continued today.

Dedham Boy Wins School Golf Title

By BILL GRIMES

FOR 35 holes Wilford Crossley of Dedham high school and [illegible] T. Parker of [illegible] battled neck and neck in the interscholastic championship at the Quaker Country Club, but Joe Keon on hiles up on the home hole and the Dedham boy emerged away the champ[illegible]

Going into the final round this morning Parker was leading Crossley by one stroke, having turned in a 73 for the first round against Crossley's 74. Crossley caught his opponent at the 21st hole, where he ran down a fine putt for a birdie two and went out in front at the 23d, where Parker failed to get home in two.

Going to the 25th hole Crossley was aided with his second, taking a five, and they were all even again as Parker got his par four.

They were dull on even terms going to the 31st hole, where the Exeter boy pushed his second shot to the right of the green and then missed another shot winding up with a 6.6 against Crossley's five

HOWEVER, Parker pulled up on even terms again at the short 32nd where Crossley was short from the tee and failed to chip close enough to get down in one put

Crossley squared the match again at the 34th where, after putting the second shot over the green he just missed the par

At the 35th hole Crossley was over again with his second and needed two putts to get down for a five and as Parker got a regulation 4, they were all even again

From the 36th tee Parker missed his drive. The lad landed in the trap where he missed two shots, and wound up with a nine hole. Crossley got a five to win the first interscholastic championship with 146. Three strokes better than the runner-up.

Joe Pezzullo, Rhode Island State boy, ran [illegible] three, with Joe Pezzullo got into a great deal of trouble and was unable to break 80 Right on his heels behind Pezzullo was Arthur McCarthy of St. Johns Prep while Joe Lynch, Massachusetts junior and reddy champion by virtue of a fine 74 today, tied for fifth place, with Steve Hopkins of Exeter's school

Duelberg to Race Chapman Tonight

FRANZ DUELBERG, the sensational German cyclist, will have another chance to outride George Chapman tonight when these two meet in the 40 mile paced race the feature event at the Revere Cycle Track.

Francesco Zucchetti, the Italian, and Larry Gaffney of Ireland are the other entrants.

Tonight's race will be of the grudge type with Duelberg aching to get even with Chapman for the latter's victory at the beach, local last week. Duelberg is new to the motorcycle game, but has come along so fast that he is considered an outstanding candidate for the American title.

Last week he trailed 10 yards behind Chapin for almost an hour's race, only to fall behind in the final mile. But then his backers claim he hadn't the gas or speed the race and slowed up on this account. As it was, he was only a little more than half a lap behind Chapman when the race finished.

Zucchetti will be the rider to be watched, with the most eyes on tonight. Always a consistent performer, he seems to have at last found himself, and has been practically "flying." Francesco (pronounced frank) fears no one, but Duelberg, and thinks the little fellow may win the title, if he does not succeed.

Gaffney, the fourth entrant, has won his share of races at the Revere track. When at his best he is as fast as any of them, and fans are hoping he will be in good form tonight.

If he is it should be one of the best races of the season for Gaffney is constantly jumping his opponents and is never content to let another set the pace.

In the semifinal event, Walter Mackenzie and Allen Prudzic will team up against Chick Meyers and Jackie Lawton in a special handicap race of three one-mile heats. This kind of racing, with two men on the same bike, has always made a big hit with Revere fans.

HAGEN DEFEATS COMPSTON, 1 UP

Blackwood, Eng., June 1 (INS)—Walter Hagen, American holder of the British open golf championship, defeated Archie Compston, the long-range British professional, one up, today in 36 holes of match play.

Hagen's defeat of the Britisher put him retrieved his prestige from the setback received yesterday at Moor Park, where Compston defeated him eight up and seven to play.

Hagen was followed a rally after he had started on the first nine holes of play in the morning round, when he found himself four down on the 18th hole. It then seemed possible that today's result would be a repetition of yesterday's play—but not wrong.

However, Sir Walter took a grip on himself, and in the remaining 27 holes of play liberally sprinkled his card with twos and threes, with the result that he had squared the score at the end of the morning round.

The afternoon play was a whipsaw affair. Compston was one up on the turn, but it was anybody's game right up until Hagen had holed out at the final green.

IOWA'S PLEA TO BE HEARD

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—Solution of the University of Iowa's troubles in the big ten today was definitely in sight. Decision to hold a hearing to consider Iowa's petition for reinstatement in the western conference group was announced last night by Professor George A. Goodenough of the University of Illinois, chairman of the faculty committee on athletics.

Professor Goodenough said he had been directed by the other members of the committee to call a meeting with Iowa officials, at which P. E. French of Ohio State University, and Professor James Page, of the University of Minnesota, with Goodenough, will represent the faculty body, he said the meeting would be held at Chicago "some time next week."

STANFORD OFF TO GOOD START IN I. C. 4-A'S

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

Franklin Field, Philadelphia Pa., June 1. Stanford University was off to a running start in its impending capture of the intercollegiate track and field championship this afternoon when Lloyd Rothert and Ellis Krenz finished one, two in the hottest opening event on the final day's program.

Rothert's game record of 47 feet 9 inches made Krenz stand up over night although Krenz, 1928 champion and record holder made it very close by doing 50 feet a inch.

His effort carried him from fourth to second place over Barney Ewell, Penn State star. Dave Adelman, Georgetown, ninth at the 40 mile mark, bettered yesterday's performance. They gave Stanford 8 points toward the title.

CARDINAL TRIUMPHS.

The javelin throw followed immediately thereafter to give the Cardinal six more. The event went to Lee Kabo at yesterday's record distance of 204 feet, 7 inches. Emery Curtice, like Krenz in the shotput was the only entry to improve overnight, the University of California man jumping from sixth to second place with a toss of 200 feet 2½ inches.

It was an All-California final. Ken Churchill another Golden Bear, finishing third, J. P. Mortensen, Southern California, fourth and R. H. Sparling, Stanford, fifth. Dave Myers, New York University negro, took the only Eastern scoring at the end of Krenz's toss. He was eliminated in the first series of the today.

A favoring wind blew behind Collier for his 14.3-5 effort and the same agency helped H. Dyer, Stanford, and Karl Wilkinson, Georgetown, team the two semi finals of the 220 yard low hurdles. Wilkinson from the beat all the way to head Reggie Brandon, Pittsburgh, by inches. Then a yard at the wire Dyer, away poorly, had to come with the speed of an evil wind to nose out Ray Harwood 5 minute and Dwight Daley, Holy Cross, on his way in the

Bowes unfortunate loss in the finals meant that he still was in a position to carry forward his ambitious program of running the races within a period of 1 minutes. A semi final of the 880 yard run, the quarter mile and the final of the hundred

Pari-Mutuel King Defends System

"Whenever some folks need exercise, and there is no gymnasium nearby, they tune up their muscles by tossing bricks at machine wagering," quoth Joe Cattarimich, who is called "Pari-Mutuel King."

Cattarimich who [illegible] manages—or does manage—a dozen [illegible] odds.

"Through many years, insurance [illegible] tions or changes have been made that, within the pari-mutuel department, there is always cheating and consequent fleecing of the gambling public. The indictment is broadly thing that either those who conduct the pari-mutuel plants, or some of the employes, with one form or another of hanky pan and gain profit for themselves through the [illegible] passing off less on winning tickets than the public assumes [illegible] just

NO CHEATING

"And yet, out of [illegible] of pari-mutuel wagering in scores of races during which perhaps a billion dollars has been handled there has not come to light one specific instance of proven cheating. Certainly with a system under suspicion for so long and with countless thousands watching it so closely through three decades, dishonesty if it existed, would have been uncovered.

"I concede that the system does admit the possibility of cheating. But as manager of these mutuels I have thrown every possible safeguard around the handling of the money and the tickets. So has the manager of every other plant in full realization that perpetuation of my contracts to operate the mutuels depends upon rugged honesty. I have employed only such men I could trust to the hilt and, even then I have had other men check them up on all calculations and tabulations.

IT TOO MANY.

"The method of mutuel handling is such that, if cheating were done, it would be necessary for about 8 to 12 men to be in on the steal. The various calculations would have to juggle figures, the final auditor would have to be included in the crooked dealing, and no small [illegible] men who count the money and the unsold tickets and compare their tabulations against the figures of the calculators as I audit.

"If the manager of the plant decided to steal, he would have to [illegible] at least nine employes into his confidence. And then, he would always be in the dangerous position of having one of his own [illegible] the finals meant that he still was in a position to carry forward his ambitious program of running the races within a period of 1 minutes a semi final of the 880 yard run, the quarter mile and the final of the hundred

PRENTISS IN BIG CARPET COMPANY

By FRANK H. MELLON
Financial Editor

John W. Prentiss, of Hornblower & Weeks, has entered the textile field through his election to the directorate of the big Mohawk Carpet Mills Co. Big investment houses are taking an increasing interest in textile affairs, as is evidenced by the recent financial deal, now, that we told you in a recent issue. The spirit free from all reason of the turn of life in this country has become so strenuous that we give short shrift to the dead of the past when we have living testing place in more valuable and forget them. Wholesome is it, therefore, that we are one of the year graduands are not wholly muted from our thoughts by the gayeties of the end of the contest in the market place.

Ford a billion dollars for his company a few years ago.

Mr. Prentiss' idea was to recapitalize the Ford Co., basing the work on a fair valuation of the physical assets earning power future possibilities and financial repute of the stock would then have been sold to the general public. Mr. Prentiss believes the billion-dollar deal would have proved highly profitable. Mr. Ford did not, and the Prentiss the company was not for sale at any price.

As the world's wealthiest citizen, Mr. Ford could well afford to forget all effort that Mr. Prentiss had the right idea seems evidenced by the worldwide rush to buy stocks in the foreign Ford companies.

When the price of copper continued to slip recently, the pessimists declared many substantial cuts in copper would be forthcoming. We expressed doubt as to whether these substantial cuts would prove acceptable. Now it appears that, instead of finding substitutes, the consumers have been finding new uses for copper. In the erection of public buildings, skyscrapers, factories and power plants the ever expanding demand for rustproof copper and its alloys, also pure and bronze products has been created. Thompson started Copper Co. says that the American people have invested more than $32,000,000,000 in new buildings since the war and forecasts an expenditure of $7,500,000,000 for 1929.

This vast building program means much for the copper industry. Many non-ferrous copper pipes, tubes, valves and connections from street mains to houses. Monel-in, Nickel has begun to use the copper tubing from mains to curb installations after making several tests in which it found a substitute for lead-lined pipe which after two years installation, had corroded so that it had to be replaced. In view of the fact that architects and builders are specifying copper roofing, brass fittings in commercial buildings and all first class residences it is not surprising to find that copper and brass are playing such an important part in construction work of all descriptions.

The Boston News Bureau says: "By throwing a spotlight into the public the Federal Reserve Board has accomplished many things. It has increased the cost of doing business to the manufacturer and merchant, to the broker and investor and to the public in general. It has cut down trading on the New York Stock and other exchanges, and this means less revenue to the organizations of brokers. So far this year the income of the public in stocks bought and sold has been far below what it was in the corresponding period last year. This indicates that federal taxes from Wall Street will be less by several hundred million dollars. New York State has been paying one-quarter of the country's tax bill, and the greater part of it has been coming from Wall Street."

"No announcement" is the favorite report on the redistricting that when Federal Reserve banks of the dozen different districts meet these days, at these meetings no important rate rates without approval of the Federal Reserve Board. Attention naturally centers more on Washington sessions than on the local meetings.

Boston Five Cents Saving Bank opened a branch office in the Roxbury today at 1006 Center st., at the corner of Park st. This is the fifth branch established by the 75-year-old savings bank. The Boston Five Cents Savings Bank was started in May, 1854, in a store under the Second Universalist Church at 23 School st. The bank has always been located at this address except for two years, at the time that its present large bank building was being constructed. In the 75 years of its existence the bank has opened more than 1,000,000 accounts and its active assets at present total $60,000,000. Its resources have grown in these 75 years from $1842.47, which was deposited on the opening day to $101,344,787 on April 15, 1929. These total resources make the bank the largest savings institution in New England.

The new branch of the bank in West Roxbury will extend every possible mutual savings bank service to that locality. The new office will be under the direction of Bernard M. Berry, as manager, who started with the bank 25 years ago as messenger, and has worked his way steadily up to his present position.

To Whom Does America Owe Most? What's Your Answer?

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, June 1.—Memorial Day, in December Day, is dedicated to her record war.

Is a day coming when America will do more than is needed to be thankful, but heroes of industry, of invention, of engineering, of science, of transportation, of salesmanship, of heroes adding immeasurably to the enrichment of daily life, of the standard of living in this land?

We do well to strive to keep fresh in the memory of the sacrificial dead; now, that we are on in a recent spirit free from all reason of the turn of life in this country has become so strenuous that we give short shrift to the dead of the past when we have living testing place in more valuable and forget them. Wholesome is it, therefore, that we are one of the year graduands are not wholly muted from our thoughts by the gayeties of the end of the contest in the market place.

This democracy prides itself on its worn of titles of rank titles of nobility—every American it is our boast a sovereign.

Yet we are not blind to the fact as worthy of being honored as any other nation in the world. We do have titles for Army and Navy officers and diplomatic nations also. We have titles for those achieving distinction in the educational world and in other branches of the intellectual world.

Our institutions of learning grant honorary degrees, carrying honorary titles to the intelligentsia. In the world of politics no lawmaker can be humble to be given a "handle" to his name, a handle insatiable retained all through life.

But when we come to the world of practical affairs to the world of commerce and industry and finance, manufacturing and trade there are nothing but plain Misters.

Now who are the men who have done and are doing most to improve the standard of living a hundred and twenty million beings?

Who have done most to make the nation's standards of living high for the rank-and-file of the people the envy of every other land on the face of the earth?

Who have made it possible for America to enjoy as many automobiles per capita as Europe, to have a telephone equalling one for almost every home, to have radios in the hands of the people, to have twice as many savings accounts as

Col. E. A. Deeds, director of Pratt & Whitney Co. and United Aircraft & Transport Corporation warns against public enthusiasm that threatens to make the sky the limit in investing in aviation securities. Declaring that birthrate of aviation companies far exceeds that of automobile companies in the early days of the industry, he predicts that the majority will fail into oblivion with similar rapidity. Two hundred and thirty aviation companies are already incorporated, with the stocks of 60 enjoying active trading, and the public impatient to plunge on the issues of the other 170 as soon as the securities can be printed. Market value of the first 60 companies is placed at $830 150,000 After entrance of the other companies, he says, a shake-down is likely when the public tires of prospects and asks for earnings statements.

Henry L. Doherty, New York capitalist, addressing the 24th convention of the American Gas Association, predicted that within a few years there will be but "the only fuel used for heating homes of America. He credited himself with introduction of the fuel-heating boiler and gas and stated that he was firmly convinced that his judgment was right. Mr. Doherty's was from the belief that the great future for gas is in large-scale heating field.

Asks Annuity for Policeman's Widow

Senator Joseph J. Mulhern of Dorchester has filed a petition in the legislature that the city of Boston be authorized to pay an annuity to the widow of John F. Monteague, a member of the Boston police department. It was referred to the House rules committee for action on admitting the measure for consideration. It has already admitted the bill under suspension of rules and referred the matter to the committee on pensions.

HOT WEATHER AIDS TRADE, SAYS DUN'S

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston: Warmer weather has stimulated trade in the summer lines, but retail trade still is rather quiet. Considerable wool has been purchased from the Western growers during the past two weeks, but it is estimated that only about 20 per cent of the entire clip has thus far been taken by the dealers. The local market is somewhat more active as the manufacturers are beginning to purchase fairly large quantities. Offerings of the finer grades have not been large, and wool suitable for woolen goods has not been so active as the other grades.

CARPET WOOLS ACTIVE

A fair amount of activity is reported in carpet wools, prices on all lines are a little weak. Knitting yarns are quiet, and there is some call for weaving yarns for women's wear, but most other counts are rather slow.

New England mills are buying fair amounts of cotton, and the cotton gray goods market is quiet, fine goods are slow, and the mills are well sold ahead. Prices have been quite well maintained thus far. Cotton yarns are quiet, orders being mostly small. Prices of the better grades are firm, but most other kinds of yarn can be purchased.

Building lumber was quiet, but active business still is reported by dealers in the building trades. Reports continues from the automotive industry are from the trade cabinet makers. The market is firm. There is a steady volume of business moving in the heavier building materials. There is an active call for paints, and the wall-paper business is good. Building permits applied for in 55 Massachusetts towns and cities for April was 16,140,633 or 11.3 per cent less than the amount reported last year.

HIDE PRICES FIRM

Sales of pig iron in New England during the past week were about 3500 tons, of which only a portion went to the local foundry. Ordering for other districts is moderate, but there is a slight improvement. Dyestuffs are quiet, but there has been a fairly steady call for tanning material; prices are steady.

Shoe manufacturing is becoming seasonably slower, thought there is a fair volume of fill-in orders reported. Footwear leather is active but shoe manufacturers are buying sparingly; a fair amount of leather for footwear has been sold. There is more inquiry for upper leather, prices are steady, but generally somewhat firm, but few offerings are being made. Imports at Boston during the month showed a gain of 30% in more than made up by the gain in April.

Exports in March also were slightly below those of last year by 2.3%. Imports showed a gain during April, principally in the textile centers. There was an increase in employment in the boot and shoe trade, but some of the metal industries were short of help.

CONSUMPTION OF POWER UP

Electric power consumption is greater than ever before in the history of the Public Utility industry, according to the weekly report of the W. E. Foshay Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

The month of February showed an increase of 11% over the same month a year ago. Electrical consumption increased to a major degree below the Mason Dixon line and in the Central American countries.

Where Northern capital is being invested in the South and in the Central American countries than ever before and a greater portion of this investment involves the utilization of electrical energy.

As the Public Utility companies, telephone, electric power and light and telegraph use over 50 per cent of the world's supply of power, there has been a feeling in some quarters that returns of power companies were being negatively affected, because of the high price of copper and the tendency of utility expansion in territories where development is long deferred.

However it is doubtful whether the present high price of copper will continue for long, and even if it does, the increase in cost will be reflected in the assets of the companies through capital accounts affecting investment and not operating expenditures.

Any loss of revenue that the power companies may be losing by expansion in territories where adequate yields are deferred is offset by the increased use of power in other territories.

Economy is to be brought about through the many new uses that are being found for electric refrigeration and the increased power consumption tremendously in many territories.

All in all, the electric utility industry is in a fine position and the confidence the public and business have in electric utilities is reflected in the strong position electric utility shares enjoy.

Boston & Maine Official Resigns

Mortimer Silverman of Brookline, assistant to the president of the Boston & Maine railroad, has resigned to become chief engineer and assistant to the president of the United Merchants' and Manufacturers' Corp. It was announced today. Mr. Silverman in his new position again will be associated with Homer Loring, chairman of the Boston & Maine and now head of the textile corporation, with whom he was formerly connected for 17 years.

Boston Bids Made for Concord Loan

City treasurer of Concord, N. H., has awarded $100,000 loan to Salomon Bros. & Hutzler at 5.93 per cent plus a premium of $6. The only other bid received was from R. N. Bond & Co. at 6 per cent.

BONDS MIXED ON WEEK-END

New York, June 1 (INS) — American government and corporation bonds were mixed in the week-end market. The First Liberty, 3½ per cent, established a new high for the year on the list, and the First and Fourth Liberty 4¼s shrunk fractionally, the First 4¼ losing half a point to 103.16.

European and South American government bonds were unusually inactive, but were steady. French government 7½s sold up ⅛ at 112 and Australian 5s of '55 up ⅜ at 93¾.

The convertible industrials responded with gains of fractions to the firming up of industrial stocks. International Tel. 4½s sold up 3/4 at 122¼, and American T. & T. 4½s at 122, up ⅛. Railroad bonds were firm, with the best demand for prime mortgage issues of the Eastern roads.

Wall Street Gossip

SHERWIN, Williams Co. of Canada, Ltd., declared five cents extra and 40 cents initial quarterly dividends on new no-par stock recently split five-for-one, payable June 30.

DORR-OLIVER, treasurer of B. F. Schlesinger & Sons, said: "So far as I know there has been no negotiations between the Department Stores and B. F. Schlesinger interests."

STOCKHOLDERS of Hanover Fire Insurance Co. have approved increase in capitalization from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 stock and offering of rights for one share of stock at $60 a share for each two shares now held.

REPORTS from Youngstown district say steel industry there is operating at from 5 to 8 per cent under capacity, with manufacturers of sheets and strips booked from six to eight weeks ahead.

Durant Earnings to Offset Early Losses

Semi-official statement of Durant Motors, Inc., states company earned net profit in excess of $400,000 in April, offsetting loss of $307,000 for the first quarter of year. Approximate net profit is $100,000 for the first four months of 1929 in corresponding period of 1928 company had loss of $440,000.

COTTON PRICES RULE STEADY

New York, June 1 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points under some overnight selling orders brought in by the declines yesterday and the favorable early weather news.

Offerings were readily absorbed at the initial prices, however, and prices steadied up before the end of the first hour on covering and trade buying. July rallied from 18.10 to 18.18 and December advanced up from 18.47 to 18.53 or about 2 to 5 points net higher, but liquidation continued and the advance was not fully maintained, with the market quiet at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables reported London and Bombay selling absorbed by fair calling and covering at the decline in Liverpool.

First National's Earnings Larger

First National Stores, Inc., reports for year ended March 31, 1929, net profit after all charges, including depreciation and federal taxes, of $2,304,884, equal, after preferred dividends, to $4.06 a share on 626,618 shares of no par common stock. This compares with net a year ago of $1,393,358, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.09 a share on 586,000 shares of no-par common then outstanding, and with $3.36 a share of common in the 15 months ended April 2, 1927. Earnings for the latter period covered the initial period of the company's operations, representing a consolidation of the Connor, Gluer, O'Keefe and Derr chains.

Story of Love and Mystery in Gay Honolulu

CHAPTER 17

THEY were in her own room, under the roof which Big Tim provided for his family. If he had not been so very much in love with Ruth it would have hurt his pride tremendously to bring his wife back to her father's house. But Ruth had a way of making those she loved her see her viewpoint—quite little wheedling ways which Al adored in her. So Al forgot his resing toward Big Tim.

"Let's go to the movies tonight, dear," Ruth suggested. Entertainment in Honolulu was rather meager after one eliminated sports.

"What's on?" idly asked Al.

"Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman. They're always good. Come on, lazy bones," and she pulled him out of the deep chair into which he had fallen.

They ran down the garden path after they had shouted a gay good-bye to Selma.

"Some day we'll have a better car than this one to ride in, sweetheart," Al promised as he helped her into the limousine.

"All things come to him who waits," quoted Ruth. "Hope I don't have to wait too long."

"You won't. Just wait until I get started and I'll show the world I've got you to work for nowadays, sweetheart. You'll be my inspiration. I'll show your father that I can make good. Just give me a little time."

"I promised the minister today I'd love you until death do us part," reminded Ruth humorously. "You darling. And I'd like to see what could ever come between us now that we're married."

"Nothing, my own—all mine—sweetheart I love you so."

Al crushed her in his arms until she cried out for mercy.

"Old dear, if you don't mind, I'd like to live long enough to ride around in the limousine you promised to buy me some day."

They laughed gaily together. It takes so little to make one happy when life flows by like a song when two people are madly in love.

Movies in Honolulu produce almost as mixed a crowd as prize fights. One couldn't afford to be a high-brow in this funny outpost in the Pacific. You were thrown in with all the rest of the crowd.

They sat close together, their hands clasped, as the love scenes were enacted before them.

It seemed always to be moonlight in Hawaii, Don Carlos thought as he sat on the lanai of Eugenie's bungalow.

"I am supposed to be quite famous as a mixer," she had said as she dismissed him into the silence of the house. "The servants are asleep so I shall try to make a drink way off my own celebrity."

They had come to the Gray Gun saloon atop Tantalus after the successful first night presentation of Don Carlos' play, "Alien Blood." Only the fact that Eugenie could not share the honor box at the theater had marred the occasion for him. The writer had known from that his play would be hailed as a masterpiece and predicted its success when it reached Broadway, 5000 miles distant.

When Eugenie returned to the drinks she bore in her hands a carafe and two cocktail glasses upon a tray.

"To happier days." Don Carlos murmured as he drained the glass of its pungent beverage made from okolea bao and fruit juices. There seemed to be no words between them to fit the quiet happiness of the occasion.

Presently she picked up her guitar and began to play one of the lovely melodies of old Hawaii, singing the accompaniment in her charming contralto voice. Each tremulous note hung suspended in the air, casting out its challenge of beauty.

Never had Don Carlos felt as he felt now; never had he dreamed such bliss could exist.

He wanted to sing, he wanted to dance; in short, he wanted to hold in his arms this mysterious creature.

"Tonight belongs to us, sweetheart," he said. "You love me, Eugenie, dearest."

"Nights like these must only be recorded in our memory. After all, in those years to come—when memory paints everything with a soft and lovely tone—we can recall that we kept our illusions."

"But, Eugenie, my own—I cannot wait until I am old, until I have only memories to feed upon. I love you. Does that now mean something to you?" Eugenie, speak to me! Tell me!"

He looked into her eyes, saw there the same struggle which was being enacted in his own being. But he knew, also, that she was the stronger of the two.

Ominous footsteps on the gravel walk outside, slowly mounting the slope toward them. The blood of Eugenie Nahuli ran cold. The pulses of Don Carlos pounded quickly.

David Nahuli stood before them.

"My wife speaks words of wisdom, Don Carlos Whiting. And depart I must. It is a crucible."

Don Carlos looked helplessly at the woman standing between them. She had been at David's approach, her breath coming in short, quick gasps. She nodded her head slowly. She knew well the price she would have to pay for discovery.

"Very well, David Nahuli. But there will come a day of reckoning—I warn you."

"That is in the lap of the gods, Don Carlos Whiting."

David Nahuli looked at the woman before him. She read in his eyes concentrated hatred.

"Unfaithfulness is one attribute I never dreamed you capable of. I shall have to teach you another lesson." He rolled himself a cigarette. David Nahuli never appeared at a disadvantage; for grace of movement was his.

Her cold, measured glance met his, although her heart raced madly.

"You are too clever a woman to dissemble, my dear."

"Please drop an endearing terms between us. Come to the point at once."

"What else could a man think, coming home at dawn and finding a stranger within his gates?" I should say that a man with your mind, and living the life you do, David, could think anything vile."

What Has Happened So Far

Don Carlos Whiting goes to Hawaii after he discovers that his wife, Eve, is carrying on an affair with George Phillips, a neighbor. On landing he is accosted by David Nahuli, who offers him $2000 for delivering a black bag. He meets Eugenie, Nahuli's white wife. Phillips carries on his suit for Eve's love, but quarreling brings unhappiness. Don Carlos meets Selma Wilson, crippled mother of an unusual family, which includes a daughter, Ruth. The latter plans a companionate marriage with Al Harding, much to the disgust of her father, Big Tim Wilson. Nahuli orders him to carry the black bag again. Eugenie invites him to her cottage. She tells him he has been delivering opium in the black bag and warns him to evade the gang. Among revelations is that Nahuli forced her to marry him to save her father from prison. Don Carlos spends his time working on a play. He and Eugenie fall in love. On Ruth's wedding day Big Tim goes on a vacation—disgusted.

A SIX-DAY NOVEL

"Could refuse, couldn't you? Think Benz has a right to dress you up and send you out on a vamping expedition? Oh?"

"That isn't fair, Lanny. You've a right to hurt me so."

"A dark flush crossed his face and died, leaving him white. "And my wife has no right to go gadding about with a man like Rost." His eyes stormed at her. "I'm telling you it's the end."

Her cheeks flamed. She put a shaking hand on his arm, spoke in a whisper. "You mean that, Lan? To the end—for such a thing." Ah! call it the end, after everything that's gone. Yes—well—"

She turned and stumbled out.

A piece of work, Girl through—somehow. This was the end, he told himself after this. He could do that, make an end between them so.

Alan, after she had left him, sat down at his desk, shocked and ashamed. Gone too far; no need of this. Temper getting the best of him, wounding her as he had. It was not the end after all.

Alan said to Ione, "I'm sorry, Ollie—acted like a fool. I've oh, was been jealous of Ros. Try to forgive it and forget." He said it in a shame-faced way, eyes imperable.

She was only too eager to do that he asked. She forgave sincerely, understanding his hurt.

Papa Weimar gave her another ten dollars after a week now. She did not tell Alan.

Timmy had pneumonia.

A starchy nurse rustled about doing things expertly; at intervals the doctor came. And through it all Jenepher sat like a statue.

"Jo—she wanted everything for him! That's why I was doing it—all for him—"

Tom came for Ione on the third day and made her go for a tramp in the hills. "You're not to be making yourself sick, lass, in that place of sorrow. Ah, the little fellow! When he gets well—" He repeated this for the comfort it gave. "When he gets well he'll come home to Janey and me. We've been too long patient with the jaw of his mother."

"You think she'll be willing to give him up, then?"

"She's given up all else. Her home is but a house and her husband, a weary, disillusioned man. She'll not cling to him. She's a mess of some kind."

Ione walked over to the grimy old house west of Eighth Avenue, wondering.

"You're going away, Fluff?" Ione began kindly. "You're having your vacation now."

"I'm going with Blake. But not for a vacation. I'm going for good. Running away."

"But—"

"You don't see why I sent for you?" Well, you've been pretty decent to me."

"But Fluff, I don't understand. Mr. Blake hasn't discharged you?"

"No. Not yet. I'm going to talk about. You see—probably you know I've been in love with him.

"Anyway I s'pose I thought there was a chance for me with him if I could make him see me attractive. I tried hard enough. Spent all I earned on clothes, but you can't do anything with me attractive. I've tried hard enough. Spent all I earned on clothes, but you can't do anything with me attractive. I

The Feast of Corpus Christi is observed on the Thursday following Trinity Sunday. Corpus Christi signifies the "Body of Christ," and the Feast of Corpus Christi has for its motif the adoration of the Body of Christ in the Holy Eucharist.

First Christian Church

Boston and New England pilgrims who accompanied His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell to Rome received a major thrill when they visited the oldest Christian church—the Lateran Church of St. John, built originally by Emperor Augustine. In 1300 a large part of the old church was burned, but a portion of the old walls still can be seen. Space did not allow the entire picture which included all the pilgrims.

GOV. ALLEN TO WELFARE GROUP OF LAY CORNER-STONE

A new venture in church plans will take an initial step tomorrow afternoon when Governor Frank G. Allen lays a corner stone for the community church, Matapan and Milton. The ceremonies will begin at 1:45 with a band concert. The governor will make his address at 2 and will conclude his remarks by taking a trowel in hand and spreading mortar in readiness for the corner stone.

The Rev. Harold H. Cramer of this church will be master of ceremonies and introduce the speakers. Dr. Robert Watson, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, will represent his organization and bring greetings. Kenneth D. Johnson, chairman of the board of selectmen of the town of Milton, will speak briefly. Rev. L. O. Hartman, editor of Zion's Herald, will speak on "The Community Church," and the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Alan McL. Taylor, D. D., president of the Dorchester-Milton Fellowship.

Hoover and Indians Now Appointees

The Universalist organ, Christian Leader, comments in its latest issue on Hoover's appointees to the commission on Indian affairs. The editor writes:

"We have commented upon the admirable appointment of Charles J. Rhoads of Philadelphia as Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Equally admirable is the appointment of Henry Scattergood as his deputy. Mr. Scattergood is a Quaker and did valuable work with the American Friends service committee during the war. He was a member of the first commission which the American Red Cross sent to Europe during the war."

Dr. Watson on Newspaper Methods

Dr. Robert Watson has indicated his intention next Wednesday evening at the Rutland conference of Community churches to say his respects to a press which will become unfaithful to its readers and to the general public. He will mention newspapers that sell out to trusts, and to commercial interests, he says, examines for propaganda against the best interests of the general public. He says the churches are at present discouraged with a press which they do not believe takes religion and the spiritual life seriously.

Community

The Rev. Harold H. Cramer, pastor of the Parkway Church and Community Center, who has decided to make his Methodist church over into a Community church attended by communicants of many denominations. Already seven branches of Protestantism are represented. Governor Frank G. Allen will lay the cornerstone tomorrow. The church is in Milton, just beyond Matapan.

CATHOLICS SPEAKS

"Capitalism and Morality."

The Catholic Welfare Conference of Washington, D. C., quotes from a Jesuit priest's latest book, to arouse stockholders to their responsibility. The Conferences in part, say:

"The obligations of stockholders are discussed in the new book, 'Capitalism and Morality,' of Rev. Lewis Watts, S. J., professor of moral philosophy in Oxford.

"Stockholders who believe that after investing their money they need only receive dividends and protest when they consider these dividends 'too small' are 'by no means justified,' Fr. Watts says. 'As shareholders,' he says, 'they are part-owners of the company in which they hold shares. It is self-evident that no man may enjoy on an immoral business without offending against the moral law. It should be equally evident that no one may share in the ownership of a business which he knows to be carried on in violation of the moral law.'

A stockholder "must obtain what information he can and let his directors know that he sets more store upon morality than upon anything else." This, Fr. Watts says, is not impracticable even though the individual stockholder is conscious of a feeling of powerlessness." But the actual possibilities of influencing directors and other stockholders exists, Fr. Watts declares, and the possibility must be acted on.

Associations of stockholders and the formation of investment trusts, or holding companies, to bring to bear ones investing strength on the side of morality in business are methods Fr. Watts recommends.

Such matters as whether the profits are excessive, whether labor conditions are right, whether the prices charged are fair could be considered by the individual stockholder and associations of stockholders.

"The irresponsibility of shareholders is not in harmony with the dictates of the moral law," Fr. Watts continues, and some method must be found of meeting the responsibility "by gain moral approval to the limited liability system" now in force in corporations.

Seeks to Enlist Realty Owners

The Fort Smith, Ark., Real Estate Board is the latest member board of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to take some action toward the formation of a property owners division within its local organization by asking local realty owners to become associated with the board.

The Fort Smith board is the 28th local board to work toward a plan for the association of property owners and realtors in their work of dealing with civic and economic problems since property owner membership in local boards was recommended by the board of directors of the National Association at their latest mid-winter meeting.

April Building Gains Over March

During the month of April, $20,447,600 worth of new building and engineering work was contracted in Massachusetts, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The above figure was 9 per cent in excess of the March 1929 total, but there was a loss of 11 per cent from the total for April of last year.

New construction contracted for in Massachusetts since the first of this year has reached a total of $68,126,300, being a drop of 18 per cent from the amount contracted for during the corresponding period of last year.

REAL ESTATE OF THE WEEK

PLANE FLEET OF REALTORS GROWING

The airplane for the delegates of the Bridgeport, Ct., real estate board is the latest addition to the realtor fleet which is being formed at the suggestion of Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, to carry delegates to the association's annual convention to be held here, June 25 to 28.

From New Rochelle, N. Y., comes the report that convention delegates from that city will make the trip to Boston by plane. There will also be one plane in the fleet from Terre Haute, Ind.

The "Culver Special," a special convention train which delegates from California have named for the realtor chief, who is a Californian, will leave Los Angeles on June 20. Delegates from northern California and the Northwest will board the Culver special in Salt Lake City.

STEAMSHIP RESERVED

The Savannah, Ga., board has reserved the S. S. St. Louis for the trip to Boston and has invited the delegates from the boards of the following cities to make the trip from Savannah to Boston as guests of Savannah realtors: Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Albany, Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Valdosta, Ga.; Jacksonville, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Jackson, Miss., and Chattanooga, Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.

The San Antonio delegates have been invited to join the Washington, D. C., group on the Boston-bound trip and to make a Canadian tour with them.

The Philadelphia Real Estate Board will have a convention attendance of 150 delegates. Many realtors from the Quaker City will motor to Boston; others will go by boat.

HARTFORD COMING STRONG

The Detroit group plans to go by rail from Detroit to Toronto, by boat from Toronto to Montreal and on Quebec, and on a special train from Quebec to Boston.

The Hartford, Ct., Real Estate Board is aiming for a 300 per cent convention attendance, and the boards of San Francisco, Cal., and Covington and Newport, Ky., are among the boards planning for notably large delegations.

Other boards now making convention plans are: Kalazamoo, Mich., Real Estate Board; the Norristown, Pa., Real Estate Board; the Ashtabula, O., Real Estate Board, and the boards of Monroe, Mich., and Little Rock, Ark.

Why I Believe in Wollaston Realty

—By W. W. WILLSON—

MY own experience will probably best explain "Why I Have Faith In Wollaston Realty."

In 1915, after I had canvassed every section of metropolitan Boston for a place to build my home, I decided upon Wollaston. I bought a single lot, and put up a comfortable house. Later I purchased two extra lots, using one of them for the popular "Win the War" gardens.

This was the beginning; I enjoyed my home and enjoyed living in Wollaston; and during this period, of nearly 15 years, "my faith in Wollaston" has increased.

W. W. Willson

About the year 1922, I became interested in an 11-acre tract of land, I bought it, laid it out in house lots and sold them. There are now about 60 fine homes there. From that time on, due to the rapid growth and increase in property values in Wollaston, I purchased other real estate and my interests now are centered in Wollaston real estate.

I have found hardly an instance where property values have not maintained themselves or increased remarkably. There certainly is a feeling of satisfaction to invest one's money in a section and find that the investment has proven profitable and worthwhile. It naturally increases faith.

Some of the natural conditions that make for this satisfaction, are its convenient nearness to Boston, with the southern artery and boulevard recently completed; street car service connecting with rapid transit in Dorchester; New Haven train service to the South Station; our beach nearby; our boulevard system which is part of the metropolitan division; the Blue Hills at our doors; the South Shore nearby for motoring, etc. With good roads, all these features make Wollaston ideally located for the average family.

A good place to live in, and particularly for people of moderate means. Our industries are numerous and varied and possibility of future industrial development is evident.

(Other outlines of realty advantages in Greater Boston, as seen by prominent real estate men, will follow in "Real Estate of the Week.")

MALDEN HOME PROPERTIES IN SALES

Chas. W. Howard & Son reports the following sales through its Malden office: Grover C. Carver has sold a single, frame dwelling, with about 3500 sq. ft. of land. The property is taxed for $2300, of which $500 is on the 3500 sq. ft. The new owner, Frank Wheeler, of Malden, plans to occupy the property.

The property at 18 Forest st., Malden, has been sold to William O. Farrar of Malden. The property consists of a single, frame dwelling, with about 9000 sq. ft. of land and is assessed for $2200. Miss Julia M. Walsh of Malden gave title. The buyer purchased for a home.

Weston H. Palmer of Everett has purchased the property at 18 Cleveland st., Malden, from Warren D. Langiell of Malden. It is a new 6-room single dwelling, with about 4000 sq. ft. of land, and being new, is not yet assessed.

Papers have been passed on a lot of land on Oliver st., Malden, to Warren D. Langiell of Malden. The lot contains about 5000 sq. ft., and is taxed for $1000. George A. Runnels, formerly of Malden, and now of Maine, gave title to the land. The purchaser intends to build a 6-room single house for investment.

$20,100 Medford Property Sold

Chas. W. Howard & Son reports the sale of property at 109 Forest st., Medford, to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Giles of Cambridge.

The property consists of a large brick house, two-car garage and two lots of land, with total assessment of $20,100, the house being assessed for $19,000. The garage for $800 and the land for $6300.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles will make their home here and papers have gone to record. Gertrude F. Mahoney and Edward H. Mahoney were the grantors.

Corner Property Sold

The Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston has purchased from Giles G. Ham, the 1500 square feet and five-story brick building at 37 Chatham st., corner of Chatham row and Hanover sts. Whitcomb & Co. were the brokers.

ERIN TO HONOR MEMORY OF DEVOY

New York, June 1—Honors of the Irish Free State will be accorded the body of John Devoy, a member of the French Foreign Legion, veteran newspaper man and for many years a battler for Irish freedom which will be shipped from here to Dublin on Wednesday.

Devoy, who came to New York in 1871, after being banished from the United Kingdom for his anti-British activities, was credited with being the brains behind the rescue of John Boyle O'Reilly, founder of the "Pilot" in Boston, from Australia. Devoy later inducted O'Reilly into the Irish Republican Brotherhood.

Tuesday afternoon Devoy's body will be taken from the receiving vaults in Calvary Cemetery where it has lain since October 2 last year, to the National funeral parlors, 156 East 57th st. Irish and war veteran organizations will act as a guard of honor at the bier until the body is removed from the parlors will be taken to St. Malachi's church in West 49th st., for a solemn requiem mass.

Following the service the body will be taken to Hoboken and put aboard the President Harding, which will sail for Cork at noon. The body will be interred in Glasnevin Cemetery in Dublin.

John Devoy founded the Irish Nation, a weekly paper in New York, but it was compelled to suspend publication in 1885. In 1903 he became editor of the Gaelic American and remained in chief until his death, September 29, 1928.

'MARQUETTE 6' BUICK'S NEW NUMBER

Buick dealers throughout the country today are displaying the Marquette, a new six, produced and distributed by the Buick Motor Company, this car being the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models—two touring, sedan—four-door sedan—business coupe—sport coupe—a roadster and a touring car.

Harry K. Noyes, general manager of the Noyes-Buick Co., New England distributors, says of the car:

"The Marquette is an exceptionally large car in its class, having a wheel base of 134 inches. Prices on the car range from $965 to $1053.

"The six-cylinder L-head motor and the crank case are cast in one integral unit. The engine has a bore and stroke of 3½ inches by 4⅝ inches, and develops 67.5 maximum brake horsepower. Buick officials say Marquette has a remarkable quick acceleration, and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

"All models are designed along low swung rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator, which is covered with a metal grille, is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large section 28 by 5.25 balloon tires.

"The Marquette has a new non-glare Fisher VV type windshield, which may at any angle and to any degree from the perpendicular and reflects all glare, whether from rear, front or side, below the driver's line of vision.

"Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-Servo four-wheel brakes, an adjustable steering wheel, adjustable front seats, built-in bumper mountings and all chromium plated outside hardware. The soft, durable Marquette upholstery is waterproof, impregnated under a new process with a rubber solution.

3 Students Dropped for Snappy Stories

Northfield, Minn., June 1—Three Carleton College students held responsible for "disreditable by matter" in the "Algol," annual student publication, will be discharged, the faculty heads ruled.

The entire issue of the objectionable section of the book was not revealed by faculty members.

Two hundred copies of the books were seized from students and a notice was posted that 500 outstanding copies must be turned in. Sale of the books was stopped Thursday.

Iron Workers in Chicago on Strike

Chicago, June 1—As a result of an order issued by officers of the local and structural iron workers' union, effective today, it is expected work on 500,000,000 worth of new Chicago construction will be suspended indefinitely.

With the contractors engaged in this work standing to face financial ruin, 2200 members of the organization authorizing the strike will take themselves "jobless."

150,496 Pairs War Shoes to Be Sold

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The War Department today advertised for bids for 150,496 pairs of surplus service shoes stored in quartermaster depots at several posts in different parts of the country. The kicks were accumulated during World War.

A million-dollar corporation has been launched to install radios in automobiles.

Imagine a fellow stalled on a railroad crossing while some tenor sings, "The End of a Perfect Day."

Or the motorist who tunes in on "Fow Down and • Go Boom" every time he hits a pedestrian.

• • •

Anyway, the automobile radio will drown out—

1—Body squeaks.

2—Motor knocks.

3—Rear-end growls.

• • •

But it will certainly burn up a lot of used car buyers when the old dashboard speaker chirps, "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain."

POPULAR RACKETEERS

This is Apocalypse Doakes, the hat check concession magnate. He was the first boob to invent devices to quickly snatch all lit-cent tips and only leave quarters on the plate. He estimates that 99.7 of the people who check hats can thus be shamed out of an extra 15 cents.

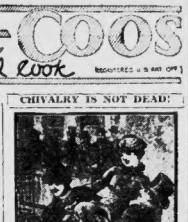
CHIVALRY IS NOT DEAD!



If you will take your camera out on the byways and highways you can snap many a picture that will revive your faith in your fellow man. It is just the thing to cure the cynic. And as the years go by you can keep thumbing your album and exclaim, "By George, the average man is all right in a pinch." The above picture shows two Pittsburgh dudes saving a favorite actress from pollution during the recent Louisiana floods in Ohio.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Will you contribute to the next Republican campaign, Mr. Sinclair?

SAY SHIPS ARE ROOT OF DOPE TRAFFIC

Washington, June 1—The Senate is just as determined as the House to smash the illicit opium traffic by legislation.

Members of the Senate Finance Committee said yesterday they would keep the anti- opium provision passed by the House, in the tariff bill. This provides owners of vessels where smoking opium is seized shall be subject to heavy fines. Penalty $25 an ounce.

As most of the dope being peddled on the streets of America is smuggled from abroad, congressional leaders agreed that one of the first steps needed to halt the traffic is to take steps against the ships engaging in the nefarious trade.

VOTE ON NEWTON CHIEF MONDAY

The question of allowing Chief of Police Bernard F. Burke of Newton to remain in office another year is scheduled for the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday.

Chief Burke passed the retirement age of 65 three years ago, but has been continued in office in accordance with a statute that empowers the board to retain him as chief from year to year until he is 70. His latest one-year term expires June 22.

The first time the chief applied for reappointment three years ago, the board voted unanimously to grant his request. A year later some opposition developed. Last year several aldermen carried on a more persistent fight to retire him.

HAD RUM CACHE IN ME. COURTHOUSE

Augusta, Me., June 1—As the result of a seizure of a can of alcohol in the Kennebec County courthouse Monday, two men have been found guilty on three charges and Willie Poulin, also of Augusta, on two charges by Judge Tiffin in the municipal court.

The can of alcohol found in the basement was traced to ownership of Roy and Poulin.

On the charge of illegal transportation Roy was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to three months in jail.

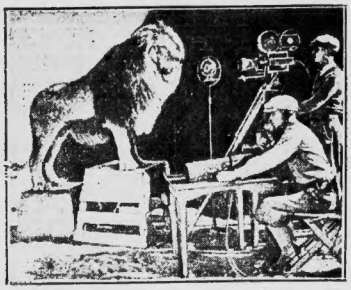
A Lion in the "Talkies"

If the Cave Ancestors Could See This



A HOLLYWOOD LION PERFORMS FOR THE TALKING PICTURES

Soon you may see and HEAR His Majesty Leo, King of Beasts, snarling, growling and roaring on the screen. The interesting thing in this picture, for men that think, is the fact that it is actually possible to reproduce, for sight and hearing, a lion's body and roar.

Thousands of years ago creatures of this kind pursued our ancestors through the jungle. Lions in hot Africa, tigers in India, giant white bears in the north, animals of all kinds followed our running ancestors. Sometimes those ancestors reached the cave entrance in time to roll a stone to the "door" and save themselves. Sometimes they climbed a tree, sometimes they jumped into water, where a big cat would not follow. Sometimes they were caught and eaten.

Which of those ancient ancestors could possibly have imagined this picture—men with no fear, training and "managing" a real lion, using the light of the sun and the mysteries of sound recording, to show the voice and figure of the huge beast to millions of human beings?

Anything that men imagine they can do.

We HAVE Our Troubles

And at Least We Have Good Gasoline

An intelligent young American woman, motoring with her husband in Spain, in an American automobile, writes:

"We came South through Geneva to Lyons, Avignon and so over Spanish border at Figuers. Barcelona, Valencia, Almeris, Granada and this city, Seville. Spain is ever so much vaster, more beautiful and fertile than I have ever imagined.

"But gasoline is much adulterated over here, which is bad for cars. Some Americans were in Granada with a big car; they had landed at Havre, and were much distressed by carbon in engine head."

We have worries of various kinds in the good old U. S. A. But at least at every corner you can get real gasoline and GOOD gasoline.

Give credit for that to well organized American "big business."

Big business has learned that it pays to sell good products at a fair profit. The days of wooden nutmegs are gone by.

It is true a certain amount of so-called "grp" gasoline, without any paternity or heredity about it, is sold at cut rates. But it is the fault of the motorist if he buys poor gasoline in America. Plenty of a good kind is offered to him at every turn. And the intelligent man when he buys gasoline or oil knows WHY he buys it, and WHO produces it.

Jazz Age Stands Anything

To add to the troubles of the British public, their aesthetic instincts are assailed by various forms of organized noise known as "election songs."

It is reported that song-books and song-sheets are broadcast by the million, and that the entire island is a-tremble from the harsh minstrelsy blasted from the radio towers.

The Conservatives chant a parody of the roast beef and ale ballad, "D'You Ken John Peel." Labor intones a war song to the tune of "Onward, Christian Soldier," with lugubrious and Puritanical effect. First prize goes to the Liberals, bellowing an adaptation of the sea ditty, "Billy Boy," and a chorus:

"But me porkers,
Aren't they corkers?
Oh, me charming Stanley boy."

After hearing that tasteful gem, with its porcine reference, one feels inclined to care little who makes a country's laws so long as they write in a stern penalty for people who perpetrate songs like that.

For all that, there seem to be few complaints of the racket. It may be that an age inured to jazz can stand anything.

A Chinese 'Reformer'

Marshal Feng, the "Christian General" of China, has forbidden fan-tan and even a dash of rice wine in the morning tea. He has even frowned on tobacco. Only lately he sentenced a captain to degradation before the army for the smoking of a cigar.

The culprit was quite severely reprimanded, and as if that were not enough, he was stripped of his epaulets. Then, after being slammed with a bastinado 400 times, he was led off to jail to serve a sentence of five years.

If Feng does not be more careful, he will almost certainly become unpopular with his men. In the provinces under his control there is a terrible famine, and funds are being collected in the United States for its relief.

What fanatic, ever bent on "reforming," ever fostered the real welfare of his land?

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

A fat woman has got her wish. She's wearing the trousers!

No debutante's summer wardrobe is complete without her beach pajamas, usually billowy knickers and riding breeches. Particularly for BEACH PAJAMAS!

Well, perhaps I'm becoming effeminate. But I've tried them all—and never in my life have I been so bitterly disappointed or so painfully uncomfortable.

For years I have secretly envied a man his clothes. Not for their intrinsic beauty, of course. I always knew there was no aesthetic reason for the eye-searing things that a man wears.

Look at a man in his shirt-sleeves, for instance—and what do you see? A waistcoat that wrinkles over the most shrinking front, and doesn't even come within kissing distance of his trousers in the back.

A shirt that bulges over the straightest military back, blouses in a haphazard, temperamental way over the belt, and crawls up in front, unless he is constantly nodding his head and looking it in. And trousers that balloon around his hips like twin loving cups, and are held on only by faith and a leather belt.

Only under the merciful covering of his coat, which seems to have been an after-thought, does a man look as though he were made "all in one piece."

And even then, when his trousers happen to creep up, you can see the bare legs, where his socks are divorced from the rest of his garments.

Oh yes, there is something so detached and "companionate" about a man's clothes. But I have always nursed the fond delusion that they WERE comfortable. And I have winced with self-consciousness every time a man got up on the platform and excoriated woman for her sartorial follies, and her sufferings in the name of fashion.

Never again! I take it all back! Distance no longer lends enchantment to the trouser leg now that it has ceased to be forbidden fruit.

You may have your trousers, after all! I'M going feminine! Next to a bad conscience, there is nothing so conducive to insomnia as a pair of pajamas that strangle your waist and wrap around your knees and give you horrible dreams even on a reducing diet.

Next to mustard plaster, there is nothing stickier or hotter on a July day than a cute little pair of knickerbockers! Or a pair of overalls!

Give ME my one-piece garments, my wild, free sports shirts, my fattering silk hose, and my soothing silk lullaby gown! Don't tell me any more bedtime stories about the comfort and utility of men's clothes!

You can never give me back my beautiful lost illusions!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Mrs. Dan Flagg is all smoked up at human nature.

It seems that in an impulsive moment she told Dan certain details of her girlhood days—which details Dan has cast up at her periodically ever since. Wherefore Mrs. Flagg requests that I write my meanest article on the following theme: CAN YOU BE FRANK WITH YOUR HUSBAND?

I comply with enthusiasm.

Can you be frank with your husband?

No, of course, you can't!

But that's no particular indictment of males.

You can't be perfectly frank with anyone—male or female—without incurring the possibility of a lot of unpleasant consequences.

And why should you expect immunity from consequences if you're frank?

Why demand superhuman honor and delicacy in the treatment of YOUR personal affairs?

Are YOU capable of superhuman honor and delicacy?

Can YOU forbear sitting in judgment on spilling beans?

No, of course, you aren't, and can't!

You're fallible.

They're fallible.

So that's that.

And, even if they were infallible, why should you expect other people to bear the burden of your disagreeable confession?

Haven't they enough unpleasant memories to hide around, without adding yours?

Confidences are supposed to be a compliment to the confidee. As a matter of fact, they're anything BUT. It's no treat to have someone thrust a lot of intimate personal data upon you. Dynamite is actually safer. For if you have the sense God gave a goosebery you know they'll be maddern hops next day.

Mad at themselves?

No, indeedy!

Mad at YOU, because you've got something on them!

Nor are confidences inspired by deep trust and affection, as is sentimentally supposed. Nine-tenths of them are merely inspired by a love of gab, and the gabber has no one but himself to blame if his wagging tongue brings him to grief.

CONSUME YOUR OWN SMOKE!

ASH, THE SMOKIER THE SMOKE, THE MORE REASON FOR CONCEALING IT.

DON'T GIVE WAY TO SELF PITY BECAUSE YOU HAVE TO KEEP YOUR BUSINESS TO YOURSELF.

THANK GOD, INSTEAD, THAT HE GAVE YOU A HINGE IN YOUR JAW SO YOU CAN.

AND USE IT!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, June 1—There is not much left of old Tin Pan Alley save memories. In other days ancient brownstone fronts west of Broadway in the Forties were sliced up into cubicle rooms and hundreds of pianos rattled accompaniment to the lyrical odes to love, sky and moon.

Many flouid types with high-heited coats and bamboo canes came out of Tin Pan Alley to be tagged by Broadway as celebrities. The district spawned such popular idols as Irving Berlin, Earl Carroll and the redoubtable George M. Cohan as among those who made the proverbial cleanup.

Song writers were exuberantly odd products of the feverish Broadway whirl. If one of their tinny inhibitations registered a success their creators slammed down piano lids, bought sporty roadsters and became White Way playboys until the rent was overdue.

But all that is ended. The song writer lives by rule-another spreckel in the mechanistic age. In Hollywood he punches the clock since The Alley "went talkie." The incumbant money is in "theme songs." In this way a song is sung simultaneously in 12,000 or more theaters.

Song sheet sales are thus ballooned to a new peak. The "Sonny Boy" tune became so highly popularized by Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool" that the music publishers were two months behind in orders. Song lyricists such as Buddy De Sylva and scores of others spend most of their time on the coast.

The Warner Brothers movie outfit took over Witmark & Sons, a leading music publishing house, four months ago. Other cinema concerns are in the market to buy important publishing firms as a very useful and profitable by-product of the talkie business.

Thus the Tin Pan Alley boys are no longer the happy-go-lucky swashbucklers of the Big Canyon. They are under stiff contracts on a salary and percentage basis, and must be at the office at 9 o'clock and remain until 5 with an hour out for lunch. And all they have lost is the customary headache.

The most bewildered policeman in town got that way as the result of a naive gentleman leaving a midtown hotel asking to be directed to a place called Jimmy's. There are only about 800 Jimmys in a mile radius of Times sq.

A new hoop-de-doo in the ladies' rooms of big hotels during the crowded dinner hour. An exquisitely groomed girl swoons and is revived in hysteria. Everybody seeks to comfort her and in the excitement a confederate gathers up vanity bags and often an expensive wrap or two and skedaddles.

Hoboken in the past few months received hundreds of columns of free advertising. Yet the "better element" is disturbed. An organization is being effected to purge it of its aura of Bohemian Epicharmia. "Hoboken does not wish to become another Greenwich Village," says a sponser. So that is that a!

The story is told of one of those overbearing young four-flushers whose militancy is manifested in brow-beating waiters. He was in his bath when an aged servitor brought his breakfast. He called out from the bathroom to a friend who waited him: "Give the old fellow a quarter and tell him to take it on the lam." As the venerable waiter departed, he took a faded picture from his pocket and said: "Give this to the young gentleman and tell him he may keep the change." The picture was that of the waiter. And the youth, looking at it, recognized his father.

The New York police department admits there are 32,000 speakeasies in the metropolitan area. The commissioner says two bottles of booze and a room make a speakeasy. He neglects to mention a policeman.

A press agent plotting a surprise is asking "a select group of newspapermen" to be on hand one midnight shortly to see the artistry of "the most dynamic figure on the stage today." And if it turns out to be one of those high-jumping he-cows-fee-me singers, the fatal shot will be fired by the hollow-eyed wreck in seat D-4.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Every boy hopes for the day when he will be a big taxed man with a shooting permit to gang a lion in his lair.

Shooting a lion, even in its most amusing stages, is a serious business.

No matter how old a lion is, he is never a town clown.

He is the one out of the five who never get dental trouble, and his claws have never shaken hands with a manicurist.

So you cannot blame Dick Douglas, Dave Martin and Douglas Oliver for getting all blimped up over their African exploits with the Martin Johnson expedition.

These three Boy Scouts have each supported a grown lion in his home office in the third congressional district of Tangany, Ka.

An idea of the terrors of the jungles of Tanganyika can be gained by looking at a war map of Cicero, Ill.

Dick, Dave and Douglas were intrepid jungleers. Each got his lion on the hoof. Thereby qualifying for membership in the Harvard Club at the age of 14.

The opposition to the African expansion of lion-tugging on half-fare tickets was due to fear of the effort on the other boys of America.

There are only about 800 Jimmys in a mile radius of Times sq.

Will the boys who stayed home seek to emulate the glorious deeds of Dick, Dave and Douglas? Will they track the elusive goldfish in his bowl and trail the crackers-eating parrot in his cage?

Will they be satisfied with helping the puzzled tourist to find the least common denominator of a twisted detour? Or will they insist on the more manly game of plinking war arrows at Granny's bustle?

Personally, we think there will be an encouraging stimulous to the applications for enlistment in the Boy Scouts for the duration of the pleasant weather and sunshine.

If we could have our way we would be Boy Scouts all our lives and stroke the bristle policed coconut the more, while when the sunset applied his fire-opal to the rolls of fat on the back of our neck and teach the wandering boy scout how to tell artificial flowers from the genuine.

But there is one thing which would puzzle us. When a cat is chasing a sparrow, which one is the dumbest animal? Should we rescue the sparrow and deprive the kitten of its meal? Or should we kick the cat in the slats and save the sparrow?

If we could answer this question we would apply for a delayed membership in the Scouts tomorrow.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Sometimes a breath of purer air
Blows down; though men know not from where,
They feel its tonic coolness creep
To stir their sluggish brains from sleep.

And so it was her message came
To fan a feeble spark to flame:
As silent as a breeze that brings Good cheer and healing on its wings,

To every life here touched she brought
Some gentler deed, some braver thought,
Some impulse towards earth's better ways
That changed the currents of men's days.

She gave to them such fleeting things
(Light, light the touch of angel's wings!)
Yet in their thoughts new gladness woke,
And hope through all their beings spoke

She brought a breath of purer air,
A breeze blown down from heaven,
to share
Her wings!) with all souls that went Oppressed, athirst and discontent.
